

Coach Wynne Strengthening Creighton Line for Grinnell Game Saturday

Showing Made by Bluejay Team Not Encouraging

Freshmen Have Little Trouble in Plowing Through First String Line.

AN Creighton stop Grinnell? Can the Creighton line that allowed Oklahoma A. and M. to crash through for three scores last Saturday hold the hard hitting pioneer ball jugglers who won a 14 to 13 victory over Iowa State? That is the question that Coach Wynne is attempting to answer. Coach Wynne is attempting to answer that question in the affirmative, and in order to put a fighting aggregation of Bluejays in the field against Grinnell Saturday has dished out two days of scrimmage, Tuesday and Wednesday, and another dose is due for tonight.

Wynne is far from satisfied with the showing made by his Blues in this week's practice. Tuesday night he characterized the work as "rotten," and Wednesday night he was just as frank. However, few of the first string eleven faced the froth in Tuesday's workout. Allen, McKenna, Leupke, Yechout, Hickey and Lower being the only varsity timber to buck up against McGahan's yearlings.

Several new faces cropped up in the first string eleven last night when running signals, and from indications, supporters of the Hilltop are bound for a surprise when the Creighton eleven lines up Saturday.

Marcus Krasser, big tackle, was playing with the seconds last night, while Henry Leupke was stationed at fullback.

"Bull" Joe Speicher, hero of the Marquette game, who sustained a knee injury in that contest which kept him on the bench since, came up last night and ran through the signals.

Johnson Leaves Majors Before Time Interferes

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Walter Johnson's decision to go to the west, will be keenly regretted in Washington and in all the American league circles. But many will hold him to be wise in his decision—an old one, for he is 37—in leaving the majors before time and toil have leveled too heavily upon his mighty right arm.

GOLF Coach Adams Shifts Bolzendahl to Fullback--Cards Play at York

Aurora, Neb., Nov. 19.—Marvin Hockenbury is now a member of the "Hole in One club," he having made the second hole in the golf course on the Aurora Country club grounds in one drive. Fortunately he was not alone and has the necessary witnesses. He was playing with Harry Coggins, Robert Hedcock and Mack Ferguson. The second hole on the course is 160 yards. The boys saw the ball light on the green and after searching around the edges for a time they found it in the hole. Hockenbury made the nine holes that round in 35, thanks to the lucky shot on No. 2. Hockenbury is the only member of the "Hole in One club" in Aurora.
