Total Asking Penitentiary Sentences for All Who Steal Affections of Another's Mate.

By Associated Press. Lincoln, Jan: 28 .- Alienation of the affections of a wife or husband would be a felony, punishable by a fine and penitentiary sentence under a bill, believed to be the first of its kind in the country, to be introduced tomorrow in the Nebraska senate by Senator John W. Cooper

"Sheiks" and "designing women" who alienate the affections of a wife or husband are now only subject to civil action, Senator Cooper pointed out. The senator's measure sets forth, however, certain conditions under which a person could alienate a married man or woman's affections and still not be guilty, namely, when a divorce suit between the couple is pending, when they are separated, and when the husband or wife represents him or herself

"Any person other than husband or wife who shall knowingly, purposely, wilfully, or designingly with intention to do so, alienate or cause to be alienated the affections of a husband or wife from either, knowing them to be married shall be deemed guilty of a felony and upon conviction shall be confined in the penitentiary from one to five years or fined not less than $500 or more than $2,500 or both, at the discretion of the court," the measure provides.

Senator Cooper's measure is pre pared for the purpose of curbing elopements of "sheiks and designing women who run away with another man's wife or another woman's husband," he told the Asso clated Press while preparing the
