Today

For the King's Health.
Bobbed Hair Headaches.
Branding a Lady's Back.
The Vilest Crime.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

Today the king of England leaves to cruise in the Mediterranean for his health. They take good care of him. He will avoid the rough Atlantic and board the royal yacht at Genoa, where it waits, escorted by two destroyers. From Calais, the British royal train, kept always in readiness for emergencies on French soil, will take him to Italy and his yacht.

Abstain from unbecoming, as our German friends would say. But if the czar had kept such a train ready, he and his children might be alive now. The British kings obey

Never Let a Cold Get a Start

Vapors Check a Cold Overnight
There are many ways to treat a cold but only one DIRECT way— with vapors that can be inhaled. Vapors penetrate immediately into every corner of the air passages and lungs, soothing and healing with every breath. Vicks is so remarkably successful in treating cold troubles because it acts like "a vapor lamp in salve form."

When rubbed over throat and chest the body heat releases vapors of Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

This double, direct action often checks the worst cold overnight.

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, following the advice as often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or two tablets of Bisulphate of Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them; they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisulphate of Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrector, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and without the slightest pain or discomfort. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get pure Bisulphate of Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

their people, serve them as well as they know how, and Britishers, at least as democratic as we are, like their kings. They prefer a good quiet one to an election every four years.

The king's majesty, in ancient English, written for him in the prescribed style, appoints a commission to take care of the state while he is gone.

"For divers causes and considerations, the king has instructed his right trusty and well beloved counsellors, Prince Henry, the archbishop of Canterbury, Viscount Cave and Premier Baldwin to look after the safety and good government of the realm, etc."

They have full power, except that they may not dissolve parliament, or confer ranks and titles.

He includes in his commission his son, the church, the peerage and one commoner, Baldwin. The latter, of course, is the real king and writes out what the king signs, but he does not say so. Everything is done respectfully in that well-managed empire.

George Curzon is dying at 66, very young for a British statesman. He represents a class of Englishmen whose lives are devoted to the nation's service.

In our humble, American, grocery store way, we contribute a little to the commissariat department of British government. A Chicago fortune, that of Leiter, the dry goods man, enabled Curzon to forget everything but public service. And so with the half American, Churchill. His mother had the fortune of Jerome, New York stock broker. "They also serve, who only stand and wait."

"The shingle headache," or "bobbed hair neuralgia," has arrived, and was inevitable. Silly women, not content to cut their hair short, actually allow the barber to shave the back of the neck, uncovering that part of the body most sensitive to cold, the little hollow, at the base of the skull.

Cut your hair that way, then motor with your back to the driver, and you have found the short cut to acute neuralgia and pneumonia.

You shudder at the complaint of Mrs. Dolores Winfree, wife of a sailor. Her jealous husband burned his initials into her back with a red-hot iron, to warn other men away.

Such conduct, once common, persists, here and there. In far Patagonia, the bridegroom, on his wedding day, stands his wife against a tree, and with a stone, knocks out two of her front teeth, to show that she is really his. And she thinks that means affection. Read "Eli Reclus."

Other savages compel their wives to paint their teeth black, which also means, "Keep away, I belong to somebody."

"The patience that women have shown is really amazing. But things are better, the highly developed white man puts a pearl or diamond collar around his wife's neck. That also means "She is mine," but sometimes the pearl collar is mistaken.

As you read of Chicago's dreadful murder, you know something of lynch mob's emotions. A Dr. Fauman, indicted with Shepherd, who is accused as chief criminal, testifies that Shepherd's young ward, McClintock, was murdered to get the fortune that he had willed to Shepherd, his guardian. Trust companies will find a text for advertisements in that. They may make mistakes, but they do not murder the heirs of their clients.

Murder is murder, but there are degrees of horror. The doctor confessing complicity in the McClintock murder, confesses that he taught Shepherd how to administer typhoid germs to the unfortunate boy, who had willed a million dollars to his murderers, and that poisons, including prussic acid and morphine, were added to the typhoid bacilli, to make death sure.

The learned Henry G. Lawrence, professor of history, drops this bombshell into a ladies' club. "The first bootleggers were the good Puritans, and some of the Puritan girls and women were frivolous and fast personalities."

There was quite a demand for scarlet letters, it appears. Voltaire was ahead of Prof. Lawrence.

He told of earnest round-heads calling on the deeply religious Cromwell and told to come another day, as Cromwell was then "busy seeking the Lord." The fact was, according to Voltaire, that Cromwell, at that moment was in gay company, seeking, not the Lord, but the corkscrew which had fallen under the table.

If you heed iconoclastic historians, illusion disappears.

If your friend has a bad cold, be polite, smile, bow, say, "I never saw you looking better," but don't shake hands.

That is the advice of Dr. Sutherland of Michigan university. Influenza is spread by hand-shaking. You get the germs from your friend's hands, transfer them to your handkerchief, and then to your nose.
