"No Prenuptial Parties," Miss Cotton's Social Innovation

OCIETY is disappointed in the announcement that the wedding of Miss Virginia Cotton and Stewart Summers, anticipated since the betrothal as an event of the greatet brilliancy, is to be a very quiet ceremony indeed. d when Miss Cotton says "quiet," she means it, for not only the ceremony the days which precede it will be guiltless of the usual social flourishes

The bride is perpetrating a social revolution which bids fair to be populated for many a sweet young thing has all but staggered to the altar fatigues er a month's round of continued gaiety.

Miss Ruth Wallace who gives a luncheon in Miss Cotton's honor De nber 15, will be the only prewedding hostess.

Miss Cotton announced Monday that the home of her grandmother, Mrs. rman Kountze, would be the scene; 3:30 in the afternoon the time, and Rev. Thomas Casady the officiating clergyman at the wedding ceremony. Miss Fredericka Nash, cousin of the bride, will be her only attendant.

Honeymoon plans are being kept secret and the young couple will make ir home after February 1 at the St. Regis, when social affairs in their
