DEATH CLAIMS J. N. TYNER.

Former Postmaster-General, Under Cloud, Expires at Washington.

Former Postmaster General James N. Tyner died at Washington Dec. 5, aged 78 years. He was born in Brooksville, Ind., Jan. 17, 1826. Mr. Tyner had never recovered his health since he was stricken with paralysis in July, 1902. Besides being postmaster general, Mr. Tyner has held many offices of public trust.

The stroke of paralysis which shattered Mr. Tyner's health occurred in July, 1902, while he was assistant attorney general, and he never discharged the duties of his office after it.

Mr. Tyner has been identified with the postal service most of the time since March, 1861, when he was appointed a special agent in the department. The sensational climax to his official career occurred in April, 1903, when he was removed by Postmaster General Payne following the taking by Mrs. Tyner and Mrs. Barrett of papers from the safe in the office of the assistant attorney general, of which Mr. Tyner was then the head. Mr. Tyner was ill at home and the office was under investigation by postoffice inspectors.

The postoffice department gave out a statement at the time Tyner and Barrett were indicted, which set forth that there were three indictments charging Tyner and Barrett with conspiracy and two additional indictments charging Barrett with agreeing, while in office, to receive fees for services rendered or to be rendered in cases before him as an officer. It was charged that Tyner and Barrett investigated the business of bond investment companies and learned that they were all carrying on a business that involved fraud or larceny, both, but that instead of recommending to the postmaster general the issue of an order that would prevent the delivery of mail or the payment of money orders to those concerns, and would thus break up their business, they conspired to give them unobstructed use of the mails in order that Barrett might profit thereby.

It was charged that Barrett formed a law partnership for the handling of the cases of these concerns before the department; that Barrett wrote a report with Tyner's connivance, declaring that while the business was illegal as then conducted, the principle was right; that Tyner and Barrett procured the signature of the postmaster general to a letter written by Barrett stating that a reasonable time would be given for making over this business, during which time their use of the mails would not be interrupted.

It was charged that this opinion was printed at government expense and sent to every known company, with a circular letter to each stating that the business of that company was illegal; that about the same time—December, 1900—Barrett sent to each company an announcement that he had resigned from office and would handle their cases for them.

Andrew Carnegie Borrowed Dime.

Andrew Carnegie found himself on a street car in New York the other day without a cent in his pocket. A fellow passenger offered him the necessary nickel, which was gratefully accepted. "Are you coming back again?" asked the stranger, who on receiving the affirmative reply, said: "Then you'd better take another nickel." The multi-millionaire again accepted and asked the benefactor's card. This was forthcoming, and next day the good-natured passenger received a case of champagne and a cordial note of thanks.

Easy Escape from Dilemma.

In the days when Mark Twain was an editor out west he was not so well off as of late years. One morning the mail brought a bill from his tailor, not an unusual occurrence. The boy who went through the mail called the future humorist's attention to it. "And," added the boy, "he has written on the back that he wants a settlement at once." "You know what to do with such copy without asking," said Mr. Twain. "Inclose it with the regular printed slip stating that all manuscript written on both sides of the paper is unavailable."

Disapprove of Games of Chance.

Archbishop Farley of New York has notified the priests of his diocese that he intends to enforce the rule which makes it incumbent on the priests to seek the permission of their bishop before holding fairs and euchre parties for the benefit of the church. It was said at the cathedral that church euehrs and fairs had not been forbidden, but that the authorities disapproved of them and only gave permission in cases where their value is clearly recognized and where they are hedged about with proper precautions.

Oregon's Junior Senator.

Charles W. Fulton, junior senator from Oregon, had been eminent both as a lawyer and legislator in his state for a long while prior to his election as successor to Mr. Simon, Senator Fulton is a man of fine appearance, in the prime of life, and would impress even the casual observer as the possessor of high intellectual qualities and strength of character. He was born in Ohio, in the town of Lima, something like half a century ago, and passed his boyhood years in Iowa

AN ACCOMMODATING COURT.

Gladly Rips Up a Law the Parryites Did Not Want.

The New York court of appeals has just decided that the eight-hour law of that state is unconstitutional. The men who employ labor wanted that kind of a decision, and courts are very accommodating these days. If such a law is unconstitutional there is only one thing to do—change the constitution. If the court is wrong, change the court. Who said anarchy? Bless your innocent soul, Abraham Lincoln set the precedent of changing courts so as to secure the kind of a decision wanted by the people and needed just as badly as the people wanted the change. When the supreme court declined the legal tender act unconstitutional Lincoln merely secured a change in the law, increased the number of judges on the supreme bench and then appointed men who would decide that the legal tender act was constitutional. Then it was re-enacted. Who will deny that Abraham Lincoln is a good pattern for workmen to follow?

Of course your union stands ready to employ a musical union orchestra just as soon as the musicians now organized into an orchestra secure their charter from the international.

William Allen, W. S. Dimmit, and Robert Strain have been elected to represent the local Barbers' Association in the Central Labor Union.
