Fourth Annual Omaha Bee Grade School Cage Tourney Opens Today

Forty-Eight Teams to Battle for Cage Title Indoor Sports

All Contests With Three Exceptions to Be Played in School Gymnasiums; No Admission Charged.

THE Omaha Bee's fourth annual grade school basket ball tournament opens the 1925 season today with 48 teams battling for the titular honors.

The tournament has grown from year to year until this year's entry list is double that of the list of 1921, the first year of the tourney. The tourney will be a round robin affair. The teams in the four districts will battle for district honors, the semi-finals and finals at the end of the regular season for the trophy. All games will be played in the school gymnasiums with the exception of contests booked for the South

High gymnasium, Christ Child center, and Florence Community house. The Florence Community house gymnasium, located at Thirtieth and Calhoun streets, has been acquired for the use of the grade school cagcrs through the courtesy of City Commissioner John Hopkins, while the Christ Child association has very generously offered the use of its new gymnasium at Tenth and Williams of participating schools must be regularly enrolled and doing regular grade school work in the school for which they are playing. Principals of the schools may hold boys off eams for scholastic ineligibility.

No admission will be charged for the regular league games. Long won the 1924 tourney by taking a 36 to 11 game from the Lincoln five. It was Long's third consecutive grade school basket ball championship and, led by Ware, Lee and Love, the cagers from the north side went through the season without a defeat. South Central, Long, Kellom and Lincoln were the district winners, and in the semi-final round played before a record-breaking gallery at the Technical High gymnasium. Long defeated South Central and Lincoln nosed out a victory over Kellom to get into the finals.

Teams entered in the tourney are: Windsor.

District No. 3—Clifton Hill, Lothrop.
Lake, Monmouth Park, Central Park, Keilom, Sasatoga, North Junior High, Florence and Sherman.

District No. 4—Franklin Central, Benson, Junior High, Webster, Saunders, Henry Yates, Howard Kennedy, Beals,
