Ed the Machinist

He had no particular talent. He was just an ordinary machinist. But Ed Douglas was more highly respected by the two thousand men in the shop than any other chap in the place. His was one of the few names that were familiar to pretty nearly every fellow working in that big plant. Ed was not popular with the men because he set out to make himself popular by always agreeing with his shop-mates. Indeed, he frequently went full tilt against their opinions, and, principally, against their actions. Often I have seen him approach the fellow who had just ripped out a string of oaths, and rebuke him, although never with a suggestion of pharisaical supremacy. He was simply trying to show the blasphemer that it would pay him to cut out his foolish, senseless swearing.

He did not belong to any of the fraternal organizations, but I have known him to spend many a night with a sick shop-mate. Frequently he left in the home part of the not over-abundant cash in his pocket, but, better than that he left a smile on the face of the tired, discouraged nurse-wife—the children wished that he might come again, and the sick man felt the cheer of his presence.

He was an arbitrator in personal disputes in the shop, and the boys never repudiated his decisions. Not infrequently he dared approach the boss in behalf of a supposedly wronged fellow-workman. The boys admired his disinterested nerve. Somehow, he seemed to know when the rest of us had met with adversity, or even the smaller discouragements which made life seem hard. Always was there a strong, cheerful word which usually braced up the fellow who thought that the thought that the whole world had gone wrong. The apprentices were particularly fond of him, because he appeared to have a lively interest in their affairs. Never did he seem to hand out wisdom in large chunks, with an air of patronage or paternalism. Never was there a suspicion of cant. Ed was just a sane, healthy-minded, strong-hearted Christian workman, who felt that there was a place for Christian living outside of the church building, and away from the Sunday services.

May his kind increase. We need them. The sympathetic touch of a shop-mate counts for more than most of us imagine. Every morning brings its weight of woe, and every evening its burden. No matter what the cause, the need is ever the same, and relief is usually found in the simple, manly message of love and sympathy, manifested in the life of the fellow who works by our side. At least, it will help, for it is doing just what the Great Carpenter did, and what He would continue to do were He upon earth. That's what made Douglas, the machinist, a bigger factor in the lives of those two thousand workmen than any other single individual. It paid him, too. Anyway, you'd think so if you could see his face while he worked—worked for men and for God—just as a machinist.—Rev. Charles Steible.

HONOR TO UNIONISM.

Mayor Schmitz's Record a Source of Pride to Labor.

If ever a man was put to the grand test, that man is Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco. No more trying situation could be conceived, no greater strain; no condition of affairs more calculated to show whether or not he is a big man in a big place.

Reports which come are of a most flattering nature. Schmitz has taken hold of an awful situation and made the best of a bad business. Even news sources not particularly friendly to him have been forced to admit that his administration of affairs in this disaster has been all that could be desired.

He has shown that he possessed a cool head, a strong hand and a warm heart. Schmitz is a civic novelty. He is the patron of no political party, having been elected on a labor union ticket. Naturally his enemies were many, and only those familiar with the affairs of San Francisco know the bitterness of the fight against him.

When San Francisco has experienced the worst of her sufferings Schmitz will have emerged stronger than ever, for his handling of the big disaster. In these times of trouble all previous differences have been forgotten, and his bitterest opponents have worked with him heart and soul. And he lost no time in appointing such as these on the relief committee.—The Revellie, Butte, Mont.

PUNCH UP THE SECRETARY.

If your union has subscribed for The Wageworker and you do not get it, the fault is your own. If you change your residence it is your place to notify the secretary of your union, and his place to notify the publisher. The publisher of The Wageworker is not a mind reader. Unless he is told where to address you he will never know it.

PROPERTY OWNERS HAVE RIGHT

Men Who Have Built Homes Deserve Some Little Consideration.

Have the men who have built their little homes by honest toil no rights which the city council of Lincoln is bound to consider? This question naturally arises when one investigates the conditions surrounding the lumber shed proposed in Block 4, Lincoln Driving Park, Second Sub-Division. The city council has granted a permit for the erection of lumber shed 78x136 feet in size on this block. On this block there are eighteen houses, all but four of them modern, and all but three or four occupied by their owners. Nearly every man living in this block works at some trade, and his home represents the savings of years of toil. Now it is proposed to erect an unsightly lumber shed the entire length of the block, shutting off both view and air, endangering the residence property and providing a death trap at the Rock Island grade crossing at Nineteenth and R streets. The shed is projected to run along the Rock Island track and extend to the lot line at each end. At the speed which Rock Island trains maintain there both crossings will be practically death traps. The shed violates the city ordinances. The permit is for a shed sixteen feet high, yet the shed is higher than that. The city ordinances read as follows:

Article XXV—Fire—Sec 8: No person without first obtaining a permit from the city council therefor, shall hereafter establish or keep any lumber yard or place for the storage or piling or deposit of lumber for sale, in quantity exceeding 10,000 feet, upon land within the fire limits of the city.

Sec. 9: No lumber shall be piled for the purpose of storage, seasoning or drying the same, within fifty feet of any planing mill, or wood-working manufactory, nor within fifty feet of any private residence, unless the same has been erected since the establishment of such yard.

Despite this plain provision this shed is within eighteen feet of two residences built long before the shed was projected.

The Wageworker calls the attention of its readers to the fact that this shed will seriously injure twelve or fourteen union men who have built homes in that block. Their union brothers owe it to them to give them help in preventing this outrage. The councilmen who seem ready to violate the city laws and their own oaths should be given to understand that in this matter the injured union men are going to have the support of their union brothers. The councilman who countenances this outrage is going to have some almighty difficult explaining to do to the unionists of this city when the next city election comes around.

CAPITAL AUXILIARY NO. 11.

Where two or more printers' wives are gathered together there you will hear of the Colorado Springs convention. Everybody wants to go. Let's deny ourselves a few luxuries and save up our pennies. Our auxiliary will mean more to us after we have attended an international convention.

Miss Clara King left Monday evening for Kalamazoo, Mich. She went to do stenographic work for Mr. Eager of the Duplex Phonograph Co. She may return in a month, but possibly not till fall.

Mrs. Will Bustard is enjoying a visit from her grandmother of Wahoo.

Mr. and Mrs. Barngrover are entertaining J. Ross Williamson of Humboldt, and Mrs. Clay Jones and son Allen, of Aurora.

Mrs. Odell and children have returned from a pleasant visit on a farm near Cortland. They reveled in the spring sunshine and grew fat on the good things of life.

A committee has been appointed to plan for a May social. You may depend upon it that it will be worth your time and money to attend it.

Miss Lois and Master Wilbur Pentzer are having an interesting experience with measles. Who next?

In writing to friends, Raleigh Wilson, son of our sister, Mrs. B. O. Wilson, gives the information that he is having a nice time with the Campbell Bros. Railroad shows. Raleigh says he and his partner, Wilford David, do the clown act and manage to keep the crowds in good humor. He says the eating is just like mother's, and that he has "no pl" to throw in, thank doughnuts." We wish him an abundance of success.

E. Fred Carr, who has just graduated from the Bennett Medical College, Chicago, stopped over in Lincoln Tuesday to see his friends, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Smith and Miss Hazel. Dr. Carr was on his way to Grand Island.

The dowager queen, Emma of the Netherlands, mother of Queen Wilhelmina, was thrown from an automobile at Steinfurst, Westphalia. The machine struck a butcher's wagon, ejecting her majesty and Prince Von Benheim-Steinfurst. The queen mother was bruised, but resumed her ride.
