

Some Snappy Clothes For Young Men

We bought them because they were snappy, stylish and durable. We offer them at prices that must attract attention because of the extra values for the money

Double Breasted Suits, at $10.00, $12.50, $15.00

Other stores ask 20 to 30 per cent more for goods no better—often not as good. These suits come in worsteds and chevots, stylish patterns, hand tailored, built to fit. We have never been able to offer better bargains.

Stylish Shoes to Match the Suits

In two-piece suits we are showing some extra fine patterns and unusual values, at $5.00, $8.50 and $10.00--Worth Double.

Shirts in the new tans and fancy colors.
Wash vests from $1.00 to $1.50--Worth Double.
The latest things in straw hats. We have the finest line in town.

"THE DIFFERENT STORE"

We are out of the high rent district and it makes a difference in the price you pay. We make the low price when the season opens; not at the close, and that makes a difference. In fact, this is a "Different Store" all around—and our patrons share the benefit with us. We'll outfit you from hat to shoes—everything you wear—for a $10.00 bill, and give you a better outfit than you can get elsewhere for twice the money. Come and be convinced. Corner Tenth and P Streets.

The Teamsters' Strike Practically Lost and Some Ugly Charges Made.

The Teamsters' strike in Chicago is practically lost, and nothing is to be gained by denying the fact. The odds were too great. Besides, the strike seems to have been mismanaged, if not ill-advised. President Shea made a gallant fight against tremendous odds, and while he has lost he has shown himself a splendid general.

Early in the week he was thrown into jail on contempt charges, brought before Judge Kohlsaat, who seems bound to repay the sinister influences that secured his promotion to the federal bench. President Shea's imprisonment seems to have been more the result of Sheriff Barrett's hasty temper than anything else. He is in no danger of remaining in confinement long.

The employers association is discovering that it played with fire in instigating reports of rioting and bloodshed when little or nothing of the kind happened. The Chicago Public, edited by Louis F. Post—than whom no fairer or abler exponent of civic righteousness and fairness lives—says of the employers' association and the exaggerated reports of trouble:

"Their newspapers called for Federal troops, called for them in 'scare' head lines, before any violence had been committed. They have called for them throughout the strike, although the actual violence has done less damage to life and property than a Fourth of July celebration. They are calling for them again, now that the strike is extending, although no violence has occurred, and nothing unusual is observable in the streets except policemen on wagons riding beside the drivers. Not only have they shouted for troops in season and out of season from the beginning, but they have tried to make occasion for troops. When they imported negro strike breakers from the south they did so because they hoped and expected that the strikers would be excited to violence by the sight of negroes in their places. A race war is what they sought, and a race war is what they have almost given us. Their object has been to involve the city in state and federal complications, and thereby to demoralize public sentiment regarding Mayor Dunne and his traction policy, to such an extent as to baffle him in giving that policy effect."

The strike would have been settled long ago and all trouble averted, had it not been for the arrogant attitude of the express companies. Some of these days Uncle Sam will go into the express business and then the arrogant express company managers will have ample time to sit and bite their thumbs. The sooner the better.

THE STROLLER.

Some Observations Made on General Things by a Union Man.

On Tenth and O there were some men standing and the following is the conversation I overheard between them:

"What's the difference between nude and naked?"

One said he did not know. One said, "The excise board." One said, "The city improvement club, the same that kicked the poor bootblack's kit off the sidewalk." A newcomer spoke up and said: "You are evidently discussing some pictures in an O street book store window that I have just seen," and they answered in the affirmative.

"I will answer your question by asking another: 'What would be the difference in our stripping off our clothing and running down O street and looking in this book store this Sunday morning, June 4th?'"

"What in the name of decency are the police force and excise board and other organizations that are supposed to look out for the morality of this peaceful city doing anyhow? I want to say that the man or woman that is responsible for those pictures being in that show window is worse than any prostitute that ever walked the streets. Because a book store is supposed to be a place where a child could go without being ashamed of it."

"My advice is to every father and mother and everybody else that has decency enough left to have an honest wish to go to heaven after they die to cut that particular book store from their visiting list, and spread the knowledge of the character of the place."

Having delivered the above the man walked on.

"The conversation lagged, and I strolled down the street. I soon came up with a crowd that was standing around one of the rare public institutions of Lincoln, namely; a drinking fountain. The crowd were waiting their time to quench their thirst. Finally it dawned on the intellect of some of them that they would starve to death before they would all get a drink. It reminded me of a story about a grist mill in Kentucky where a certain farmer had the material for Johnnie-cake ground. Depositing his sacks of grains and while they were being ground he thought he would go and 'licker' up some. When later he called, he asked the miller if his grain was ground. The miller answered 'No.' 'Shich-a-ell-of-a-mill, eat it fasher'm you can grime it.' The miller in a sarcastic tone asked him how long he could eat it. 'Till I starve to death, by gum.' In the general discussion around this fountain, so-called public, the conclusion was reached that the stream was too small. Some laid the blame to the mayor, some said the excise board had turned it off to stimulate the saloon business, and some even laid it to the Commercial Club, but one fellow spoke up and said: "The Commercial Club is not to blame because they never drink water." All this made me very hot and dry, so I went home and introduced myself to the pump handle in my own back yard. "THE STROLLER."

Bans Convict Labor.
President Roosevelt has issued an order prohibiting the employment of convict labor on government works. The question was raised in connection with certain river and harbor improvements in Arkansas, the contractor for which desired to employ a number of state convicts under contract with the authorities.—Trades Union News.
