

Senate Democrats Will Not Caucus; Leader Announces

Members To Few in Number in Nebraska's Upper House, He Says—Representatives More Optimistic.

(Continued From Page One.) know local sentiment will be back-ward about adding to expense and creating new jobs.

"If the supreme court judges will work a little harder and faster, and cut their three months' summer vacations down to a couple of weeks like most men have to do—if they get any vacation at all—it will be possible for them to catch up without killing themselves with overwork," remarked one western representative this afternoon.

A senator who has practiced law a little bit in his time said that many of the cases brought before the supreme court could be decided from the bench instead of being muddled over for a year or two.

Censorship Bill Certain.

"Who's got the movie censor bill and the anti-parliamentary bill in his pocket?" That is a question often asked. These two bills are rumored to have been great revenue producers for several sessions, but at the last session they didn't amount to much. Representative Sturdevant was induced to introduce the anti-parliamentary bill two years ago. He introduced it in good faith, too; but he was soon convinced that the lobbyist who gave him the bill for introduction was not actuated by the same motives. The bill did not even see the light of day after it had been introduced and referred to committee.

A movie censorship bill is sure to bob up serenely in due time, but present indications are that it will receive scant consideration.

Senator Wood of Gering and Representative Barbour of Scottsbluff are supposed to look after irrigation matters. They say they have nothing of any great moment under consideration. They will ask a few amendments. What they will watch most closely is the ratification of any agreement between Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming as to the division of the waters of the Platte.

Two bills in the morning have arrived, and the rest of them will be on hand before noon Monday.

By P. C. POWELL, Staff Correspondent The Omaha Bee.

Lincoln, Jan. 4.—Talk of compromise in the fight for speaker of the lower house and president pro tem of the senate circulating in hotel lobbies this afternoon was banished tonight when Senator John W. Robinson of Omaha arrived and announced positively that he had not withdrawn as candidate for president pro tem of the senate to save the speakership for Representative James A. Rodman of Omaha. This announcement threw the politicians into a turmoil with indications that as a result Omaha would get neither the prize plum of senate nor of the house.

As matters stood tonight the old political cry of "Omaha" was being spread through hotel lobbies. Senator Charles-Werner of Lincoln, an aggressive candidate for president pro tem, against Robinson, was the most active in spreading the word that "Omaha" couldn't expect anything. Representatives from the short grass country were especially elated over the situation created as a result of two Omaha men demanding major positions in house and senate. Unless a compromise is reached by caucus time tomorrow night it was accepted as certain that Omaha would lose both positions.

Representative George Dyball of Omaha was the only member of the lower house from Douglas county to arrive tonight. He stated that he would be content with membership on the committee on committees and chairman of the cities and towns committee.

Senators John Cooper and T. B. Dyart arrived with Senator Robinson tonight. Senator Cooper announced he again desired to head the senate judiciary committee.

CAN'T WED LATE TO AVOID TAXES

Men who were married late this year will not receive the benefit of an entire year of income tax exemption as a married man, according to Revenue Collector A. B. Allen.

He said the law as passed on June 2, 1924, is retroactive to January 1, 1924.

"That is, if a man married in June he would receive the benefit from that day to the next January 1."

"If he married December 30, all he could claim exemption would be for one day."

This would also be true of other dependents, according to Mr. Allen.

CURTIS TO SEEK VOTE ON SHOALS

Washington, Jan. 3.—Senator Curtis, republican floor leader, said today he expects a final vote on the Muscle Shoals bill next Wednesday or Thursday.

The senator predicted that the senate will agree to an amendment to the bill, along the lines of the Jones proposal, providing for a commission to study the problem and recommend its solution to the next congress for consideration.

London, Jan. 3.—"News of the World," in the latest issue states that the ex-kaiser of Germany, having heard of his wife's being referred to as an "old man's darling" has been rejuvenating himself with monkey glands and now looks younger than his son, the late crown prince.

Visitors to Doorn say, according to this article, that the ex-kaiser has also had his beard touched up to conform to his youthful appearance.

Hot on the Trail of Criminals

As soon as a crime occurs in Chicago, local stations transmit news by radio to automobile squads, which rush to scene. Chief of Detectives headquarters; thence it is broadcast by radio to automobile squads, which rush to scene. Chief of Detectives Schoemaker is shown receiving a message.

Mussolini Slaps Italian Deputies as Crisis Looms

Premier Now Back in Role of Dictator—Promises Action in 24 Hours.

By GIUGLIAMO EMANUELE, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Rome, Jan. 3.—While all Italy wonders tonight what will happen next in the new political crisis centering around Premier Mussolini, certain facts stand out boldly enough amid the confusion.

While rioting was reported from many parts of the country and the strong iron hand of the premier reached out to suppress newspaper critics, wholesale opposition grew in the chamber of deputies to a magnitude threatening the overthrow of the government.

Then into the chamber walked Mussolini as unafraid as he has ever been in the face of danger, and these things happened:

He dared his enemies to bring him to trial before the high court of justice. He declared boldly that he was tired of the tactics of the opposition and would unhesitatingly use force.

And he promised some unnamed action or event which would completely clarify the situation within 24 hours.

Public Appealing. After what amounted to a public spanking the duly elected and constitutional chamber of deputies adjourned since this without voting, ceasing upon the government.

In effect, constitutionalism ceased when the chamber ceased to exist and Mussolini is in the identical position in which Italy found him after his "black shirt squad" had marched into Rome. He is dictator.

"The whole political situation will be definitely cleared up within 24 hours," was the enigmatic declaration of Mussolini which sent a ripple of apprehension through the ranks of his opponents.

Mussolini's daring won him repeated cheers during his speech which was interrupted repeatedly.

He brushed aside charges, made a week ago today, that he had pinched the disappearance of Matteotti, socialist deputy.

He denied also charges of the existence of a fascist "Ceka" or espionage system along Russian lines which had been organized by him.

Sporadic rioting continued today.

CUPID IS LOSING OUT IN FREMONT

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Fremont, Neb., Jan. 2.—There were 40 divorces granted in Dodge county during 1924 and only 85 marriages issued.

With an average number of 250 marriage licenses that were granted annually in Dodge county before the present marriage law went into effect Dan Cupid's work was woefully poor this last year.

Council Bluffs and other points in Iowa won the bulk of Judge Waldo Wintersteen's business this last year. A slight decrease in divorces in this county was noted with 46 domestic suits during 1924 as compared with 46 divorces in 1923.

There were 304 births compared to 198 deaths. In 1923 there were 239 births and 206 deaths. Of the new arrivals 168 were boys and 136 girls.

NEBRASKA NURSE TO WED ABROAD

Miss Ruth Pogeler of Winona, Neb., a graduate nurse from the Lutheran hospital at Port Wayne, Ind., who has been visiting her brother at the home of Stephen Kuechel, 1921 South Sixteenth street, will leave Sunday night for New York, where she is to sail on January 10 for Buenos Aires, Argentina. There, upon her arrival, she is to marry G. Huobner, a missionary. She will engage in missionary work.

BRANDEIS STORE OPEN AT NIGHT

The Brandeis store will remain open Monday evening until 9 o'clock. Their announcement was made Saturday and the step has been taken as a courtesy to the shopping public.

Work of transporting the merchandise involved in the $1,050,000 purchase of the Burgess-Nash store, from the old location to the Brandeis store was practically completed Saturday.

Jap Consul Recalled. Honolulu, Jan. 3.—Kelihi Yamaki, consul general of Japan for the Hawaiian Islands, announced today that he had been recalled, and would sail for Tokyo January 21. He has been here nearly three years. No indication has been given who his successor will be.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Youth too often seems to believe, and in the end must pay the price. Little Joe Otter.

The Foolish Young Otter. Little Joe Otter took the two young Otters over to the log where he had found the trap and showed it to them. It looked so harmless that it was difficult for the young Otters to believe that it was such a terrible thing as their father said it was.

Then he took them over to the foot of the slippery slide, and while they swam about at a safe distance he swam carefully until he found a trap right at the bottom of the slippery slide. He showed it to them.

"Now you see why I said you must not go down the slippery slide even once," said he. "I didn't know that this trap was here, but I suspected it. I suspect that there are traps in the other places I have warned you to keep away from. If you want to live long and be happy don't once forget the warnings your mother and I have given you."

The young Otters promised they wouldn't forget, and then the whole family went fishing. Of course they didn't go fishing together. They separated, each one fishing in a different place. All the time the smallest Otter was looking for a trout she kept thinking about those traps. She made up her mind that nothing would tempt her to be heedless of the warnings she had been given. You see she had not forgotten the lesson she had learned when Yowler the Bob Cat had caught her because of her heedless willingness.

But her brother had no such lesson, and as he hunted for trout he smiled to himself at what he thought were the foolish fears of his parents.

"Father and mother are just trying to scare us," said he. "I don't believe there is anything to be afraid of as long as that dreadful two-legged creature isn't about. Those traps look perfectly harmless to me. I'm not afraid of them. I guess if I use my eyes and my nose I can find them without getting into one of them. I wonder where all the fish have gone to. My, I'm hungry! I believe I'll go farther up the brook. There is some open water up there. It hasn't been fished much."

So the young Otter swam to the upper end of the open water where he then was, climbed out on the ice and traveled over this until he came to another stretch of open water. He swam along close to the bank on one side and presently came to a sort of little pen of sticks. He didn't remember having seen it before, and he looked at it suspiciously. He swam around it at a safe distance, and then he smelled fish. It didn't take him long to discover that inside at the back of that little pen was a fat trout. That trout wasn't alive. It seemed to be held by a stick at the back of the little pen.

The young Otter remembered the warning not to touch a dead fish. But he was hungry, very hungry, and here was a dinner he wouldn't have to take the trouble to catch. He swam back and forth in front of the little pen of sticks, and examined them carefully. He went close to them and smelled them. They were nothing but harmless sticks. His mouth began to water at the smell of the fish.

"There isn't a particle of danger," said the foolish young Otter. "There wouldn't be a trap way up here anyway. I want that fish and I'm going to have it!"

The next story: "A Suddenly Lost Appetite."

STORM DELAYS OCEAN LINERS

New York, Jan. 3.—Four ocean liners were overdue today and ocean traffic was rendered a peril for craft of all sizes by the gales, snows and heavy seas.

The White Star liner, Adiatle, is not expected before Tuesday. The steamer Assiria is already six days late, and is expected to make port tonight or tomorrow. The Mount Clay, out of Hamburg, is two days late, and the French liner, Paris, will be about a day late.

Non-Party Cabinet to Be Formed by Chancellor Marx

Accepts Commission From Ebert Following Failure to Weld Opposing Parliamentary Factions.

By Associated Press.

Berlin, Jan. 3.—Chancellor Marx this evening accepted a commission from President Ebert to form a non-party cabinet.

Chancellor Marx's efforts to find a parliamentary basis on which he could construct a cabinet that would command working support in the reichstag definitely failed, and the only solution at the disposal of President Ebert was the formation of a so-called nonpartisan officiating cabinet headed by Herr Marx.

This would include Dr. Stresemann, Dr. Otto Gessler and several other present members of the cabinet.

Four vacancies due to the retirement of the vice chancellor, Dr. Karl Jarres, Herr Hamm, minister of economics, and Rudolph Oeser, minister of transport, together with the post of minister of justice which is unoccupied, would be filled with selections from the reichstag parties or nonpartisan experts.

Such a ministry would be equipped with special emergency authorization to protect it in situation where it could not rely on a working majority in the reichstag. It is hardly probable that Dr. Marx will be able to complete his negotiations in time to permit the new cabinet to present itself at Monday's opening session of the reichstag.

FOWLER COMPANY REPORTS 12 SALES

Burt C. Fowler, realtor, report a continued demand for medium-priced homes and investments during the holiday season, as shown by the following list of sales made by the company:

Brick duplex, West Farnam district, to an investor, $15,500; brick duplex, Creighton college district, to an investor, $14,750; seven-room brick veneer, 123 North Thirty-fifth avenue, to Blanche R. Ramsey, $9,600; six-room colonial, Greenlea addition, to an investor, $9,000; new six-room brick and stucco home, 4405 Woolworth avenue, to Harvey L. Bolar, $8,250; new six-room brick and stucco, English colonial, Twinridge addition, to John C. Kieber, $7,700; six-room brick and stucco bungalow, 812 North Forty-eighth avenue, to Margaret L. Landale, $7,500; eight-room house, 819 South Thirty-fifth avenue, to Clyde O'Neill, $7,150; two five-room bungalows in Standard Place, to an investor, $5,900 each; two lots, Club Terrace, to Paul D. Baker, $1,800.

INFANTILE CRIME COMMISSION PLAN

Meledo City, Jan. 3.—Ramon Ross, governor of this federal district, is fathering a project to appoint a commission which will study the causes of infantile crime. The commission, which will be composed of a doctor, a lawyer and a teacher, will go into the records of crimes committed by persons less than 18. They will act as defendants of youthful criminals and will investigate the responsibility of parents.

The project also contemplates that the press will be prohibited from printing stories of infantile crimes.

CHARRED BONES FOUND IN SHACK

New Castle, Pa., Jan. 3.—The discovery of charred bones in a shack built in the woods near Ellwood City, today added to the mystery of the disappearance of 14-year-old Luigi Nosedochi who has been missing from his home since New Year's day.

Dizzy? Depressed? You're Bilious! Take a Laxative

Breath Bad? Stomach Upset? Bowels are Inactive!

Man Who Dug Tunnel to Dead Wife's Grave Fined

By O. D. TOLISCHUS, Universal Service Staff Correspondent. Berlin, Jan. 3.—For attempting to feed candy to his dead and buried wife, Otto Klemke, a Berlin artist, was fined $35 by an unsympathetic Berlin court today.

Klemke dug a subterranean passage to the grave through which he visited his dead wife every night. In fine oriental fashion, he took along flowers, perfume, and other things she liked, and laid them directly on the coffin.

Through holes he had bored in the coffin he pushed the candy inside. His defense was that he had acted purely out of love for his wife, but the prosecutor claimed he was driven by an unhealthy curiosity.

Employees of City Plants Must Pay Back Income Tax

New Ruling by Revenue Bureau Holds Such Workers Not Immune Under Statute.

Washington, Jan. 3.—All employees of municipally-owned institutions acting in a proprietary capacity rather than serving governmental purposes, such as water, light and street railway companies, are subject to income tax on their compensation. They will have to pay taxes on their incomes as far back as 1918 and the bureau of internal revenue has notified collectors of internal revenues to compel the filing of returns over those years.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

The ruling, far-reaching in its application, is based on court decisions in several sections of the country which have held in effect, that such institutions as were named were competing with private enterprise and should occupy a similar footing with respect to certain taxation features.

He Remains the Stoic in Cell

Calm and untrifled, J. Warren Hahne remained the stoic in his cell at central station Saturday night despite the fact that he is accused of one of the most brutal slayings in Omaha's long murder list.

2 More Supply Bills Reported

Appropriation for Disseminating Market Information in Agricultural Measure.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Two more of the annual supply bills, those for the Interior and Agriculture departments, were reported today by the senate appropriations committee, making three now awaiting senate action.

The other is the postoffice-treasury measure reported yesterday.

The interior bill carries a total of $238,991,403, an increase of $1,149,477 over the house measure, while the Agriculture bill provides for $124,788,478, an advance of $125,005 over the house total.

Principal increases in the interior bill over the house totals are $500,000 for the Spanish Springs extension, new lands project, Nevada, eliminated in the house; $100,000 for the Altlake basin project, Utah; $31,000 for the Boise project, Idaho, and $25,000 for the Williston pumping project, North Dakota.

The main senate increase in the agriculture bill are $80,252 for collecting, publishing and distributing market information and $19,349 for the investigation and improvement of cereals.

FREMONT BEATS BUILDING RECORD

Fremont, Neb., Jan. 3.—Figures made public today reveal that Fremont's building and construction work during the year 1924 has shattered all previous records with nearly $1,000,000 spent along that line.

This surpasses by nearly $500,000 the banner year of 1922.

For business and industrial improvements the sum of $971,521 was spent. For the construction of 82 new homes during 1924, Fremonters paid out $374,785. The sum of $68,150 was spent in remodeling Fremont homes while $5,212 was paid out in the construction of private garages.

The complete total of $1,421,728 compares more than favorably well with 1922 when the sum of $1,157,583 was expended.

This is believed to be a record for construction work and improvements among cities of Fremont's size in the state of Nebraska.

MRS. MANCHESTER DIES IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. John R. Manchester, mother of Frank P. Manchester, secretary of the Omaha Grain exchange, died at the Clarkson hospital Thursday night following a short illness. She was 79 years old. Mrs. Manchester recently returned from a visit to California.

She has been a resident of Omaha for 64 years, coming to Omaha in 1859, and was an active worker at the All Saints church.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Frank Manchester, 3249 Walnut street, Monday afternoon at 2. Burial will be in Prospect Hill cemetery.

Surviving Mrs. Manchester are her husband, another son, George W. Manchester of St. Louis, and a daughter, Mrs. Eva Metzger of Omaha.

Spanish War Veterans ATTENTION

Anyone who served in Army, Navy or Marine, 98 to '02 and does not belong to the organization, write to E. E. Moody, 1203 E. 6th St., North Platte, Neb., or B. J. Newlin, 527 Omaha Nat'l Bank Bldg., and learn something of interest to yourself and family. We need you and you need us. You were not a slacker in '98. Do not be one now. We have a record to be proud of if we did not do much—the only all-volunteer army this country ever had.

BETTY COMPSON

'The Garden of Weeds' A rich man's playground where Broadway beauties came to bloom, but soon faded.

RIALTO Now Playing

Corinne Griffith in 'Love's Wilderness'

ON THE STAGE The popular composer, Egbert Van Alstyne & Co.

For Constipation, Headache, Biliousness

Cold Weather Has Failed to Check Building Activity

Metcalf Company Now Completing 25 New Homes; Buck Has 26 Under Construction.

Cold weather has not interfered with building activity in Omaha and reports of the various home-building firms show that many new homes are being erected in all parts of the city.

The Metcalf company has been active in construction for many weeks and is now completing 25 new homes in all parts of the city. The prices of these homes will range from $4,500 to $7,500.

D. E. Buck & Co. are now building 26 homes, located in Standard place and Minne Lusa. The houses, are priced at $8,550 and $7,000.

T. H. Macmerer has 26 homes under construction in various parts of the city. The houses vary greatly in size, the cost ranging from $4,000 to $46,000.

Eleven houses are now under construction by Payne & Sons, and many of these are nearly completed. The company will start construction of 15 more immediately. The houses are located in Standard place, Benson, Twinridge, Morton Meadows, and Durdeen, and are priced at from $4,000 to $20,000.

Benson & Carmichael are building six new four-room modern homes in the western part of the city. The company will start construction of 15 more immediately. The houses are located in Standard place, Benson, Twinridge, Morton Meadows, and Durdeen, and are priced at from $4,000 to $20,000.

W. Farnam Smith & Co. are building a $12,500 house in the Field club district and a $5,500 house in the cathedral district.

TELEPHONE SERVICE ON GERMAN TRAINS

By O. D. TOLISCHUS, Universal Service Staff Correspondent. Berlin, Jan. 3.—Director General Oeser of the German railways, announced today that the train telephone service, whereby passengers will be able to telephone from moving trains to any part of Germany, will be introduced immediately on three lines, viz.—from Berlin to Hamburg, Frankfurt and Munich.

In the future, therefore, passengers will be able to order hotel rooms and transact other business while riding. Technical