HARD TIMES IN NEW YORK CITY.—We extract the following, from a private letter, from a brother typo, dated New York, Oct. 3, 1857:—

"Business is in a desperate condition. Many of the country banks have suspended specie payments, and hardly any bills, except city, will be taken for full value. Thousands of the poor, have to pay from 10 to 20 cts. discount, upon the money they now have,—consequently, business is nearly at a stand-still, in all its branches. Some of the printing offices, (the largest book and job offices,) have suspended labor, for the present.

In some branches of business, laborers have been reduced to eight hours' work, per day, and some even less, when they indeed work at all. This, will, indeed, be a disastrous winter for the poor. I hope, however, we will all find enough to do, to supply us with sustenance; but in all probability, the kind offices of benevolent soup makers, will again be called into requisition."

Correspondence of the Omaha Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 14th, 1857. DEAR TIMES:—My communication will not be very lengthy to you this week, owing to the dullness of the city and the scarcity of the news. There are a few strangers in town—the forerunners of the great migration here this winter, of office and pleasure seekers.

Your Delegate elect is in town, and is received with a cordial welcome by the heads of the different Departments.—What a contrast there is between him and the insignificant Chapman. B. B. Chapman is here also, and trying to oppose and embarrass all of Judge Ferguson's movements—how effectually remains to be seen. He is received with coolness, and is not recognised as having any right or voice in matters connected with the Territory, although he claims he should be heard.

I heard a story from some of Chapman's friends—accompanied with a wink—that there was a case before the Interior Department in which Judge Ferguson was implicated—something about his pre-empting a piece of land on which he had not lived according to law. I took the trouble to call and examine the matter, thinking it might be interesting to you. There is nothing of it—a mere humbug yarn—no papers being on file as reported, and no such case known to the Department.

The substance of the matter is, it is a base falsehood circulated by B. B. Chapman and his friends to the prejudice of Judge Ferguson.

The State laws require N. O. Banks to keep an amount of specie on hand equal to one-third of their liabilities. The penalty for falling below this is $100 on each director for every day that the bank is "out of line,"—a pretty effectual bar to expansion.
