SHOCKING AFFAIR IN WASHINGTON .--At the President's Levee on Friday the Bellevue. At the President's Levee on Friday the 6th, Col. D. C. Lee, a clerk in the Pension office, seized by the collar a highly shops in Eastern Cities, they will be able to respectable and wealthy gentleman of Alexandria and accused him of picking his pockets of a pocket book. An altercation ensued, ending for the moment in an exchange of cards. Soon afterwards Lee was informed that he was mistaken in his man, that this was a gentleman of high character. Yet when Hume called on him next day, with a friend, and stated his well known position in society, Lee refused to retract his charge. Hume then struck Lee three blows with a cane, and Lee shot him dead. The occurrance produced great excitement in both cities. A committee of 100 citizens of Alexandria proceeded to Washington to convey the body to his home. Lee surrendered himself, pleading that the killing was in selfdefence, was bailed, and to avoid public indignation, went to Virginia.

Another New State. - Arrangements, it is said, are making to form a State out of the northeast corner of Michigan, under the name of Superior. Michigan agrees to the surrender of that part of her territory which lies without the peninsula, and Wiscon in consents to part with that portion of her territory, which DRY GOODS, lies on the shore of the great lake: besides which Minnesota must yield a corner of her territory immediately adjoining. A memorial presenting the advantages of this new scheme is already preparing for Congress. We give this statement as we find it in the papers. No new State can thus be formed without the consent of Congress. But suppose-what is highly improbable-that Congress should consent, the State thus erected would there be sovereign-and what power would there be, in case she should refuse to ask admission, to compel her to come into the Union?
