500-Singers, Count 'Em-500. The singers, of whom there will be at least 500, will be the members of 27 church choirs of Omaha and Council Bluffs. The size of the chorus would alone make the service a strikingly impressive event, but the effect will be heightened by the dramatic entrance of the singers.

The long column of carollers will march down the central aisle in the processional, doubling back to fill seats in the balconies. Two hymns will be sung during the processional. The tremendous size of the chorus will permit the use of many effective devices. Antiphonal singing on a scale that has seldom been heard in Omaha and the singing of solo num-bers by entire choirs will be particularly striking.

The chorus will be supported by the organ and by a stringed orches-tra of 16 pieces, under the direction of Louise Shadduck Zabriskie. The service is to be presented by the Nebraska chapter of the Amer-ican Guild of Organists, and is under The chorus will be supported by
