CAPITAL AUXILIARY.

The June Social a Success From the Start to the Finish.

The June social of Capital Auxiliary No. 11 was held at Bohannon's hall Wednesday evening, and while the attendance was not as large as it should have been it was large enough to evidence a continued interest in the Auxiliary. A musical program of unusual excellence was rendered, opening with a piano and cornet duet by Fred W. Mickel and Clarence Mickel. Mr. Mickel officiated on the cornet and Master Clarence presided at the piano. Little Miss Dorothy Righter and Master Perry Barngrover greatly pleased the audience, Master Perry singing while Miss Dorothy presided at the piano. Mr. Peters sang a couple of solos and Master Clarence Mickel rendered a piano solo. Fred Karcher and Don Thomas entertained the audience for thirty minutes, Karcher playing the saxophone, hango and cello, while Thomas accompanied on a harp-guitar. These gentlemen have well earned reputations for musical ability and they added to it on this occasion. Many professional teams drawing big money stack up beside Karcher and Thomas like three lead dimes by the side of a week's wages. Had they been influenced wholly by applause the chances are that they would have been playing yet.

After the close of the show at the Oliver Mr. Jesse Fulton and Mr. Castlebury appeared, Mr. Fulton singing one of his best songs and Mr. Castlebury singing a rollicking song and winding up with a little jig step that greatly pleased all present. Mr. Jack Glines, manager of the Fulton Stock company, made a great hit with a baton swinging act, showing himself to be an artist in that as well as in other lines. From start to finish the program was entertaining, and it had a lot of musical entertainment beaten both ways from the middle. Mr. Fulton was urged to sing more, but could not respond, owing to limited time. Refreshments were served during the evening, and dancing was indulged in by those who so desired. Taken as a whole the social was one of the best ever given by an organization in the city. The thanks of the Auxiliary are due to the gentlemen who so kindly lent their services, and they will please consider this as official notification thereof.

GUARDED INDIFFERENCE
 May C., the six-year-old daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman in a small Georgia village, had a playmate, Jimmy by name, of whom it was her custom to make a special mention in her evening prayer at her mother's

One evening after some childish quarrel, Mrs. C. noticed that the boy's name was omitted from the petition, and said, "Mary, aren't you going to pray for Jimmy tonight?" "No, mother; he's a mean, hateful boy, and I'm never going to pray for him any more." Her mother made no reply, not wishing to add fuel to the flame and decided to allow the youthful conscience to work out the problem in its own way. In a few moments she fell upon her knees, and said, in a tone of guarded indifference: "God, you can bless Jimmy if you want to, but you needn't do it on my account."

Independent Workmen

A movement is on foot to import monkeys to California to pick prunes, it being estimated that 500 Simians, well muzzled, can do the job more quickly and at less cost than can human labor, says an exchange. This will undoubtedly be hailed with delight by the Parryites and boarding house keepers. At last a "free and independent" workman can be secured who will turn a deaf ear to the wiles of the walking delegate.—Coopers' Journal.
