Spring Is Here. Tornado and Disease. Special for the Dying. Lunatics in Bunches. By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

This day you discard your "winter garment of repentance." The spring of 1925 began officially at 13 minutes after 10 last night. The weather was pleasant. The whole winter is gone.

The cold season in which so much was to be accomplished has van-

Enervating spring is here, with hot summer to follow. The wise man will continue to wear his "garment of repentance" and try in spring and summer to make up for the neglect and shortcomings of winter.

Pictures of wide areas strewn with wreckage of thousands of houses come by wire.

Dozens of children, dead, mangled or burned lie in the wreckage of one schoolhouse.

Plague threatens, following the tornado. Doctors, with the serum that fights lockjaw, are active among the wounded. Lockjaw folows such wounds as are inflicted by disasters of that kind.

It is the trouble season all over the earth. News of the great fire in Japan is followed today by a great earthquake in China, with a fire that helped the earthquake to be aimed at the English-speaking wipe out the town of Talifu, in the nations. Russia, Japan, Germany

If You Get Up Nights, It May Be Prostatitis

The necessity of getting up at night and difficult, painful or too frequent urination by day, may in dicate kidney or bladder trouble, inflammation of the prostate or all three of these conditions. Nobody should ignore these warnings, especially men at or past middle life. It is estimated that far more than half of the men past 40 have some de wee of prostate trouble, which frequently leads to a serious and ex pensive operation. Removal of the prostate should be "the last resort," because it nearly always impairs the health and energy for life.
