Are the very best procurable. The men who work on KING QUALITY shoes know that only perfect work will be accepted. The leather is thoroughly stretched over the last, and permitted to remain until thoroughly shaped. As a result, no amount of hard wear in any kind of weather can affect the shape of the shoe. It will have the same shapely appearance when it goes to the ash barrel, at the end of months of faithful service, that it had when it was first placed upon the foot. It will take but one pair of shoes to demonstrate to you their sterling worth. Prices

HIDING PLACES FOR MONEY.

Women Make Banks of Most Unexpected Places.

"Let's pay the waiter and get rid of him," said one of the group of women who were refreshing themselves in a tearoom after a morning of shopping. Each woman dived for her money, and each into a different place. One pulled her purse from a hand-bag; another produced her money from a chain coin purse which hung around her neck; still another opened a big envelope pocketbook to get at her bills, and another blushed ever so slightly as she surreptitiously dug into her stocking.

"Funny how we all carry our money in different ways," said the woman who had spoken first. "But it's not nearly so funny as the hiding places we have for them at home. Now, I always tuck my superfluous dollars away in the top of the upright piano. I fix it so it will not interfere with the playing, and no one dreams it's there. My sister uses teacups, and if we get out any rarely used china for special occasions, we are sure to find a few of Jane's bills in them. My mother insists in stowing her money away in an old gold-handled umbrella, which is too clumsy for any one to use. But some day it will be grabbed in a hurry and mother will lose all her little hoard."

"I put my money under things," confessed another of the group. "Sometimes it's under the paper in my chiffonier drawers, under the silence cloth in the dining-room, or under the spread on the library table. It depends on where I happen to be. Half the time I can't remember where I put it, and then the whole family begins to hunt under things for it."

"Our girl Bridget," began another, "had a most unsanitary habit of burying her savings in the tea canister, until we commanded her to desist. And now she keeps it in a broken nosed milk pitcher that we never use."

"I keep mine in the toes of a pair of slippers," said another, "and when I go away I always put my money at night in the toe of my shoe. No burglar would ever think of looking there for it."

"My money is safely stowed away in my stocking bag," chimed in another. "And I keep mine in a match box that I bought for a Christmas present for a man, and then got mad at him before Christmas came," confessed the girl who had gone into her stocking.—N. Y. Press.

The Tactful Lawyer.

It is not necessary that a lawyer should be eloquent to win verdicts, but he must have the tact which turns an apparent defeat to his own advantage. One of the most successful of verdict winners was Sir James Scarlett. His skill in turning a failure into a success was wonderful. In a breach-of-promise case, the defendant, Scarlett's client, was alleged to have been cajoled into an engagement by the plaintiff's mother. She was a witness in behalf of her daughter, and completely baffled Scarlett, who cross-examined her. But in his argument he exhibited his tact by this happy stroke of advocacy: "You saw, gentlemen of the jury, that I was but a child in her hands. What must my client have been?"

Advantages of Cremation.

The principal advantage that cremation has over the customary form of interment is never mentioned as an argument in its behalf. I mean the relief it affords the bereft from the duty of keeping the grass and weeds off the grave and fresh flowers upon it.

A very charming widow of 39, the magic age of weeds, had her husband cremated and put his ashes in a silver vase. This vase was made to order in two separate parts, the bottom for the ashes, and the top for cut flowers. She kept it in the center of the dining-room table, always filled with roses, and used to say to admiring friends that she in all probability was the only widow in New York who decorated her husband's last resting place with fresh flowers every day. Only a few intimates were let into the secret that she loved flowers and killed two birds with one stone by keeping them in bloom above poor George's ashes.—N. Y. Press.

Spoke Only "Gum Arabic."

It appears that on one occasion, not long since, Lord Cromer agreed to meet an old school-fellow near one of the pyramids; and the tourist engaged a very old Arab as a guide to lead him to the spot. As a matter of fact, Lord Cromer's friend was a little bit proud of his ability to speak Arabic, but to his concern he found himself unable to understand a word of what the guide said to him. Result, he kept Lord Cromer waiting a long time at the pyramid, and was quite prepared for the reprimand he received on arrival. Of course, he stated the reason of the delay. "Well, it's your own fault," replied Lord Cromer. "You should have engaged a younger guide. These toothless old fellows speak nothing but gum-Arabic."

Heard in Chicago.

Ella—You have been married more times than I have.
Stella—Yes, but what of it?
Ella—I was going to ask you if marriage licenses were any cheaper by the dozen.

His New Love.

"Tom bought an auto so as to win Helen's affections."
"Well?"
"Well, he has become so stuck on the auto that he has quite forgotten Helen."

THE HOME INDUSTRY IDEA.

If Rightfully Pushed Will Make Lincoln a Big City.

The Commercial club is beginning the agitation of the "Patronize Home Industry" idea, and Secretary Whitten is forming plans for an aggressive campaign along this line. Here and now The Wageworker pledges Secretary Whitten that the unionists of this community will back him up in a campaign to enlarge the sale of all Lincoln made goods that are made by firms that are friendly to organized labor. As long as human nature remains as it is, it is not to be expected that men will undertake to boost those who are unfriendly to them.

There are many things made in Lincoln that deserve the attention of union men and women. They ought to buy Lincoln made flour. They ought to buy Lincoln made shoes. They ought to buy Lincoln made mill work. Wherever an employer is fair to organized labor he ought to have the support of union men and women. But the enemies of organization, those who employ convict labor, and those who prize of the Christianity and at the same time pay "sweat shop" wages—they do not deserve the patronage of trades unionists, and they will not get it. The "Patronize Home Industry" campaign ought to be pushed with diligence. But it should be pushed with discretion.

THINGS TO REMEMBER.

Do Not Subscribe for the Following Unfair Publications.

The Saturday Evening Post and Ladies' Home Journal, issued by the Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia, are the product of non-union labor, and should be dealt with accordingly by trade unionists and their friends. The Curtis Company refused to concede the eight-hour day to its union printers. The Woman's Home Companion and Farm and Fireside, published by the Crowell Company, Springfield, Ohio, are also the product of non-union labor.

All of the Butterick publications are produced by non-union labor. McClure's Magazine, the Century, Bookman, Smart Set, St. Nicholas, World's Work, Black Cat, Monthly Magazine, Men and Women, the Housekeeper and Lippincott's are also the product of non-union labor. The above-named publications have a general circulation.
