What Is Christianity?

It is not an ecclesiastical rite. To be baptized or to attend a communion service is to some men the sum and substance of Christianity. Others have insisted that the church represents all that there is of Christianity. Unfortunately, while the church has been the instrument by which the truth has been proclaimed, it has not always been true to its own message.

Others have said that religion is Christianity. A man may be very religious, and yet not be very much of a Christian. There is a great difference between Christianity and "religion." Sometimes it is said that a man has become insane because he had too much religion. That may be true, but you never heard of a man becoming insane because he had too much Christianity.

What then is Christianity? There is a text in Scripture which reads, "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His." Christianity is a character and a life; the possession and the manifestation of the spirit of Christ. Some men have given us distorted pictures of that life, and others looking on, have said, "That is Christianity."

It is not the life of the monk. Some great and good men and women have secluded themselves from the sin of the world and the power of its temptation by entering monasteries, but Christ, in praying for His disciples, said, "I pray not that thou shouldst take them out of the world, but that thou shouldst keep them from the evil." The world needs its best men and women as forces for righteousness.

Neither is the Christian life the life of the stoic. The Puritans were noble characters, but for most of them this world was a howling wilderness. To them laughter and mirth were the signs of an unregenerate soul. Christ does not command that a man should shut his heart and his mind to the good and the beautiful things of the world—the flowers and ferns, the rocks and rivers, the skies and the sunshine, the melody and music. Christ's life was a constant protest against the narrow spirit of the Puritans.

The Christian life is not the dual life—a double life. Sometimes men separate certain acts, and say of them, "this is my religious life," and of another set of acts, "this is my secular life." Christ never made such a distinction. He taught that every act of a man's life is a part of his Christian life. It is no more of a religious duty for you to go to church on Sunday than it is for you to go to the shop, or office, or store on Monday. One is just as sacred a duty as the other. The life of the preacher is no more a "religious" life than the life of the day laborer should be. They simply serve in different ways.

Christianity is not an ethereal thing somewhere up in the sky. It has to do with the here and now. There is no more practical thing in the world. What that life and that spirit is Christ has told us in His teachings and in His own life upon earth. Here, then is the test of every man's Christianity, "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His."—Rev. Charles Stejzle.

HELPS AND HURTS.

Helps Your Friends and Hurts Your Industrial Enemy.

Now that it has become a habit for you to look for the label on the candidates' cards, why not carry out the good work by insisting on the label being in your spring suit of clothes. Look over the Label League's list, get wise to the stores that handle men's clothing bearing the garment workers' label and then see to it that you get no other. We bank on the lady of the house standing pat for union labeled clothes for the "old man." It is worth more to the union to buy your spring clothes bearing the garment workers' label than to pay dues this month. And there is such a satisfaction in one's heart when the right thing has been done. The best boycott to carry on is to buy the clothes with the label in them. That pleases the union factory and hurts the unfair firm. See?—Western Laborer.

WOULDN'T WORK HERE.

Lincoln Has Very Little Need of Policemen as it is.

The police force of an Indiana city recently went on strike for an increase of $10 a month in their wages. A lot of prisoners working on the street seized the opportunity to escape and the striking policemen made no effort to stop them.

The Wageworker knows nothing about the merits of this strike, but it does know that the policemen of Lincoln would be foolish to try it. True the local police are poorly paid, but this good city is so quiet and orderly that we have almighty little need of policemen. If the local force went on strike for an increase in their poor pay they might find themselves entirely out, for the authorities might take a notion to let the city go without police protection.

Yes, we are just a little proud of this issue. Can you blame us?

BACK FROM WASHINGTON.

Things Not Looking Good in the Government Printing Office.

Sam McCoy, a well known Lincoln printer who went to Washington a year ago to work in the "G. O. P." is back again. He says he likes Washington, all right, all right, but is content to get back to Nebraska. The new superintendent of the government print shop is a Typothetae man and some uneasiness is felt among the employees there. The introduction of the typesetting machines—there are 150 of them in the shop now—has let out a number of men. When congress adjourns a lot more will be given extended vacations. For these reasons

Mr. McCoy decided to come back to good old Nebraska.

While there he met Sam DeNeiry, well known to Nebraska printers, and says that Sam has got a good job and is getting along in fine style.

A STRIKE—NOT A BOYCOTT.

The local ice company insists on raising prices from 40 to 75 per cent merely because it thinks it has a cinch. Boycotting is illegal, and not for world's would The Wageworker advocate a boycott. But it has been judicially decided that a strike is legal, and right now is the time for Lincoln people to go on strike.

If the local ice company persists in its determination to charge all the traffic will bear, the ice consuming public ought to go on strike against it. The formation of a big "No Ice League" and the prosecution of an active campaign might have some effect. Of course it would be inconvenient to do without ice, for we have become accustomed to it. But it can be done. The Revolutionary fathers managed to get along without tea, didn't they? And don't you recollect the stirring declaration of the brave old American gentleman, "Millions for defense; not one cent for tribute!"

Tell the local ice company that it can take its product at present prices and go straight to Tophet. They need ice there much more than we need it in Lincoln.

TENTH AND "P" STREETS

WESTERN LAND!

400,000 ACRES IN NEBRASKA, KANSAS, COLORADO

Do not be deceived. Do not let others tell you that western land in these states are in a dry, sandy, barren country, and that irrigation is necessary to raise crops.

CENTRAL AND WESTERN NEBRASKA
Good, fertile, black loam soil in this locality ranges in price from $9 to $25 per acre, governed mostly by distance from market, and lay of land. Black, sandy loam, which is very productive, can be bought for as low as $5 per acre.

WESTERN KANSAS
No state in the union affords better investments than does this one. The soil is of a rich, dark chocolate loam, very deep and noted for its wonderfully productive powers. There is no hard-pan or gumbo, and the quality is practically the same all over the country. We can sell you land in this locality for from $5 to $14 per acre, governed wholly by distance from market.

EASTERN COLORADO
This country affords opportunity for the biggest returns of any investment we have to offer. Speculators have usually gone to the state line of Nebraska and Kansas and purchased, when they could have gone a few miles farther across the state line and procured just as good land at greatly reduced figures. We can sell you this land at $5 per acre, one-third cash, balance on easy terms.

The eyes of the capitalist, the business man, the farmer, the renter, all are turned to the western part of these states. For a further description, or list of any location you desire, call on or write us.

GILSON'S SORE THROAT CURE.

Good for Tonsillitis.

Office of W. M. LINE, M. D.

Germantown, Neb., Feb. 8, 1904.

I have had most excellent results with Gilson's Sore Throat Cure in diseases of the throat and mucous linings. I find its application in tonsillitis and cases where a false membrane exists in the throat, as in diphtheria, to have an immediate effect, loosening and removing the membrane, and thereby at once relieving this distressing sensation of smothering noted in these cases. My clinical experience with Gilson's Sore Throat Cure has proved to me its value and I can heartily recommend it to all as a safe and reliable preparation for the disease it is recommended.
