

Trigener General Urges Uniform Amateur Athletic Code

Summer Baseball Greatest Evil in College Sports

Recommends Two-Year Physical Training Program for Development of Competitive Games.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Establishment of a uniform code of amateurism and adoption of strict eligibility rules among colleges was urged today by Brig. Gen. Palmer B. Pierce, president, in his annual report to the National Collegiate Athletic association.

The association, he said, has had considerable trouble attempting to enforce the amateur rule in some parts of the country, the aim of which is to prevent undergraduates from participating in athletic activities for financial gain. Playing of summer baseball is the most difficult problem, he said.

Pointing to the opportunity for the colleges to prevent the physical deterioration of our citizenry, General Pierce urged adoption of physical training programs of at least two years' duration and development of competitive sports on both an intercollegiate and intramural basis.

The value of college training in developing Olympic champions was stressed in an address by Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics in the Western conference. He pointed out that 195 points of America's track and field total of 255 in the 1924 Olympics were scored by college-trained men. Of the others, 15 were accounted for by noncollege or school athletes, 16 by high school stars and 29 by teams. Illinois, whose graduates rolled up 35 points, led in producing Olympic stars, his figures showed, while Southern California was next with 31 points.

This analysis led Major Griffith to suggest to the American Olympic committee that in preparing for the 1928 games, high school talent be given opportunities in the final team selection trials and that the National Collegiate Athletic association's title meet serve as a preliminary qualification test for all college men.

In the vast majority of instances, said Griffith, the physical condition of the blood and urine is of little value.

Olympic Champ to Train for Meet at His Alma Mater

University of Missouri Track Will Again Be Used by Jackson Scholz in Preparatory Sprint.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Jackson V. Scholz, Olympic 200-meter champion, and the only American to capture first place in the flat-running events at the Paris games last July, will open his indoor campaign this season at the Millrose A. A. games in Madison Square Garden January 27 and 28. It also will mark his first competitive appearance in the United States since his Olympic triumphs which also included second place in the 100-meter dash.

Scholz has just arrived in San Francisco from the Orient, where he appeared in exhibitions with Emerson Norton, another Olympic star.

Wiring from the coast today in acceptance of their invitation to race here, Scholz notified Millrose officials he would stop for training at his alma mater, Missouri university, before coming east. It was at Missouri that Scholz first gained sprinting fame holding the Missouri Valley conference championship. He now wears the colors of the New York A. C.

Townsend Five Trims Tech, 20-10

The Tech basket ball quintet reopened its cage practice after the holidays with a game with the Townsend five Monday evening at the Tech gym. The Maroon and White showed the effects of a week's layoff and was taken to a handy trimming by the Gunners, the final score being, 20 to 10.

The Maroon and White, which has been rather highly touted, seemed weak on both offense and defense, allowing several good chances to score slip by and giving its opponents some easy under-basket shots which the Townsends took advantage of.

The Tech starting lineup found Othmer at center, Charnquist and Nelson at the forwards and Captain Holm and Milhollin holding down the guard positions. This combination worked most of the first half and held the winners to a 9-7 advantage at the intermission. During the second period Drummond sent in Engle, Swenson and Knight at intervals and the Gunners rung up several baskets in quick succession.

The Townsends, composed mainly of Tech alumni, seemed to be further advanced than their opponents, especially at passing. The work of Wiesenberg and Shoemaker at the guards was largely instrumental in keeping down the Maroon and White score, while Kuby, Stribbs and Kasper worked the ball down the floor well.

PAENNSYLVANIA GRIDSTERS REACH SCENE OF BATTLE

Invading Party, 125 Strong, March to Hotel—University of California Students Welcome Guests.

By Associated Press.
BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 30.—An invading party of some 125 members of the Pennsylvania university football squad, its coaches and trainers, the campus band and a number of fervid runners, arrived here today on the Overland Limited and made the final grim preparations for battle with the University of California New Year's day.

Coach Lou Young took the squad to the California stadium this afternoon and efforts were made to smooth out the kinks of travel. The Quaker mentor was no overly optimistic.

Horse Racing Enjoys Successful Year in Omaha During 1924 Campaign

IN looking back over the pages of 1924, it is very evident that racing as a sport has eclipsed any previous year. Throughout the United States, during the last year, it has been demonstrated beyond question such a wonderful comeback as has been shown in the Sport of Kings.

In Nebraska, the lovers of harness horses and the thoroughbreds had a wonderful opportunity to enjoy some of the very best contests that were ever staged in the middle west.

It would not be right in speaking of racing in Nebraska, not to mention our own Marvin Childs who has, without doubt, demonstrated his wonderful training ability with the harness horses as has been shown during the last five years on the Grand circuit.

Everyone is looking forward to 1925 with a view of seeing at Ak-Sar-Ben field some of the best horses that are in training and will have an opportunity to enjoy their kind of sport to the fullest extent.

Extensive Improvement Noted in Work of Cardinal Hoopsters

A HARD two hours' practice Monday night at the Omaha university gym saw the Cardinals well out of the traces that had been with them ever since Christmas, but added a number of injuries that may or may not prove serious.

In addition to an hour of scrummage, Coach Eric Adams gave the entire squad an intensive drill on the offense, which belied its name against the Building and Loan five in the practice tilt Saturday afternoon. Practice was ended when Coach Adams put his men through his own special conditioner—a five-man workout under the basket, with four perfect passes and a shot, and so on till the ambitious casters were dragging their feet.

Hillyards Win Over Nebraska Quintet, 22-19

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee.
St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 30.—The Hillyard team, tied at the half and trailing the invaders until the last five minutes of play, came from behind to beat the University of Nebraska five, 22 to 19, here last night in a thrilling court battle featured by wonderful defensive playing of both aggregations.

Pete Reif, Hillyard forward, left on the bench at the start because of illness, was sent into the fray in the last five minutes, when the Huskers were leading, 17 to 13, and scored three goals from the field, which virtually threw the victory into the hands of the Chemists.

Volz, captain and guard, made the first score of the game on a free throw in the first three minutes of play, giving the Huskers a lead they maintained until Starbuck counted a field goal after six minutes.

Schabinger to Concentrate on Basket Flipping

Brown, Recruit, Shows Well in Monday's Practice—Has Speed, Fight, But Lacks Experience.

HE Creighton university gymnasium will be the scene of intensive basket ball practice this week, as Coach Schabinger of the Lullford Basketballers plans to leave the second game of the season, that with the Drake five at the Bluejay gym Saturday night, with a victory.

The Blues dropped the first game of the season to the fast University of Minnesota quintet by the close margin of 29 to 24, due largely to their inability to hang the leather on the rim.

Financial Aid Is Offered Johnson for Club Purchase

Pitcher Admits Deal Is Pending But, With Backers, Refuses to Talk of Project.

RENO, Nev., Dec. 30.—Walter Johnson, Washington American league baseball pitcher, who, according to reports from the east today, had been offered financial aid by two Ann Arbor (Mich.) men to help in purchasing the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league, admitted today that he understands such negotiations were under way, but said he was not in a position to discuss the matter.

"I have an offer and am considering it," Johnson said. He further explained that the Ann Arbor men were the only persons who could talk for publication.

These Salt Lake business men, Johnson said, had expressed a desire to have a conference with him, but they never had made any arrangements for such a conference.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 30.—R. T. Dobson, former newspaper publisher here, and Merrill Pratt, former member of the Detroit American league team, are the two men reputed to have offered financial aid to Walter Johnson in purchasing the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league.
