"Much Required of College Women"-- Dr. Reinhardt

In one of the most inspirational talks ever heard at the Omaha College club, Dr. Aurelia Henry Reinhardt addressed more than 100 members and outside guests at luncheon at the Athletic club Monday.

"Be busy about your country's business," said Dr. Reinhardt, president of the American Association of University Women, and head of Mills college, Oakland, Cal., a woman's institution. "To us as university women much has been given, and much shall be required," she said.

"The two biggest chapters in the history of woman's education in this country include the bill signed in 1862 by Abraham Lincoln, making Morrill land grants to schools which should open their doors to women, and the bill recently made a part of the constitution granting the suffrage to women.

"We have no standard for our universities," said Dr. Reinhardt. "One-third of our teachers in the country are untrained. If college women don't think about education, who's going to?"

"The American Association of University Women has taken into its organizations only women from colleges having standard four-year courses, a health department offering reasonable recreation, proper housing and a dean of women of academic standard," Dr. Reinhardt explained.

"Many of our modern schools are fashion shows, headquarters for social recreation. I don't blame young people for wanting to go to college. Where else can they have such ease of income, independence or unchaperoned leisure?"

"The war taught our country that we will stand only according to the disciplined intelligence of our citizens. 'Spand isolation' is nothing but rhetoric. The world is now one. Raw products will cause future wars."

Mrs. Reinhardt is a widow having two children, ages 11 and 13. She left Monday night for Wyoming, having addressed the women's club following the college women's luncheon. She died as a guest of the Ad-Sel league in the evening and heard their speaker, Frederick Ward.

Dr. Kollar to Address School Teachers.

H. C. Kollar, who is in Omaha with the exhibit now in progress at the galleries of the Omaha Society of Fine Arts, will talk to teachers at 7:30 Wednesday evening, his purpose being to make the visits of school children at the exhibit more interesting.

Mrs. Browne a Visitor.

Mrs. Will Browne of Salt Lake City is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. McCune. She arrived last Saturday and will remain until after Thanksgiving. Mrs. Browne is remembered as Miss Jessie McCune. She was known in musical circles.

Mrs. Burgess Hostess.

The Junior Clubing club met today with Mrs. Lewis Burgess.

Your Problems

By Martha Allen

Christmas Already.
Dear Miss Allen: I am going to ask you to help me with a problem that has been bothering me for some time.

What can I get for Christmas for a very dear and near friend who is traveling on the road? Would be pleased to read an answer to my letter soon in The Omaha Bee.

Thanking you very much for your answer.
MARRIED.

I am glad your problem is not a very serious one. Has he a fountain pen? A leather bill fold is always a pleasing gift to make. Almost anything in leather goods would be nice, or a good hat or clothes brush. If you know him well enough to get jewelry, a pair of cuff links might be a satisfactory gift for you to make.

Mother Knows Best.
Dear Miss Allen: I am a girl of 17. Do you think I am too young to go to dances if I go with my brother and his girl friend? They are not public dances. They invite a good crowd.

At what age should girls start going with boys? Also, is there any harm in sitting in the car with your boy friend at night?

MISS SEVENTEEN.

Some girls are always too young in common sense to go with boys, and others girls are always old enough. It's a matter of sense rather than age. Your mother probably knows more about what is good for you than I do.

N. L.: A good wardrobe for your purposes would include one good tailor-made, preferably serge or jersey, a crepe de chine frock after noon, black with smart but plain lines; two evening gowns, one black and one white, neither of which should be conspicuous; a fur coat, if possible, and a chic cloth coat.

How Lee Chow helped get Junior Swiftly to the Hospital.

A real angel with wings could not have been a more welcome vision to my eyes than was Lee Chow when he appeared at the side of the car with the announcement that he would drive home, so that I might hold my suddenly afflicted little son in my lap. It did not occur to me to question Lee Chow's ability to manage a car. He had proved himself so able a citizen in other directions that I accepted his own valuation of his skill. That he had served with Hugh Grantland acceptably, moreover, was proof enough of his value in any emergency, for I knew that the army officer, though kind, was an exacting master.

Marion Is Diplomatic.
"Thank you, Lee Chow," I said gratefully, and put my foot upon the step of the car, when Katie grasped my arm, and whispered excitedly in my ear.

"Pleas, Meelis Graham, no let dot Chink drive us. He sure take us all away some place keel us all shoot as he try to keel Junior shoot now. Pleas, dear Meelis Graham."

Her face was white and strained, and genuine terror was mirrored in her eyes. So infectious was her fear that for a panic-stricken second my own heart faltered. But in another second I had rallied my common sense, and whispered back sternly:

"Katie, you are only hindering me by this nonsense! Get into the car at once, for I must get this child to a physician as soon as I can."

She turned away obediently, but I saw her gaze roving from the front seat beside Lee Chow to the seat beside me in the rear, and knew that she would not mount to the seat in front unless I gave her the explicit order. Before I could speak, however, Marion, with intuition as unerringly quick as her mother's, made an apparently eager query.

"Auntie Madge, if you don't need me in the back seat, may I sit in front with Lee Chow?"

"Of course, dear," I answered with quick relief, and Katie, a bit abashed, climbed into the seat beside me, as Marion clambered up beside the impassive driver.

He turned to me when we were finally settled, with a grave query: "Boss lady know doctor? What town?"

My answer was prompt, for I already had been debating the question in my own mind.

"Which Way?"
"Drive directly to Southampton hospital," I said. "We are only about an hour's drive from there, and I have no idea where I could find a physician before that town."

I did not add the most potent argument for the hospital, that if I did find a doctor I would not know how competent he was to recognize and combat the strange poison which was affecting my little lad's face.

My experience with the child told me that he was not what mothers call "heart sick," and that the poison was not troubling his digestive organs. Therefore, I was willing to risk the delay in treatment for the sake of obtaining the best authority possible.

I knew that Dr. Pettit would be at the hospital at 5 o'clock, for Katherine was on night duty with a patient of his, who was in a most critical condition, and I had heard her say that the physician made a call there every day at that hour. Barring accidents, we should be at the hospital in plenty of time to secure his services.

There are times when I dislike Dr. Pettit, and there is something about his personality which always grates upon my nerves, but there is no physician in whose skill I have more confidence. I often wish I did, for between us there are memories, some ludicrous, some tragic, some simply tiresome—which, I think, neither of us cares to recall, and our occasional meetings hold embarrassment for both of us. But there is no doctor nearer than the great city to whose care I would be willing to confide my loved ones.

Lee Chow gave me no reply save a nod of the head, as he started the car and drove it toward the main road with an ease which showed experience. It was characteristic of his economy of words that, although I was sure he was unfamiliar with the Long Island countryside, he spoke no word until he reached the Montauk Highway, when he asked a single question:

"Which way?"
I indicated the direction, and with no further comment Lee Chow turned the car toward the east and drove it skilfully, skilfully, until I showed him the turn that led us directly to the door of the big hospital.

Omaha Chapter D. A. R. to Visit Schools.
The Omaha chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will visit the public schools and universities of Omaha Wednesday, this day being designated by the national bureau of education as school and teachers' day. The slogan for that day is, "Schools, our nation's greatest asset."

"An hour or two spent at the schools need in no way hinder the ladies from doing their work on the Community Chest drive," says Mrs. John J. Foster, regent.

Sometimes when varnishing in a cold room, the second coat tends to crawl. This can usually be overcome by applying benzine on the first coat and allowing it to dry before the next coat is applied.

Beauty

A Gleamy Mass of Hair
35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair-brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.

While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and dandruff disappears. Get a bottle of "Danderine" at any drug store or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair appears after this delightful, refreshing dressing.

Child Labor Theme of Woman's Club Meeting

Child labor was the theme of the Omaha Woman's club meeting Monday afternoon at the Burgess-Nash auditorium. Nebraska women are making an effort through their organizations to secure ratification of Nebraska of the child labor amendment to the constitution proposed by congress.

Mrs. R. E. McKelvey, chairman of legislation for the club, listed on a blackboard the names of Douglas county legislators and urged interviews with them in the interest of child labor ratification; also on the subject of marriage and divorce legislation.

Mrs. O. A. Nickum, state chairman of legislation, followed with a discussion of activity in the state on child labor.

An inspirational talk by Dr. Aurelia Reinhardt, national president of the American Association of University Women, closed the meeting.

What You Should Know about a baby's care

Illness is usually due to constipation. Quickly give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

THE young mother should watch which foods the baby relishes most, which foods and their quantity cause distress, and act accordingly.

The good health of a baby is largely a matter of intelligent attention to diet. Nevertheless, in spite of your efforts you will sometimes notice belching, flatulence, wind and symptoms of colicky pain.

Give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and thereafter vary the offending food. Syrup Pepsin is a laxative admirably suited to infants and children, as it is mild and wholly free from opiates and narcotics.

If you delay in giving it you will soon find the baby suffering from constipation, and that may lead to more serious illness. Half a teaspoonful promptly given will avoid trouble.

Many thousands of mothers have never given their babies any other medicine but Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and they have successfully raised large and sturdy families. The formula is not a secret, being a combination of Egyptian senna with a pepsin, and agreeable aromatics. The ingredients are stated on the package. Mrs. Dewey Walker, Elida, N. M., and Mrs. B. Higginbotham, Otter Creek, Fla., are among the many who are firm believers that Syrup Pepsin has kept their families and themselves in good health.

No family with young children can afford to be without such a household medicine. It is effective, beneficial and safe regardless of your age and has been considered so for over thirty years. In consequence it is today the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, over 10 million bottles being sold annually.

You will find that Syrup Pepsin quickly brings relief in the severest chronic constipation, in biliousness, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, headache, cankers, bad breath, and to stop a cold or fever.

Every druggist sells it, and the cost on the average is less than a cent a dose. It is guaranteed to be effective in these symptoms or your money will be refunded.
