

51 Parking Law Violators Pay Fines in Court

Judge Holmes Warns Motorists Third Offense Will Mean Five-Day Jail Term.

The statement of Inspector Jack Peznowski Thursday, that no more summonses for parking violations would be "fixed" and that the patrol wagon would be dispatched for defendants who failed to appear in court, brought quick results.

Al Franel, who admitted that he had got a previous parking tag "fixed," was fined $7.50. His 50 fellow defendants were fined $5.50 each.

"I intend to fine first offenders $5.50; second offenders, $10, and if a man appears before me the third time he goes to jail for five days."

The judge meted out the following sentences to speeders and reckless drivers: R. A. Bishop, 4185 Chicago street, speeding, one day; M. D. Lamm, 4514 North Twenty-fourth street, speeding, one day; E. A. O'Keefe, reckless driving, one day; Charles Williams, thirty-third and Parnum streets, passing a street car discharging passengers, $5 fine; Loren Rullen, 6905 Florence boulevard, speeding, one day; Marion Hagerman, 4105 North Twenty-seventh street, speeding, one day; Thomas O'Connor, 4719 Franklin street, speeding, $10 fine.

Judge Scores Mother. Mrs. Charles Mallinson, 1451 Spencer street, wife of the grocer who was seriously wounded last fall by a highwayman who held up his store at Seventeenth street and Capitol avenue, was severely scolded by Judge Holmes when she pleaded for her son, Charles, who was charged with reckless driving.

"You are taking the wrong attitude," the judge told her. "You don't know the facts. I can appreciate the mother's instinct which prompts your defense, but you have heard the testimony of the officers that the boy narrowly escaped colliding with several cars at intersections. Suppose he had an accident and was killed. How would you feel?"

However, the judge gave the boy, a Central High school student, a fine of $10. Three speeders were fined in North Omaha police court Friday morning. They are: John Stacey, 4409 South Twelfth street, $30; Carl Lang, Bellevue, South High student, $15; William Rouillac, 2628 Charles street, $10.

Success of MacMillan Arctic Flight Seen

Authorities familiar with the prevailing condition, predict success for Donald B. MacMillan's airplane expedition to survey the vast frozen territory between Alaska and the north pole, which has never been seen by the human eye.

The expedition will be conducted as a private enterprise, but President Coolidge has extended the co-operation of the Navy department's air service, and whatever territory is found will likely be claimed in behalf of the United States. Amphibian planes, equipped to land on either water or ice, will carry the explorers, who will be equipped with powerful radio receiving and sending apparatus.

Leut. Com. R. E. Byrd is making the arrangements for the flight operations, with Ralph Robinson, aide to MacMillan. The expedition will be conducted as a private enterprise, but President Coolidge has extended the co-operation of the Navy department's air service, and whatever territory is found will likely be claimed in behalf of the United States.

New Tax Law to Bare Intangibles

Robert Switzer Tells Continental Club Act Will Be Success.

Robert M. Switzer believes the operation of the new 1925 intangible tax law will tend to disclose this form of property and will be a more uniform and fair method of taxation. He spoke on this subject to members of the Continental club Friday noon at Hotel Fontanelle. A few of the points he made are as follows:

The new 1925 intangible tax law is, in my opinion, one of the most constructive and practical laws passed in Nebraska in many years. The outstanding features are that it greatly simplifies the making of tax returns, especially for corporations, tends to disclose rather than conceal intangible property, makes more uniform and fair the taxing of individuals, banks and corporations (both domestic and foreign), and provides a workable penalty.

Will Reveal Intangibles. The system for corporations of charging against capital stock surplus and undivided profits by deducting real estate and outside property on which taxes are paid, non-taxable securities, listing personal property (merchandise, etc.), and then paying 2 1/2 mills on the dollar for cash in bank, etc., will, of absolute necessity, disclose in order to balance the account, something no previous system has been able to accomplish.

Success in Other States. The Nebraska law is similar to Iowa and Minnesota, both of which states have had marked success. In Iowa in 1912, which was the last year under the old system, intangibles produced but $38,000,000. In 1924, under the new system of five mills, they produced $55,000,000. In Minnesota in 1910, under the old system, $30,000,000 was produced, whereas in 1924, under the 3 mill levy $405,000,000 was produced.
