

SOCIETY AND WOMAN'S PAGE

Elfin Hats With Pointed Crowns in Great Favor

The newest hats the social scribe has seen make their wearers look for all the world like elves and brownies at their gayest.

Mrs. Rasmussen Issues 150 Invitations for Tea.

One of the largest holiday affairs will be a tea given by Mrs. George Rasmussen at her home for her daughter, Miss Georgene.

For Mrs. Francis Murphy.

Mrs. J. C. Rahel and Mrs. C. J. Thurston will entertain at luncheon at the Brandeis next Wednesday.

Omaha Club Tea-Dances.

The Omaha club announces December 23 and 24 as dates for their annual Christmas tea dances.

For Miss Dahlstrom.

Miss Edith Dahlstrom who leaves soon for Chicago to reside, will be honored guest at luncheon at the Athletic club Saturday when members of the Woman's Overseas Service league will entertain for her.

Tea-Dance for Miss Burns.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Burns will entertain at a tea-dance on Tuesday, December 23, at the Omaha club for their daughter, Miss Barbara.

Luncheon Foursome.

Mrs. W. W. Long will have four luncheon guests at her home Thursday, followed by a matinee party at the Orpheum theater.

W. Farnam Smith Host.

Among the New Year's eve hosts will be W. Farnam Smith who has issued invitations for a party at the Omaha club.

Junior League Meets.

The Junior league will hold its December meeting at the Blackstone on Thursday at 10:30 a. m.

Holiday Bridge.

Miss Alice Putnam will be a holiday hostess at a bridge party at her home on Monday, December 27.

Central High Society Banquet December 27.

The National Honor society of Central High school will hold its semi-annual banquet December 27 at the Y. W. C. A. This meeting is a social affair, as all business is attended to at the spring meeting.

League of Voters to Elect Officers.

Dr. Olga Stastny will be honored guest at the League of Women Voters' annual meeting at the Y. W. C. A. Thursday. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock.

The child labor amendment to the federal constitution will be discussed.

U. S. Grant Bazar. U. S. Grant Women's Relief corp members are to leave all finished articles for their bazar at the home of Mrs. E. Longnecker, 2526 Davenport street.

The Housewife's Idea Box

Use Wax Paper to Clean the Stove. Do not throw away the wax paper that you remove from boxes of bread. Use it for cleaning your stove.

Use Wax Paper to Clean the Stove.

Do not throw away the wax paper that you remove from boxes of bread. Use it for cleaning your stove.

Your Problems

By Martha Allen

On Long Engagements.

Dear Miss Allen: I have been keeping steady company with my fiancé for three years. Whenever the subject of marriage comes up between us, he says he will not marry me until he can give me the luxury I am accustomed to.

Not Much in Love.

Dear Miss Allen: I am a young man and am deeply in love with a young girl who, I think, cares for me. I have tried several times to gain her attention, but it seems as though it can't last.

Love is the main thing—far more important than an expensive neighborhood, a limousine and extravagant social frivolities.

You are right, A. D. It won't hurt you in the least to sacrifice a few luxuries. It may be very good for you and will train you in practical worldly efficiency.

Your letter doesn't state your age, but from its general tenor I conclude that you have reached years of good sense and are quite capable of knowing your own mind and taking charge.

A WIFE'S CONFESSIONAL

Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Way Mrs. Durkee Delighted Then Depressed Madge.

I tried to camouflage the sudden stiffening of my body at little Mrs. Durkee's unsuspecting revelation, but I was not quite quick enough to deceive her keen eyes.

"Oh," she cried contently. "Have I spilled the beans? I thought you knew that Dicky had helped Edith Fairfax get this new job."

"I did, in a vague sort of way," I prevaricated clumsily. "But I really had forgotten about it. I'm sure I'm glad he was able to be of aid to her."

Curiosity was flaming within me to know the nature of the work Dicky had assisted Edith to obtain, but I was too proud to ask a single question concerning it.

The quick intuition and kindly feeling of my little hostess promptly intervened however with the information I craved. Keeping her eyes carefully averted from mine, she spoke with cleverly assumed gibberish.

"Oh! It's a splendid thing for Edith," she said. "If she intends going on with a career instead of making Dr. Jim Paige happy by marrying him, one of the women's magazines that use a lot of Dicky's work in its stories, also has a lot of fashion illustrations, and Dicky has landed Edith quite an important job on the staff. He's been gushing her work quite a while, getting her little bits of magazine work to do here and there, and Alf of course has thrown her all the things he could. But you see Alf's hampered by the fact that she's his sister-in-law. He says he has to be mighty careful or they'd accuse him of—drat it, what is that big word he used? I'd know it if I heard it, but it's slipped my mind as if it were an eel."

"You're an optimist!" "Neptomism?" I suggested, laughing in spite of myself at the little woman's pretty puzzled face.

"She made a saucy moue at me. 'You ought to put 'D' for 'Dictionary' on your stationery and on the door of your car as a monogram. 'D', she mocked. 'But that's it. But of course, she was nothing to Dicky so he could push her work all along without anything being said.'"

Was she rattling along in her usual careless fashion, I wondered or had she deliberately employed the reassembling phrase, "nothing to Dicky?" She is so delightful a bundle of contradictions that one can never be sure of the real thoughts behind her flow of words.

With an effort that left me a bit breathless, I achieved a casualness which I hoped would hide the dismay that was mine at her revelation.

"I'm so glad he could help her," I said with a heartiness which I was proud. "I think it would be a great mistake for Edith to marry Dr. Paige as long as she hangs on for a New York career. His work will always be in the south."

"Yes, and down there, in that small city, with the prestige of having been a part of the professional artistic world up here, she could be a queen with a salon," little Mrs. Durkee returned with a ludicrous little air of worldly knowledge. "But if she won't have him, she won't."

"Remember, she never has had a real chance at a job like this before," I reminded her. "Perhaps," she hopefully, "after success gets to be an old story with her she will turn her thoughts to Dr. Jim."

"You're an optimist, Madge," Mrs. Durkee retorted quickly, but any further remarks were cut short by the appearance of Katie with a tray bearing a pot of coffee, the accessories for drinking it, a covered plate which I knew held toast, and tucked into the serviette, an exquisite little cluster of small pink chrysanthemums which Katie evidently had commandeered from Mrs. Durkee's autumn garden.

A Soothing Cup.

"I'm sorry to butt in," Katie said, with the comical combination of def-of a household. At least, you would be easily able to learn housekeeping and homemaking.

These are the years when you and the man you love and who loves you should be enjoying home and life together. Why postpone your happiness until, as you say, the first freshness of romance may dull?

Advice Is Usually Cheap.

Dear Miss Allen: I am a girl in High School at the age of 15 years. Although I am young I have felt deeply in love with a 16 year old boy.

He has his own business, and although at present it isn't producing very well, we both have hopes. I love him very much and he is very much in love with me. So I don't see why I shouldn't sacrifice a little luxury, and even comfort, for love.

I have seen so many cases of long engagements—from five to 10 years—when all romance seemed to die. And I wish to prevent anything like that. Can you advise me? A. D.

Three years is a long engagement—too long, many wise persons might consider.

You are taking a sensible stand, A. D., in your eagerness to "begin at the bottom of the ladder" with your husband and gradually climb together. Doubtless you will finally have all the luxuries and comforts to which you are now accustomed, if not more.

With many men, as with your fiancé, it is a matter of pride not to marry until they can give their wives "all accustomed luxuries." But this is a mistaken pride and it gives false values.

Love is the main thing—far more important than an expensive neighborhood, a limousine and extravagant social frivolities. You are right, A. D. It won't hurt you in the least to sacrifice a few luxuries. It may be very good for you and will train you in practical worldly efficiency.

Your letter doesn't state your age, but from its general tenor I conclude that you have reached years of good sense and are quite capable of knowing your own mind and taking charge.

Not Much in Love.

Dear Miss Allen: I am a young man and am deeply in love with a young girl who, I think, cares for me. I have tried several times to gain her attention, but it seems as though it can't last.

It seems as though I care more for him than he does for me. We also correspond together. How may I win his love? He is a darling boy, handsome and popular. He seems to get peevish at me quite easily. Tell me, do you think lovers always have their little spats. BRIGGS.

If it is necessary to pay for this information, I will do so.

No, my dear, advice is usually free, or at least very cheap. I think a girl 15 years old who can't spell any better than you do, should devote herself to her studies and be less agitated about a 16-year-old boy.

Not Much in Love.

Dear Miss Allen: I am a young man and am deeply in love with a young girl who, I think, cares for me. I have tried several times to gain her attention, but it seems as though it can't last.

It seems as though I care more for him than he does for me. We also correspond together. How may I win his love? He is a darling boy, handsome and popular. He seems to get peevish at me quite easily. Tell me, do you think lovers always have their little spats. BRIGGS.

If it is necessary to pay for this information, I will do so.

No, my dear, advice is usually free, or at least very cheap. I think a girl 15 years old who can't spell any better than you do, should devote herself to her studies and be less agitated about a 16-year-old boy.

Not Much in Love.

Dear Miss Allen: I am a young man and am deeply in love with a young girl who, I think, cares for me. I have tried several times to gain her attention, but it seems as though it can't last.

It seems as though I care more for him than he does for me. We also correspond together. How may I win his love? He is a darling boy, handsome and popular. He seems to get peevish at me quite easily. Tell me, do you think lovers always have their little spats. BRIGGS.

If it is necessary to pay for this information, I will do so.

No, my dear, advice is usually free, or at least very cheap. I think a girl 15 years old who can't spell any better than you do, should devote herself to her studies and be less agitated about a 16-year-old boy.

Not Much in Love.

Dear Miss Allen: I am a young man and am deeply in love with a young girl who, I think, cares for me. I have tried several times to gain her attention, but it seems as though it can't last.

It seems as though I care more for him than he does for me. We also correspond together. How may I win his love? He is a darling boy, handsome and popular. He seems to get peevish at me quite easily. Tell me, do you think lovers always have their little spats. BRIGGS.

If it is necessary to pay for this information, I will do so.

No, my dear, advice is usually free, or at least very cheap. I think a girl 15 years old who can't spell any better than you do, should devote herself to her studies and be less agitated about a 16-year-old boy.

Not Much in Love.

Dear Miss Allen: I am a young man and am deeply in love with a young girl who, I think, cares for me. I have tried several times to gain her attention, but it seems as though it can't last.

It seems as though I care more for him than he does for me. We also correspond together. How may I win his love? He is a darling boy, handsome and popular. He seems to get peevish at me quite easily. Tell me, do you think lovers always have their little spats. BRIGGS.

If it is necessary to pay for this information, I will do so.

No, my dear, advice is usually free, or at least very cheap. I think a girl 15 years old who can't spell any better than you do, should devote herself to her studies and be less agitated about a 16-year-old boy.

Not Much in Love.

Dear Miss Allen: I am a young man and am deeply in love with a young girl who, I think, cares for me. I have tried several times to gain her attention, but it seems as though it can't last.

It seems as though I care more for him than he does for me. We also correspond together. How may I win his love? He is a darling boy, handsome and popular. He seems to get peevish at me quite easily. Tell me, do you think lovers always have their little spats. BRIGGS.

If it is necessary to pay for this information, I will do so.

No, my dear, advice is usually free, or at least very cheap. I think a girl 15 years old who can't spell any better than you do, should devote herself to her studies and be less agitated about a 16-year-old boy.

Not Much in Love.

Dear Miss Allen: I am a young man and am deeply in love with a young girl who, I think, cares for me. I have tried several times to gain her attention, but it seems as though it can't last.

It seems as though I care more for him than he does for me. We also correspond together. How may I win his love? He is a darling boy, handsome and popular. He seems to get peevish at me quite easily. Tell me, do you think lovers always have their little spats. BRIGGS.

If it is necessary to pay for this information, I will do so.

No, my dear, advice is usually free, or at least very cheap. I think a girl 15 years old who can't spell any better than you do, should devote herself to her studies and be less agitated about a 16-year-old boy.

you ask to marry you is the very best one in the world for you.

Curiosity: Consult any good book dealer for satisfactory titles for Christmas gifts. For a friend of so many years, you could very properly give jewelry. Do not choose costly jewelry. A fancy vanity case, traveling clock, gold or silver pen or pencil, or a perfume bottle with gilt stopper, are a few of the articles classified as "jewelry" which you could choose.

Child Labor Conference.

A conference to plan for the ratification by the Nebraska legislature of the federal child labor amendment will be held in Lincoln, Tuesday, December 16 at 1:30 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. parlors.

Give Furniture for Christmas USE BEE WANT ADS—THEY BRING RESULTS

The Store of Thomas Kilpatrick Co. The Question of the Hour: Gifts of Enduring Worth versus Gifts of Regret

Gifts for Men. We sell furnishing for men, moderately priced, expertly chosen, that combine style with lasting quality.

Gift Hosiery. In gift packages, The woman who knows Buys Kilpatrick Hosiery.

Women's Gloves. An Ideal Gift. Kid Gloves for street or dress in white and colors, are priced from $2.50 to $6.50.

1,000 Gifts for Boys & Girls. Gifts for Girls. Character Dolls of every nation 25c to $2.50.

Gifts for Boys. Erecto Sets, of steel $1.00 to $10.00. Tinker Toys .25c to $1.25.

Special Pricings. Unusual pricing of small steel folding doll cabs, especially for the very tiny miss. Three sizes in solid wheels .59c, 75c and 85c.

Perfumes. Alluring subtle odors from foreign lands that please and surprise on Christmas morn.

Handkerchiefs. Knowledge of quality, judgment of value and wide assortment has made this store Handkerchief Headquarters.

Linen Specials. Italian Hand Made Antique Art Linens. 14x14 Napkins, each .60c.

Free Wrapping Service. Holiday packages intended for gifts in or out of the city wrapped carefully and securely by our expert wrappers.

For Wintry Days The "Ascot" The newest version of The Button Oxford. Russian Tan Calfskin or Patent forepart with black suede back $14.

Zipper Boots to protect silk-clad ankles Made of fine waterproof quality of Jersey cloth. $5.50.

Thorne's Little MONEY SAVERS Men's Lisle Handkerchiefs .30c Women's Lisle Handkerchiefs .35c Fancy Christmas Garters .100 Head Bands and Tiaras .125

White Birch Wood From the Canadian Border. Choice for the Fireplace That Can be Obtained Also Genuine Missouri Oak, Any Length Desired.

When Stomach "Rebels" Instantly! End Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn, Acidity. Correct your digestion and quiet your rebellious stomach by eating a few tablets of Pape's diaspensin.

Beating the Sales! We Offer Thursday 18 FUR TRIMMED COATS, sized and styled for young women up to 18, NOW at... $25.00

Linen Section—Floor Below. Christmas Shopping Made Easy. Beacon Baby Blankets Choice $1 Each

It's Taste That Produces Eldridge Values. Bowl, by Steuben, in amber and green, measuring 7 inches. A desirable size for table use $1.50