Well, Dear Mr. Weeks,
How About Aircraft Now,
Are They Still "Unimportant."
Perfect Score, No Hit.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

An old Tammany Hall leader expressed his opinion of suits against newspapers in rugged double negative Anglo-Saxon, thus:

"Don't never sue for libel. They might prove it on you."

Mr. Weeks, secretary of war, should have had that in mind before ordering the recent tests of anti-aircraft guns, to uphold his theory that flying machines don't amount to anything in war, and should not be allowed to interfere with the highly profitable sport of battleship building.

The flying men proved it on him.

The Weeks theory, and that of battleship men who collect 45 millions per ship, was as follows:

"Don't worry about flying machine attack. If insolent Japanese or Europeans come flying against us, we'll simply turn our anti-aircraft guns toward the sky, riddle the invading fliers and teach them to respect the great American Eagle, even if he is a fat bird, slightly asthmatic, stuffed with gold, and without wings."

They said it, and for contradicting them they deprived General Mitchell of his rank, thereby raising him in popular estimation, and then, most foolishly, they tried to prove what they had said.

Perhaps you read about it. If so, read it again, and tell your friends.

The airmen flew, dragging behind them what is called a "sleeve target" as big as an airplane. The powerful three-inch anti-aircraft guns, manned by the best marksmen, fired at the flying targets as they would fire at invading airplanes.

And not once were the targets hit. In other words, if those fliers instead of dragging targets to be shot at, had been enemy fliers, they could have bombed Washington, destroyed the White House, the capitol, one-half the city, and then they could have gone about their business, without a scratch.

Think that over, fellow citizens, especially you, great financiers and corporation men that put Mr. Weeks in Mr. Harding's cabinet. Those enemy bombs would reach you, remember, your banks and factories, and you would have to find the cash, if dark gentlemen, with slanting eyes flew gently down and asked, "What will you give us to fly away and spare the rest of your property?"

You also think about it, please, Mr. Weeks. Enemy airmen might by mistake hit the War department.

Asked, "Don't you know that a barking dog never bites?" the man replied, "Sure I know it, but does the dog know it?"

Mr. Weeks, you know that enemy fliers could not injure us. But do the Japanese know it? Perhaps they don't.

If there is any gratitude in the mikado he should give orders not to hurt the War department, or anybody in it.

But somebody might make a mistake.

Meanwhile, this nation is without any adequate air defense. Nobody knows by whom or how the $433,000,000 "for aircraft" spent in the last five years were wasted or stolen. The public mind is outraged by the injustice inflicted on Brigadier General Mitchell, to whom the nation and the president owe their knowledge of the facts.

It ought to be possible for politicians to be "good party men" without being simultaneously dangerous fools.
