

Jack Peacock Returns From European Study

Jack Peacock, interior decorator, has returned from Europe, where he has been studying design with English and American students in the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts.

In speaking of his study tour, Mr. Peacock says: "From our headquarters in Paris, the Place des Vosges, we were able to visit in a short time any of the hundred or more architectural monuments we were interested in. The New York school has an excellent reputation and we were invited to a number of places of great interest. The school's list of patrons includes nobility of France and Italy. One of our principal exercises was measuring famous rooms and buildings, studying their detail furnishings. Among the places visited for this purpose was Madame Du Barry's apartment at Versailles, Madame Pompadour's suite, Versailles; Marie Antoinette's house, the Petit Trianon; Napoleon's house at Malmaison, and the Palaces at Compiègne and Fontainebleau. The Cluny museum and the Louvre were also sources of great inspiration.

"In London we were housed in Grosvenor Gardens and did considerable work at South Kensington, and in the National Tate and Wallace Art galleries. The original architectural drawings by Robert Adam were made available to the class. Florence was our base of operations in Italy, and students were delighted with the uniform courtesy accorded them in that country. Frequently we were the guests at tea or luncheon of the hostesses whose house we were studying. The wonderful preservation of Pompeii presented an opportunity to study ancient detail in a way that was not only very instructive but very gratifying.

"The class spent a few days in Holland, Belgium, Switzerland and northern Africa."

Mr. Peacock's practical experience and previous study enabled him to secure the school's diploma in 21 months instead of the three years usually required.

Noted Woman Will Speak Here at Convention

Ida Clyde Clark

Ida Clyde Clark, editorial writer for Pictorial Review, will be the principal speaker for the banquet to be held Saturday night, April 25, by the national convention of Altruism clubs meeting in Omaha, Hotel Fontenelle.

Mrs. Clark is regarded as one of the clearest speakers in the country and one of the best informed women on women and their interests to be found anywhere.

In 1920 Mrs. Clark toured South America at the request of the national board of the Young Women's Christian association to make a survey of the condition of women on that continent.

In 1921 she went to Christiania, Norway, as press representative from the national council of women of the United States to the meeting of the international council of women.

In 1923 Mrs. Clark went to London, by special invitation, to speak for America at an international conference on the progress of legislation in the interest of the nameless child.

In 1923 she was invited by the Swedish government to visit that country as a delegate to the international Press congress held in Stockholm. She was the only woman delegate, although 40 countries were represented by 150 delegates.

Mrs. Clark has just returned from a trip to Europe where she visited 10 countries at the request of the American women's committee for international goodwill.

Another Fund Raising Plan for Business Woman's Club.

Tuesday evening N. P. Sass will talk on "Ladies" before the Omaha Business Women's club, Inc., in Y. W. C. A. auditorium. Miss Loma Bella Crandall will sing after the club dinner.

Reports will be received from members co-operating under the Georgia year finance plan. Over $300 has been turned over to Miss Kate Davis, special treasurer.

Another activity of the club is the membership drive, which takes the form of a transcontinental race. The entire present membership is divided into 11 groups, each of which is given the name of an automobile. The captains of these groups are designated as drivers of the cars, the drivers appointed being:

- | | |
|-------------------------|----------------|
| Misses— | Misses— |
| Huldah Jackson | Marjorie Casey |
| Alma Peters | Anna Ryan |
| Margaret Flinde | Anna Haskins |
| Lillian David | Alice Austin |
| Mabel Sackett | |
| Mrs. Florence Waterbury | |
| Dr. Frances Turner | |
- The race started at Boston and will continue to San Francisco, each new member and each renewal giving the group 55 miles' credit toward its goal.

Farewell Tea.
