

Superintendent of Air Mail Eager to Read Flight Story

Looking Forward to It With Keenest Interest, Says Carl Egge; All Omaha Will Want It.

"The publication of the exclusive story of the world fliers' trip will be one of the greatest scoops ever made by an Omaha newspaper," Carl F. Egge, superintendent of the air mail service, declared Monday when he was informed that the story, told by the six Magellans of the air, was to start in The Omaha Bee November 24. "The story will be of particular interest in Omaha because the fliers stopped here and because Omaha is becoming one of the greatest aviation centers in the United States," Mr. Egge said. "I am looking forward to it with the keenest interest, and I am sure that everyone in Omaha will want to read every word of it." The story, told by the aviators in their own words, is one of the most thrilling features ever published in Omaha, and describes the arduous and adventurous trip in detail, from the first preparations to the final arrival in Seattle. Lowell Thomas, author and explorer, was selected by the War department to collaborate with the intrepid aviators in putting the story on paper. The narrative of the aviators' adventures will be keenly awaited in Omaha, for the entire city caught a glimpse of the aviators when they stopped in Omaha overnight on their way to the Pacific coast in September. The Omaha Bee was largely instrumental in persuading the fliers to make the coast-to-coast trip by way of Omaha, for The Bee joined with the Chamber of Commerce in urging officials at Washington to plan the route to include this city. It is appropriate, for that reason, that The Bee should publish the exclusive story of their entire trip.

Warring Couple May Be Reunited by Baby's Death

Prisoner Released From the County Jail to Attend Funeral of Five-Weeks-Old Daughter.

Virginia Payne's span of life was but five short weeks. Monday afternoon the tiny casket was being borne to its final resting place after services at 2023 Locust street. But her passing may be the means of reuniting Virginia's father and mother, William Earl Payne and Gladys Payne. There are also two older children, Doris, 2, and Harold, 16 months. Earl was arrested last Saturday on a charge of failure to support his wife. Monday morning she came to District Judge Day and asked to have him released to attend the funeral. "He loves the baby, even though he never saw her alive," said the young wife. The judge accompanied her to the county jail, where he talked with Payne. Tears were in the prisoner's eyes and voice. "I must go, judge," he said. "I am impressed with your evident, sincere desire to attend your baby's funeral," said the judge. "I will release you if you promise to report again at the county jail at 9 tonight." Payne promised and, arm in arm with his young wife, he left the courthouse. The funeral services are at the home of Mrs. Payne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baber, 2023 Locust street, where Mrs. Payne has been living since she and her husband separated two months ago. It was three weeks after the separation that Virginia was born. Last Monday she was taken sick. She died Friday. The young wife called up her husband and told him. It was the first knowledge he had of the existence of his third child. At first he wouldn't believe it. He went to his wife's home to make plans for the funeral. It was there he was arrested on the nonsupport charge. They were married December 29, 1921, and lived for a time at 2319 Ames avenue. Mrs. Payne filed suit for divorce last April and a supplemental suit in September, alleging that her husband struck her and threatened to kidnap the children. Just before their separation they lived at 2021 Wirt street. Asked as they left the courthouse whether they will be reconciled, Mrs.

Payne looked up at her husband. "Maybe we will," he said. "I miss the children so."

Rites Held at Two Churches for the Late William Hamm
Beatrice, Nov. 17.—Funeral services for William Hamm, pioneer lumber merchant of Beatrice, were held at the Mennonite church in the city where Rev. H. D. Penner gave a sermon in English and later at the country Mennonite church where Rev. John Penner spoke in German. Many sympathizing friends attended both services. Burial was in Mennonite cemetery. Mr. Hamm came to Beatrice from Germany in 1877 and had been associated with the J. G. Wiebe lumber firm since 1882. He was 65 years of age and was never married.

Beatrice.—The Orange and Black banquet will be held on the evening of November 25. Football letters will be presented at the banquet.
