THAT LABOR DECISION

The supreme court of the United States has just decided a case that affects the labor question and is a blow to labor organization. This decision declares that no eight hour law or ten hour law can interfere with the individual right to contract. There is much to the question, and persons who much to the question, and persons who have not lived in cities where the labor question is a vital one, can hardly judge fairly. People in the country know nothing about the labor question except that there is always work and no end to it. But to the city workman it presents itself in an entirely different view, and we should hear both sides, before deciding. The eight hour law passed in many states has been a great help to labor organizations and has in turn been bitterly antagonized by those who employ in great num-bers. The greedy corporations have bers. The greedy corporations have won a great victory, which means mil-lions of additional profits where profits are already large.—Hastings (Neb.) Democrat.
