Among the Railroad Men

There is every indication that the railroad men in all branches of the mechanical service will soon make a concerted request for increased wages. It is a fact easy of demonstration that the wage has not kept pace with the amount of work demanded from the men, to say nothing of keeping pace with the increased cost of living. Train men are compelled to perform about 200 per cent more service than they did ten years ago, but the wage scale has remained discouragingly near the old point. The men believe they should have some share in the benefits of the improved machines and methods.

submit their demands to the Gould system, and then follow up by doing the same with the other roads. The conductors will give their first attention to the Great Northern.

Only a comparative few of the switchmen belong to the Switchmen's Brotherhood, the majority of them being members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. There is the utmost harmony between the switchmen of the two organizations, however, and they will stand together when their demands are made.

There are some evidences of friction between the engineers' and the firemen's organizations. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen recently decided on a change of name and will hereafter be known as the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

Naturally this has aroused some opposition in the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. A great many members of the firemen's organization who have been promoted to the right side of the cab have retained their membership with the firemen. The result has been more or less friction which the head officers have not been able to quite remove.

The same situation prevails, only to a more limited extent in other branches of the train service. The brakemen belong to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, while the conductors have a separate organization. A number of recently promoted brakemen continue their membership in the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and decline to enter the Order of Railway Conductors. It is going to take some good head work to get these little matters straightened out.

During the twenty months ending

September 1, 384 locomotive engineers were killed while in the line of duty. During the same period 1, 120 engineers received disability benefits. Grand Chief Stone says that the average life of a locomotive engineer is ten years from the time he assumes charge of an engine. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has paid out millions of dollars to disabled engineers and to the widows and orphans of those who have met death while on duty.

The Wabash seems to be in line for a bit of trouble over the wage scale. A Chicago paper has the following to say about it:

"Engineers, firemen and switchmen have specific complaints against the Wabash. If the enginemen quit work the switchmen will also walk out."

"Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, presided at a meeting of the representatives of that organization which was held in the Grand Pacific hotel. Stone declined to discuss the possibility of a strike, but he was not averse to discussing the general order of the Wabash company which declared that engineers on fast trains should not in the future be permitted to wear eyeglasses. It was said that it was likely that the engineers, firemen and switchmen would meet before the close of the month and that they would come to some kind of an arrangement that would put the one agreement at the back of the other. At the present time there is no agreement between the different unions of railway organizations and there is none which may become involved in a fight with a railroad company that may hope for the support of another union of railway men."

body, ought to take the matter up at once and perfect plans for going after the convention.

ELECTRICAL WORKERS.

Work has never been better in the electrical business than at present, and the local men are hustling for all they are worth.

The Citizens' Street Railway company has its trolley lines and rail connections all ready. The track work will be completed to Eleventh and O streets this week, and it is thought that cars will be running regularly before the end of next week. This line has afforded employment to quite a number of electrical workers.

Electrical workers are still on strike at Louisville.

The electrical workers organized sixteen unions in August.

Electrical workers of Grand Rapids, Mich., with the exception of three shops, have been granted the eight-hour day.

Detroit electrical workers have arranged for a series of lectures on the ethics of their calling. Omaha unions ought to continue their open meetings with a technical address sandwiched in with the balance of the program.

Three hundred and fifty telephone girls of Chicago struck against going into the exchange by a rear door to reach which they had to traverse a back alley and the rear of several saloons. The public soon awoke to the fact that the girls were in the right and the company now permits a front door entrance.

CAPITAL AUXILIARY.

Getting Ready For a Lot of Good Times This Winter.

Something is going to happen. We are going to have a "Bazaar" and a jolly good time thrown in. Will let every one know about it in time to come. Of course we know every one wants to come.

"Printerville" is very bright nowadays, as Mrs. C. B. Righter is having her house painted.

Mrs. W. S. Butsard returned Monday from a visit at Wahoo.

The Auxiliary will give a market at the Keystone grocery Saturday, October 20.

THE AMERICAN FEDERATION.

Meets in Minneapolis This Year and Can Be Had for Lincoln.

The annual convention of the American Federation of Labor meets in Minneapolis on November 12. Lincoln ought to have a couple of good hustlers up there to work for Lincoln. There is no reason why the 1907 convention should not be held in this city, and the editor of The Wagoner believes that a little systematic hustling will secure it. He has mentioned the matter to several local merchants and they have expressed themselves as willing to assist in getting it.

The convention would bring several hundred representative labor men to Lincoln, and they would be here from ten days to two weeks. The attendance is growing every year, and with its splendid railroad facilities and its central location, Lincoln would attract an unusually large attendance. Local unions, and especially the central

THE PLUMBERS.

Local plumbers have taken ample doses of ginger lately, and as a result are up and coming, in the matter of pushing the work of unionism.

Ed. English has been down in Fairbury showing the natives of that burg what a union plumber can do to make "scab" work look like the puttering of a schoolboy.

The plumbers had 250 delegates in attendance at Toronto. Among the more important subjects before the convention was the establishment of a Home. A proposition was under consideration from Pueblo.

Seattle plumbers, painters and sheet metal workers have secured increased wages, while painters and sign writers obtained the Saturday half holiday.

The Steam Engineers have organized unions in St. Louis, Mo.; Olympia, Wash.; Norwich, Conn.; Springfield, O.; New York, N. Y.; and Eureka, Cal., since May.
