Elopement in High Life-A Husband avenges his Wrongs.

Just a week ago, when New York was under the utmost excitement, consequent upon the scenes of riot and blood shed enacted the night previous, in Williamsburgh. also, occurred a scene in which bloodshed Largest & Best Selected resulted, not between characters assimilaand standing in the business community, as well as the social circles of New York. when he was pursued by the husband, who, in the heat of passion, repeatedly stabled the young man with a bowie knife, articles ; until he was supposed to be mortally wounded. The affair occurred between three and four o'clock on Sunday morning, the 25th ult., without any outery having been made, and there has since been an attempt to suppress the facts from the gossiping world. We give the facts below:

Mr. A .---- is a heavy merchant in New York, and his residence for some time past been in Williamsburg, in the BOOTS and SHOES, of every variety and aristocratic portion of the city known as atyle. South Side. His wife is a beautiful and accomplished woman, belonging to a wealthy and highly respectable family in New York, and was looked upon by her husband as every thing that could be desired in a partner for life.

The third person, Mr. B .---, a young man doing business in New York, is also of high standing.

Some three months since the wife and Mr. B. formed an acquaintance in a Broadway saloon. The two frequently met at perior article of FLOUR always on hand. the same place, and finally became ar-dently attached, and feeling that they would be unhappy if separated, the lady decided to abandon her husband and children and elope with her lover. On the morning in question, Mrs. A. left the house, and meeting a carriage, she immediately sprung into it, when the driver proceeded toward the South Tenth street ferry.

The husband was now convinced of the intentions of his wife, and overtaking the carriage, wrenched open the door, and immediately commenced an onslaught upon the young man with a bowie knife, and did not desist until he had inflicted a dangerous wound in the neck, several upon the arm, and one which will render the arm useles, and also a severe gash across the stomach. During the melee the young man discharged his pistol, the ball grazing his adversary's forehead and causing a slight wound.

The carriage was turned back to the house, the young man removed to a room, and the family physician was called in to dress the works the works of the last Legislature will be placed in the hands of the Commisdress the wounds.
