

Brake Incident Closed by Mayor

Report of Chief of Volunteer Traffic Officers Clears Atmosphere.

The incident of Dorothy Dahlman being charged 50 cents for automobile brake inspection, has been closed by her father, Major J. C. Dahlman, on receipt of a letter Saturday morning from Bert LeBron, captain of volunteer traffic officers.

The mayor during city council meeting this week brought up the matter for investigation, stating that he wished to be informed whether the volunteer officers or garage men were making these charges. He stated this daughter's car was stopped on Leavenworth street and she was charged 50 cents for brake inspection.

According to the mayor, LeBron's letter makes no specific reference to the case of Dorothy Dahlman, but gives details of the operations of the volunteer traffic squad.

Few Summons Issued.

"I wish you would note the few summons issued," LeBron wrote. "We issue these summons only when necessary. When a party gets 'hard boiled' and refuses to have his lights or other defects remedied and will give no good reason, we issue a summons. There is no desire to cause any inconvenience. We have instructed 20 garages how to properly adjust lights of all makes of cars and we have given them blue prints showing the correct angles of lights.

"We also called these garage owners in and got them together and established a fixed rate for the work. There is no charge for testing lights or brakes, but when the light are tested and found out of focus, a charge of 50 cents is made. The work is done by the garage and our officers have no interest whether the garages collect the money. Tall lights are 25 cents each and 30 cents if installed; headlights, 40 cents, and 50 cents if installed.

"I think the public is familiar with the workings of our force and know that we have the best in the city council, which we surely ought to have. They will appreciate our efforts in making driving in Omaha a pleasure instead of a hazard."

Summaries Given.

Mr. LeBron gave the following summaries of the operations of the squad on the three nights:

April 3. Twenty-eighth and Leavenworth: Cars stopped, 148; tall lights repaired, 100; headlights repaired, 31; headlights adjusted, 66; arrests, 2; summons, 2.

April 4. Twenty-eighth and Leavenworth: Bulbs or connections fixed, 31; bulbs installed, 116; lights tested, 52; summons, 2.

April 7. Sixteenth and Yates: Cars stopped, 82; tall lights replaced, 54; headlights replaced, 12; headlights adjusted, 16; other defects, 6; summons, 1.

"These men are giving their time without charge and I believe they are doing an essential work," the mayor said.

"Well," they said, "we're just going to pull a couple of jobs and then we'll return your car to you." They sped away.
