JOINT COUNCILMAN FOR BURT, WASHINGTON AND THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF DOUGLAS COUNTIES. WILLIAM HAMILTON.

In placing the above ticket at the head of this column, we but express the wishes of a large majority of the people of this District. It affords us much satisfaction to remark of the candidates composing the ticket, that they are all old residents in the district, and not a man of them but what is identified with the best interests of the District, and have been, since the organization of the Territory, prominently before the people as men of integrity and ability. It would be a waste of words to enlarge upon any one individually as to his peculiar merit or claims for the position he was so unanimously nominated to fill; but inasmuch as a few, a very few, have expressed their dissatisfaction (by issuing an anonymous call for another Convention) in regard to the action of the Convention which nominated this ticket, it might be well to notice some of the reasons why this ticket, as nominated, should receive the hearty and earnest support of all who have no personal ends to answer, no personal ambition or petti aspiration to satiate, and have only in view and at heart the highest and best interests of this District. The call of the Convention was known to all, as it was held pursuant to a call emanating from the action of a primary meeting of the PEOPLE, held immediately after a claim meeting, which was very largely attended, one week before the Convention was held; and surely none are, has or will be unreasonable enough to contend that every one had not ample and reasonable notice and time to turn out. The large attendance of the citizens from every portion of the District, is most conclusive and convincing evidence that all were well apprised of the fact, and acted accordingly. The Convention was conducted upon principles of fairness, leaving no one room to complain, however captious, unless it should have been some disappointed candidate for office who, in his own imagination, always thinks the PEOPLE have done wrong when they reject his claims and show (as they have a right to do) their preference for some one else; and it is requested by those who issued the anonymous call for another Convention, to be held Saturday, October 25, that the dissatisfied assemble in the anonymous Convention in question. In answer, we submit to intelligent men of this District, and the whole world, was ever a convention called and went into with personal opposing elements, that gave in its result unanimous and universal satisfaction to aspirants, and especially those whose claims to position and place had not been considered by the Convention in the light they themselves saw it; and if it would seem that the emphatic, decided, and, in reason, we may say overwhelming vote in point of numbers that nominated the ticket placed at the head of this column, ought and should be a quietus upon those who, in point of personal ambition, were disappointed, and, in the language of the immortal CLAY, set this question forever at rest. But it is urged by the dissatisfied, in their call for another Convention, that every man who acted in the Convention knew, ten days before, for whom he would vote. This is arguing too much for the dissatisfied. It shows those who acted in that Convention had time for mature reflection and cool deliberation. It shows they had a decided preference for candidates, and, as the result has shown, as decidedly and emphatically expressed it. Does the INTELLIGENT elector go to the polls with his mind on a swivel, to be wheeled into line for any candidate or any set of principles, or does and will not every intelligent voter in the States this fall go to the polls with his mind fully made up, and deposit his vote, whether it be for Buchanan, Fremont or Fillmore. This much we have noticed in this anonymous call of the dissatisfied for a new Convention; it is telling against them. It is telling, because if the people, in solemn Convention, regularly called and fairly organized, and well and truly conducted upon principles of right, have seriously and earnestly, and by a very decided vote, expressed their preference once in a nomination, it is only reasonable to believe that they will be very apt to ratify, on the 4th of November at the polls, and with certain effect, what they deliberately enacted at the Convention. And we notice the call of the dissatisfied is headed Democratic-Republican. Can this move be a political one. If so, we are at a loss to know which of the great political parties of the day the dissatisfied belong. We hear of Democrats, of Republicans, and of Fillmore men, but Democratic-Republicans we have not heard of; and we seriously hope in the call they are mis-named, as we think in candor they should be called and denominated the DISSATISFIED. Did not these same men go into the Convention that nominated the ticket in question, and solemnly pledge their honor, as men, to enter into said nomination regardless of political considerations, to be united as one people, in one cause, and for one purpose, and to abide the result. We ask in reason and point to facts, to corroborate the statement when we say the ticket is what it purports to be—a People's Ticket—the candidates of every shade, hue, color and complexion of politics. Citizens of this District you have nothing to do with the dissatisfaction of disappointed candidates and political aspirants for office. Apply the Jeffersonian test, and it is enough. When asked to vote for a candidate for office, enquire—Is he honest! is he FAITHFUL! is he CAPABLE!!!

Job Printing. Having received, with our other material from Cincinnati, a large and well selected stock of Job type, we are prepared to print Posters of all sizes, Bill Heads, Bills of Lading, Articles of Agreement, Books and Pamphlets, &c., &c., at the shortest notice, in the best manner, and at as liberal terms as can be obtained in Nebraska.

Fontenelle Bank. This is the title of a new Banking institution recently opened in our flourishing city. This bank needs no recommendation at our hands, as its able and efficient officers speak volumes for its success.

Our Markets. We have made arrangements with several of our merchants, who will correct the markets for the Gazette weekly.—The public can therefore depend on them, as the true rate of prices in our city.

Gov. Izard has issued his Proclamation, for a day of Thanksgiving, on Thursday, the 20th of November next. We hope it will meet with universal respect in our Territory.

Indian Advices. We were informed by some gentlemen, who lately arrived from Salt Creek, that the Pawnees were still troublesome in that neighborhood.

"Nebraska Democrat." This paper, published by HADLEY T. JOHNSON, Esq., at Omaha, has made its appearance on our table. It looks like an old friend, and we wish it all the success its enterprising proprietor deserves.

PROCLAMATION. THANKSGIVING. WHEREAS, It has been usual for the Executive of the several States and Territories to set apart one day for the returning of thanks to the Allwise disposer of human events, for the manifold blessings which, in His gracious providence, He has been pleased to confer upon us, both as a nation and as individuals; and whereas, The people of Nebraska have abundant reason to be grateful for the continued health, peace and prosperity with which they have been blessed during the past year; Therefore, I, JOHN W. IZARD, Governor of the Territory of Nebraska, do hereby set apart Thursday, the 20th day of November, 1856, as a day of general thanksgiving, and recommend that on that day all denominations of Christians throughout the Territory do assemble at their respective places of worship, and that the citizens generally unite with them in returning grateful acknowledgments to that Almighty Being who hath hitherto so signally blessed our infant community, and that fervent prayers be offered up for a continuance of His kind guardianship and protection, and that the civil strife that now seems to threaten the stability of our glorious Union may be speedily allayed, and peace and good will be restored to our beloved Confederacy. In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the Territory to be affixed, at Omaha city, this 20 day of October, A. D. 1856. MARK W. IZARD, Governor. T. B. CERMINO, Secretary. All papers in the Territory please copy.

BLACKSMITHING. THE Undersigned beg leave to inform the Inhabitants of Douglas county, that they are prepared, to do all work in their line of business, in the best manner, and on the most liberal terms, at their shop in Bellevue. Having had several years experience at HORSE-SHOING, in some of the best shops in Eastern Cities, they will be able to give entire satisfaction, to all who favor them with their patronage, in this line. SHAW & ICETON. Bellevue, Oct. 23, 1856.—1-6m

Notwithstanding the fact that the voters of this Election District met in Convention, at the Bellevue House, in this city, on Saturday, the 11th inst., for the purpose of nominating a ticket to be supported by them at the coming election. The Convention was organized by appointing ROBERT HAMILTON, Esq., President; FREYMAN CAULKINS, and T. CURTIS, Esqs., Vice Presidents, and A. M. POLLOCK and S. D. BANGS, Secretaries.

On motion, a committee of three, consisting of B. P. Rankin, H. T. Clark and A. Lockwood, was appointed to draft a resolution expressive of the object and sentiments of the Convention, which committee reported the following preamble and resolutions, which were unanimously adopted: Whereas, Inasmuch as men may honestly and do, naturally differ in their views of government, or political economy; or in what they conceive to be for the good of the people, or the State; and in consequence of such difference of views, form political alliances, and by which the people of a neighborhood, or State, become arrayed against each other in fierce conflict, each carefully scrutinizing the actions of the other, and of those placed in official stations.

And Whereas, Such vigilance has a tendency to preserve the rights of the people, and our Republican institutions from the destroying grasp of the demagogue or political mountebank.

And Whereas, Such division of the people into political parties, is a peaceful means by which the power delegated to the agents and officers of government, is resumed by the people; and their approval or condemnation, is shown and felt, by the elective franchise. Nevertheless, there are times and occasions, when the people of a neighborhood, or a community may be called upon to forebear to act in conformity with their settled views of party or policy, in consequence of a higher, and more important duty, devolving upon them.

And Whereas, It is admitted by all that the present is a time, requiring calm consideration and mutual forbearance, in all our actions in regard to the selection of those who are to make our laws, as well as those who are to execute them.

And Whereas, The safety of our homes, and the peace of the domestic and social circle, as well as the present and future prosperity of this Territory, our adopted homes, require of us an entire forgetfulness of self, greater forbearance and sacrifice of personal ambition, more ardent labor, and persevering industry, than the mere success of party, or than is required of the people living under old and established government and laws, therefore

Resolved, That we, in Mass Convention assembled, will unite in one party, as one people, for the prosperity of the Territory, the peace of the community, the safety of our homes, and the good of all who are now, or may yet become, residents among us.

Resolved, That in conformity with the foregoing resolution, we, the people, will select such candidates for office, as will combine the best qualifications, the greatest strength and power, of the political parties of the day, and do the least violence to the principle of union and harmony.

Resolved, That in this acting, we do not change our views of men, or of the policy of the great political parties of the nation; but that we hold such views, as subordinate to the welfare of our own homes, our immediate neighborhood, and our future commonwealth.

Resolved, That in the action of this convention, we will pay no respect to political parties, but that in all we do, we will act as neighbors and friends, and with special reference to our local interests, and we obligate ourselves as men, to ratify at the polls the nominations of this Convention.

On motion the Convention proceeded to nominate a candidate for Councilman, whereupon, Gen. L. L. BOWEN, Jos. DYSON and JOHN FINNEY. The Convention then proceeded to ballot for four Representatives, which resulted in the nomination of the following candidates; S. A. STRICKLAND, CHAS. T. HOLLOWAY, JOS. DYSON and JOHN FINNEY.

A balloting was then had for County Commissioner, which resulted in the nomination of Philander Cook. On motion a committee of five consisting of B. P. Rankin, H. T. Clarke, Robt. McCarty, A. Lockwood and H. A. Longsdorf, was then appointed to confer with delegates from the counties of Burt, and Washington, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Councilman to be supported jointly by the electors of the above counties, and this district.

On motion, Resolved, That the foregoing proceedings be published in the Bellevue Gazette.

On motion the Convention adjourned. ROBERT HAMILTON, Pres. A. M. POLLOCK, Secretary. S. D. BANGS, Secretary.

Funeral Sermon—George Steers. The funeral sermon upon the death of the late George Steers was delivered on Sunday afternoon at the church in Beekman street, corner of Cliff, by Rev. Dr. Parker, and drew together a very crowded congregation. Rev. Mr. Peck, assisted by Rev. B. Evans, conducted the devotional part of the service.

The preacher for his text those words in the sixth verse of the book of Job: "Although affliction cometh not forth from the dust, neither doth trouble spring out of the ground, yet man is born to trouble, as the sparks fly upward."

There was no injustice in God's dispensations. There was the same consistence, affliction and goodness in his moral government, as in those natural laws by which the physical world is framed, sustained and regulated. And every event, however seemingly painful, will finally demonstrate the equally infinite goodness, justice and wisdom. Death and suffering are to be regarded as the consequences of the transgression of sin, and there is no form of spiritual evil which is not wisely ordained for human beings considered as sinners beneath a state of probation. This sudden bereavement was not accidental. There are no accidents in this world.

After proceeding on some length, forcibly illustrating the topics suggested by the text, the reverend gentleman passed rapidly to the principal features which distinguished the life of the deceased. He was already before the public as a man of letters, and George Steers was one of Nature's noblemen, and made of this great commercial republic, this State, yes, this whole Western Hemisphere. He has reflected honor on the name of a mechanic on the profession of a shipbuilder, on the name of a sailor. His death is a national loss, a public calamity. From a poor boy, he had risen to an eminent, brilliant and useful position, and had more reason to be proud of his country than all the learned, statesmen and philosophers who have lived since the days of Washington.

One trait in his personal character was given by the preacher which we will not omit.

He had engaged to build a small boat for the son of a lady who was urgent that it should be ready on a certain day. The work was put into the hands of his brother. On inquiring of him if it would be finished as the day agreed upon, "not unless," said his brother—"not unless I work on next Sunday." Then said the deceased "don't do it." He was inflexible in the sacred regard he paid to the observance of the Sabbath, and in the punctilious attendance upon divine worship, frequently expressing to Dr. Parker how deeply he felt to hear plain truths addressed in plain words to plain people. On the Sunday before his unexpected death he was engaged in intense interest in readings religious tract and his Bible, and told his wife that he had never during her absence in the country retired for the night without reference to its pages. He, at all events, did not profane the Sabbath, and, being dead, yet speaketh from the open grave. He says, as he did to his brother, "Don't do it." God has honored him and made him the instrument of usefulness. Such honor will be put upon the men who reverence the day he calls his own, and the authority which has appointed it. The practical deductions forming the close of the discourse were exceedingly forcible.
