

State Capitol Body Attacked

Solon Says the Commission Broke Faith; "Gas" Tax Bill Passes House.

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Lincoln, March 12.—Members of the Nebraska state capitol commission were charged with "breaking faith with the people of Nebraska" in an attack by Senator Henry Behrens of Comstock county in the senate this morning.

"The commission appeared before the legislature four years ago," he said, "and promised that the cost of the new capitol would not exceed $5,000,000. Now they are before us again asking an additional $5,000,000 to complete the building, and there is no certainty that even this amount will suffice."

Senator Behrens heated attack came during the debate on a motion to place on file two bills which had been killed by the senate finance committee. These were the bill allowing the state university a flat 1-10 mill levy for 10 years to complete its building program, and the bill allowing the state normal school a flat 1-25 mill levy for 10 years for the same purpose.

He also declared that the Lancaster county delegation in the senate, which has supported the bills, wished to have the bills placed on general file "to give the powerful university lobby a chance to get in its work."

At the end of the debate the bills were placed on general file by a vote of 17 to 16, all of the Douglas county delegation supporting the bills.

The lower house Thursday morning passed the gasoline tax bill by a vote of 12 to 23, which gave the bill a majority of more than two-thirds, sufficient to place it in an emergency clause making it effective immediately. The bill now goes to the senate.

UNDER-ICE FISHING IN OKOBOJI IS OVER

Arnolds Park, Ia., March 12.—Under-ice fishing in Okoboji lakes will soon cease. The ice is so honeycombed by the recent warm spell that it has been judged unsafe for general automobile traffic, and many of the fishermen have already taken their shanties off the lake.

In Miller's and Emerson's bays there are spots where the fish have made the ice thin by milling around just below the surface, probably in search of oxygen, for lack of which many fish have suffocated in the more shallow portions of smaller lakes. Several fishermen have fallen through these thin spots during the last week and received a chilly bath, but no casualties have been reported.

WORLD-FAMED SPY REPORTED MISSING

New York, March 12.—Dr. Armgard Karl Graves, whose exploits as an international spy would have drawn the exclamation "Marvelous!" even from the lips of the blonde Dr. Watson, has disappeared after a long absence. The stout, partly bald Teuton, years ago termed "the greatest spy of the century" by the London Times, left a Brooklyn rooming house on August 23 last and has not been seen since.

A grapevine alarm has been sent out by his friends, who have enlisted the services of private detectives, the police, and, it is said, the Department of Justice.

Buffalo School Head Publishes Text Book

Kearney, March 12.—Gene Loomis is the author of a small text book on grammar, just off the press, entitled "Handbook for Teachers and Students."

As superintendent of schools of Buffalo county, Mr. Loomis observed a general ignorance and lack of interest in the study of grammar. A series of lessons, published in the official county school paper, "The Public School," designed to supplement regular text books, attracted such attention that Mr. Loomis concluded to compile and revise the series, publishing them in pamphlet form.

Stranger Who Killed Himself Buried in Stella Cemetery

Stella, March 12.—Eburn Wheeler, funeral director, aided by citizens, gave a fitting burial in Stella cemetery to the man found dead with a bullet in his head a week ago. County officials returned a verdict of suicide.

From a hunting license, it is believed the dead man is T. J. Scarschett of Topeka, but efforts to find friends and relatives have been futile.

Rev. Robert Helms of the Lutheran church conducted funeral and burial services at the grave.

Broken Bow Parents Have 3 Sets of Twins, Born Within 10 Years

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Broken Bow, March 12.—A Broken Bow family believes it holds a record for the number of twins in a single family.

Ex-Hair Dresser of General Custer, Now 92, Takes Respite From Travel

While the west-bound Overland Limited drew a 15-minute breath in Omaha Wednesday, Dr. Stanley Haynes Judson, 92, took a vigorous constitutional along the platform. Dr. Judson declared he is ranking sur-geon emeritus of the associated hospitals of Los Angeles, a veteran of the Indian war and an artist of considerable repute.

"Yes, indeed, young man," he replied to a query. "When I went through here the last time I rode on an Indian drag behind two Pinto ponies. And not so uncomfortable either," he added with a glance at the Pullman he had just alighted.

Discreet questioning elicited from the doctor that he had been at that time returning east from his army career when he served as orderly and hairdresser to General Custer on the Wyoming plains.

Custer's Language Caustic. "My time was up six months before the Little Big Horn," he proceeded. "Custer? My, I never shall forget the language he used when I used to comb the snarls out of his hair. But that was long ago and here is the only relic of those wild days," and he drew from an inside pocket a large, brass cylinder which he defined as a 50-caliber shell for

WICKHAM FOUND DEAD IN HOME

Most of Mr. Wickham's holdings, according to Organ, were held jointly with other members of the family. His largest single holding was the Wickham block, at Scott street and Broadway.

Born in Council Bluffs. Edward Wickham was born in Council Bluffs 61 years ago. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wickham and was educated in the Catholic schools of Council Bluffs and in St. Benedict's school at Atchison, Kan.

He became associated with his father and uncle, Owen P. Wickham, in contracting and real estate business, and upon their retirement succeeded his father as senior member of the firm.

He was a director in the State Savings, First National and Commercial National banks of the Bluffs, and was president of the two former until illness forced him to retire last year.

He was president of the Citizens Gas & Electric company, a subsidiary of the Nebraska Power company; a director of the Omaha & Council Bluffs Street Railway and Bridge company and president of the National Construction company of Omaha.

Mr. Wickham was a member of the Knights of Columbus, the Rotary club, the Omaha club, the Omaha Athletic club and the country clubs of both Council Bluffs and Omaha.

Surviving him, besides his son, Bernard, are his mother, Mrs. James Wickham of 400 Franklin avenue, Council Bluffs; three brothers, Bernard, John and Leo, all of the Bluffs, and seven sisters, Mrs. Edward Murphy of Minneapolis, Mrs. George Schaff of Lincoln and Mrs. Thomas Miller, Mrs. John Green, Mrs. Charles McCaulley, Miss Nellie Wickham and Miss Loretta Wickham, all of the Bluffs.

Wickham, during his lifetime, was one of the most powerful figures in the commercial, financial and political life of his community. Because of his contracting interests, coupled with his strong connections in the financial and political fields, he dominated city and county affairs for many years.

He figured, a picturesque character, as the stormy petrel of many hot rows with city council and school board members over contracts or other interests and frequently stood alone, the center of bitter legal or political battles.

Although his shrewd generalship won him many enemies with his victories, he was generally respected as a man loyal to his friends, who fought his fights squarely and asked quarter of no man.

Father Fined in Smallpox Case

Boy Testifies He Was Told to Resist Expulsion From School.

William F. O'Hanlon, 24½ Deontur street, who recently announced that he would make a test case of the smallpox vaccination law, lost the first round of his legal tilt Thursday. He was fined $100 by Police Judge Nebel for sending his son, Wayne, 16, to school in violation of orders of the health commissioner.

In addition to the fine O'Hanlon was given a severe lecture by Judge Nebel.

Defied the Laws. "You seem to have caught the spirit of bolshevism," Judge Nebel told him. "You have defied the laws, and apparently you intend to tear them down."

O'Hanlon, a carpenter and former chiropractor, was arrested February 23 on complaint of Dr. A. S. Pinto, health commissioner, who charged that O'Hanlon had kept his son in Clifton Hill school without complying with the orders of the commissioner that he be vaccinated after 10 cases of smallpox had been found in the school. He refused to keep the boy out of school for 21 days, as required by law as an option to vaccination.

Told to Go to School. The boy testified in police court Thursday that his father had instructed him to go to school and to resist any attempt to expel him from classes.

"He told me to take hold of the desk or anything else to keep from being put out," the boy said.

This testimony caused Dr. Pinto to declare that he believed O'Hanlon had hoped to create grounds for a suit against the city.

O'Hanlon admitted giving the boy such instructions, but said he had done so only because he did not wish the boy to miss his classes.

He said that he would appeal the case.

PROBE COMPLEX, STOKES' DEFENSE

Chicago, March 12.—A defense which at times ran perilously close to a plea of mental incompetency, based on monomania, was set up in criminal court here this afternoon to save W. E. D. Stokes, aged New York millionaire, from conviction on charges of conspiracy to defame his wife.

It was the plea which Stokes himself had definitely turned his back on, but which his counsel, Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, maintained, offered his best prospect for acquittal.

In his closing argument he held that Stokes had a passion, almost a mania, for "investigation," that he fancied himself a great detective, that he "thought a lot of things," but he held that none of this was criminal.

PREMIUM PAID ON SUGAR BEETS

Terrill, Ia., March 12.—Over $100,000 has been paid by the Belmont beet sugar factory to the beet growers in the neighborhoods of Dickens, Langdon, Terrill and Spencer and to factory employees at the four towns, the farmers getting about $4,500 and the shipping yard employees about $3,000.

A statement from G. A. Genet, agricultural agent for the factory, showed that according to the net selling price of sugar from October 1 to January 1, the growers would receive $6.73 a ton, but on account of the high sugar content of the beets, the company paid $7, or 20c more per ton than the price called for in the selling price contract.

The beets average nine tons an acre.

"Faking" Charged in Accident Suit

Son of Prominent Family Is "Injured" Too Often, Say Lawyers.

Ray Vierling, son of a prominent Omaha family, is the most frequently injured man in the city, according to evidence which is being introduced by attorneys for the Pantel Realty company in District Judge Troup's court.

Ray is suing the realty company, which operates the Morris apartments, for $50,000 for an alleged injury to his left eye which he says he sustained when an elevator dropped several feet at the apartment, where he was living at the time.

Hurt Seven Times. In defending the suit counsel for the company have introduced evidence tending to show that Ray has been injured seven other times, and that he has collected damages from several accident insurance companies in each case.

He was first injured, according to evidence, in the Brandeis theater elevator, when he is said to have collected damages for ashes which flew into his eyes.

His next misfortune occurred in the city hall elevator, when a match flew into his eye. This was on February 18, 1915. The next accident happened on January 23, 1915, when an elevator in the Saunders-Kennedy building gyrated in such a manner that Ray toppled off the stool, injuring the left side of his head and collecting damages therefrom.

Needle Causes Injury. A misplaced needle laid Ray up next, when it came in contact with his heel. The Chicago Great Western railroad, on January 13, 1922, jolted Ray in such a manner that the left side of his head was again injured and he collected damages from the railroad and three accident insurance companies, the evidence has it. The front wheel of an automobile in which Ray was riding broke off on January 29, 1923, and Ray's back was hurt, an accident which proved expensive to three more insurance companies. Cranking a car on September 24, 1923, injured Ray's back again, and he collected damages accordingly.

"The man is a malinger," testified Dr. J. Calvin Davis, one of the doctors who had examined his most recent injury. "I gave him a 'confusion' test and found he could see out of his injured eye quite well."
