"THE LOST LEGION"

NEW FIGHTING FORCE IN THE WORLD'S ARMIES.

At Home in Any Part of the Earth, Their Services in Warfare Will Be of High Value to Countries Employing Them.

The first fire of a new army has been lighted; the world has a new fighting force, the fighting force of "the lost legion." The legion of frontiersmen, says the London Sketch, have made their first bivouac, not, indeed, as they would have wished it, under a sky reddened by the glare of battle, but that they might notify in time of peace that they will be ready in time of strife. They are becoming an arm of imperial defense and they aim at being the intelligence branch of the service when the god of war calls for sacrifice. They represent the true frontiersmen, men who have worked, hunted or fought in wild countries or at sea, the brotherhood of the camps. Guerrilla tactics are second nature to them, and so it is that they will act as guides, scouts, pioneers and mobile forces for raiding. Wherever their numbers are sufficient they will have a command.

Typical of all are their founder and honorary secretary, Frontiersman Roger Pocock, and the London commandant, Mr. De Hora. Both are born adventurers—we use the word in its older senses, deprecating the fashion that has distorted the term into meaning some form of skunk. Frontiersman Pocock has been many things. He was clerk in the cable service, a laborer on a fruit farm and a general farm in Ontario, insurance clerk, survey hand, "boots" in a hotel or navy, milkman's bookkeeper, log hauler, railroad navy, book agent, peddler of photographs, dairyman and trooper in the northwest police—all in two years. While trooper he took part in the forced march of 42 miles a day for seven days from Regina to Prince Albert, in a vain endeavor to prevent the northwest rebellion, but it was not his fortune to finish, save under the Red Cross. Half way he was frozen and so was invalided with a pension.

Next he was civil servant, trader, war correspondent, missionary, seaman with Yokohama pirates, robbing the warehouses of seal rookeries; free lance journalist to British Columbia, special correspondent at Kootenay mining camp, then a new creation; photographer, keeper of a cigar stand, painter of photographs and newspaper agent in the Blue mountains. Then home called and he started as a novelist, but it was not long before he was back in the wilds as a cowboy in Alberta, gold miner and captain of a pack train. A little later he placed to his credit what is probably the longest lone ride on record—from Fort McLeod, Canada, to the City of Mexico—3,600 miles of rough country, covered in 290 days. In the South African war he was in turn in a looting corps (unpaid), whose business it was to capture Boer food supplies, and in the national scouts. His most recent expedition was up the west coast of Greenland.

Mr. De Hora, the well-known mining engineer, who was born on a stock ranch in California and brought up as a cowboy, has a unique record in that at the early age of 23 he stole a battleship. He had been before the mast, purling in the south seas, and, scenting further adventure, he threw in his lot with a revolutionary leader and, aided by a boat's crew speedily gathered together, contrived to steal the war vessel Huascar from Peru.

In her he committed piracy on the high seas by stopping a British tramp steamer, with the result that he had to fight H. M. S. Shah. He was badly beaten, but escaped, only to find it necessary to surrender to the ruling government. His next expedition, made in partnership with the former revolutionary leader, ended in the discovery of the famous Magellan treasure—$2,000,000 in a sunken Spanish galleon of the seventeenth century—spoils promptly confiscated by a schooner sent by the Argentine government, whose captain Mr. De Hora entered a little later at the head of 300 cowboys from the Rio Negro. It was he also who led Col. North's exploring expedition from Brazil to Ecuador. Thus adventure followed adventure until the South African war broke out. At that time he was acting as mining engineer in Johannesburg and, seeing the state the city was likely to get into, he raised a corps of 600 neutrals to act as armed police. These did their work until the arrival of Lord Roberts, when their organizer formally handed over the place to the care of Capt. Walter Kirtou, also, by the way, of the London command. Surely a difficult record to eclipse.

Too Much Condensed.

R. Lincoln Lippitt at a meeting of the American Automobile club was talking of a certain valuable but rare work on automobilism.

"After trying to buy the book," said Mr. Lippitt, "at every book seller's I could think of, I was told that I might perhaps get it at a certain library. They had it, sure enough, at this library, but it was out. I tried again and it was out; again, and it was still out."

"When will I be able to get this book?" I said to the clerk at last in some impatience.

"I'm sure I don't know," the clerk answered, airily. "But we've got it, all right. It's in the catalogue."

"Yes," said I, "I know it is, but in so condensed a form that I can't read it."

Infant Trained to Steal.
A woman has been arrested in Paris carrying in her arms a four-year-old child which has been trained to snatch watches and scarfpins as its mother carried it through the streets. The infant was seen to grab two watches and seven pins in less than half an hour.

Artistic Marriage Certificates. The smart wedding invitation or announcement is engraved as simply as possible nowadays, but if the bride wants elaborate treatment of her marriage certificate she can have it. These may be done by hand and beautifully illuminated on parchment or Japanese vellum, and some brides are having theirs framed and hung in the boudoir.

A Good Record.

Out of all the external remedies on the market we doubt if there is one that has the record of that world-renowned porous plaster—Alcock's. It has now been in use for sixty years, and still continues to be as popular as ever in doing its great work of relieving our pains and aches. It is the remedy we all need when suffering from any ache or pain resulting from taking cold or overstrain.

Alcock's Plasters are sold by Druggists all over the world.

John Stuart Mill.

James Mill, his father, was a hard man, a clever man, and a crank—a hedonist capable of making himself thoroughly disagreeable about the greatest happiness of the greatest number; a theorist who regarded his clever son as a suitable object for educational experiments.

He would not send him to school because schools were the fortresses of "prejudice," and taught the wrong things in the wrong way. He provided him with no playmates, and allowed him no holidays, lest "the habit of work should be broken."—Francis Gribble, in Fortnightly Review.

HAD TO USE A CANE.

Weakened Kidneys Made an Elwood, Ind., Man's Back Give Out.

R. A. Pugh, transfer business, 2020 North B street, Elwood, Ind., says:

"Kidney trouble kept me laid up for a long time, and when I was able to be up I had to use a cane. I had terrible back-aches and pain in the shoulders. The kidney secretions were dark colored. After doctoring in vain, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured me entirely, and I am glad to recommend them."

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.
