Blind Man Expert Whist Player.

Best Trim, a blind resident of Woonsocket, R. I., is an expert whist player, being a valued member of a local club. He uses a special pack of cards, on which there are faint imprints sufficient to tell him what they are, but which are far too fine for the ordinary touch. Trim, who has been blind since childhood, is now 30 years old. He plays the piano and cornet in excellent style and is often heard in local entertainments.

Laundry work at home would be much more satisfactory if the right starch were used. In order to get the desired stiffness, it is usually necessary to use so much starch that the beauty and fineness of the fabric is hidden behind a paste of varying thickness, which not only destroys the appearance, but also affects the wearing quality of the goods. This trouble can be entirely overcome by using Defiance Starch, as it can be applied much more thickly because of its greater strength than other makes.

Cannon May Break Record.

Of the congressmen who have served since the foundation of this government, more than 12,000 individuals, only 34 have served 20 years or more. The longest service was that of John H. Ketcham, of New York, who served 33 years, and was a member when he died. Mr. Cannon, who comes next, has served 32 years. Since he is elected to the next congress he will, if he lives to the end of his term, take the first place in the list of veterans.—Youth's Companion.

An Indian's View of an Organ.

After a while curiosity led me back to the sod house, and I saw for the first time how the white woman pumps so much air into a box that when she presses on the top board it howls convulsively. I forgot my bashfulness so far as to listen openly and enjoy the operation, wondering much how the white man puts a pair of lungs into a box, which is furnished with a whole set of black and white teeth, and when he sings to it it appears to answer him. This is how the white people teach their children to do things, I thought.—From the Outlook—Dr. Charles A. Eastman's "Schooldays of an Indian."

BABY'S ECZEMA GREW WORSE.

Hospitals and Doctors Could Not Relieve Him—But Cuticura Remedies a Speedy, Permanent Cure.

"Eczema appeared when our baby was three months old. We applied to several doctors and hospitals, each of which gave us something different every time, but nothing brought relief. At last, one of our friends recommended to us Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. A few days afterwards improvement could be noted. Since then we have used nothing but Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and now the baby is six months old and is quite cured. All that we used was one cake of Cuticura Soap and two boxes Cuticura Ointment, costing in all $1.25. C. F. Kara, 343 East 65th Street, New York, March 30, 1906."

HAVEN IN WHICH WORN-OUT SALTS CAN FIND REFUGE.

Interesting Glimpse of This Great Institution in New York and How It Came to Be Established.

Visitors to Staten Island, New York, walking along the shore road near New Brighton find themselves suddenly in the presence of a large tract of ground separated from the outer world by a massive iron fence seven feet high, within which five great stone buildings like Greek temples fill the eye, their pediments supported by a row of lofty columns with Ionic capitals. Broad flower beds embellish the lawns, which are sufficiently protected from the summer sun by many fine old elms, and an actual village of smaller but equally massive buildings are clustered in the rear. A brick gateway stands in the center of the north side of the grounds, which immediately dispels any lingering mystery, for on the arch above are the three words "Sailors' Snug Harbor."

Here disabled sailors who have passed the sixtieth mile stone of life and who have served five years under the American flag may find delightful refuge from the storms and vicissitudes of life. It is not necessary that this five years be served during five successive years; all that is required is the knowledge that the 60 months have been sailed under the Stars and Stripes; and if the man has lost a foot or a hand or has been in any way so injured as to render him incapable aboard ship, and is indigent and destitute, he is accepted at a far earlier age than the 60 years of the physically sound.

Perhaps the grandest part of the endowment is found in the fact that the institution is open to the races of the world. Sitting within its halls the Norwegian brushes elbows with the Englishman, the Dane holds the match that lights the pipe of the tottering old man who claims the port of Bremen as his birthplace. Indeed, the American seaman does not appear to predominate on the roll of the Sailors' Snug Harbor; at least more broken English is heard in a day spent there than the simon pure article.

Daniel Delehanty, late commander in the United States navy, is at present governor of Snug Harbor, and since its foundation in 1801 there have been only four other governors. The first was John Whetton and the second was Augustus Depeyster, and in these modern times, when the property has grown to such fabulous value and when the number of inmates has reached a total of nearly a thousand, a man of great executive ability is required to administer the general government of Snug Harbor. The executive offices are situated in the middle one of the five great frontal buildings, where Gov. Delehanty sits at his well-lit desk, with his clerical staff hard by. This splendid institution was the gift of Robert Richard Randall, whose father was a master mariner, according to history, who flourished about 150 years ago, privateering the Gulf of Mexico and probably on the Spanish Main as well. His headquarters were not far from the present site of New Orleans; and the Spanish vessels bound to and from the Gulf and other ports and the mother country in Europe constituted the booty or prey of Capt. Randall. For this was fully 25 years before the war of independence, when it was a common thing for governments to grant permission to privateer—a sort of licensed piracy, which would not, of course, be tolerated in this era. When Capt. Randall died his son Robert Richard inherited his property, and subsequently formed a strong friendship with Alexander Hamilton, having met that statesman in New York city, where Randall finally established himself, though most of his land and estates remained in the south.

One day he was introduced in New York to a large land owner, who, in broken health and unable to withstand the asperities of the northern winter, offered to exchange a portion of his real estate to the northward of the old city for Randall's land in the south. This was subsequently accomplished; and it is this property that at the present time yields the enormous income that supports the Snug Harbor.

With all the skill of his brilliant intellect Alexander Hamilton prepared the will of Robert Richard Randall, and to such purpose that to the present day it remains impeccable, like an impregnable citadel built upon a rock. It is a felony, according to the wording of the document, to sell any portion of the estate, and it is also a felony for anyone to receive it.

THE WALLED MANILA.

PHILIPPINE CITY AS DEFINED BY ITS DEFENSES.

Ancient Bulwarks Tell an Interesting Story of the Struggles and Vicissitudes of the Old City Which Has Now Been Outgrown.

The recent fire which swept part of the town of Manila lying beyond the old wall of defense of the city has reminded one again of the fact that there is an old and new Manila and that all the history of the past of the

The Double Gates in Manila's Wall.

Philippine city is written into the two and three-quarters miles of moss-grown stones and grass-covered crevices of the old wall. The modern tourist who walks about Manila, telling her towers and counting her bulwarks, finds himself fascinated by a construction that bears evidence of many builders and widely-separated plans of defense.

The whole story of all the known history of the Philippine islands from the days of naked barbarism to the zenith of Spanish power, is written into these walls. Siege and surrender, defense and conquest have all left their inscriptions, and it needs but the historic imagination to give these stones speech to tell their tale of three centuries.

The first wall, built in 1570, was of hewn logs, at best a feeble defense; and in 1574 the first attack of Chinese pirates overcame the fortress. Li Ma Hon, a Chinese general and big boss, having 2,000 Chinese soldiers and a Japanese general to make them fight, found his realm grown too small for him, and, sighing for other worlds to conquer, set sail for Manila. His 70 "large vessels" stopped at the mouth of the harbor at Mariveles, while 600 men were sent across the bay to take the city. The invaders entered the city, burned the houses, destroyed the place and killed many persons, but the Spaniards rallied and drove them out.

Gen. Salcedo was up near Dagupan, 120 miles north of Manila, at the time, and hearing of the trouble, hastened to Manila with his troops. He promptly attacked the Chinese and drove them away to Pangasinan, where they set up a little despotism and lorded it over the helpless natives in oppressive fashion. Legaspi gathered an expedition and succeeded in trapping the enemy, but the wily Chinese dug a trench by night and escaped with their boats into the open sea.

In 1590 Gov. Desmarines began the permanent fortification of Manila, where Fort Santiago now stands, and this remains to-day, being the oldest piece of masonry under the stars and stripes. After 317 years of thrilling history, the old stones are still in the wall.

Fort Santiago is the Mecca of the oriental curio hunter. What the tower is to London, the Vatican to Rome, and Bunker Hill monument to the United States, Fort Santiago is to the Philippines. Its square walls and embattled turrets have stood unchanged since the days of the pilgrims, and still hundreds pass by the old gateway and give no thought to it all.

The waters of the Pasig every day wash the old stones placed in 1590. Since the American occupation, some changes have been made, but the old fort still stands, though the old artillery has been removed. With the establishment of the civil government in 1901 the use of the place as a fortress was forever abandoned and it is now used as an office building.

Many strange things have happened under the shadow of the old fort, and there are old men living in Manila who shake their heads wisely and intimate that if they were to tell all they know, it would make an astonishing tale indeed. How much they really do know is a question, but it is certain that the natives have a great fear of the old place. The records of the church historians associate the place with many supernatural manifestations. Some saints who had been buried, and were supposed to remain so, as a special favor to the city failed to stay buried, and appeared on the walls of the fort with strange portent for the believing.

"Pa, what is an exaggerated ego?" "Tain't nothin', sonny, but Greek for a swelled head."

WHAT MADE HIM DOUBTFUL.

Size of Commuter's Hat Gained Acquaintance to Worry.

A commuter on the D., L. & W. remarked to a friend the other morning, as they came into the city:

"Hawkins, of Stamford, is going to move into that new house next door to me. I know him very slightly, and I understand that you know him pretty well."

"Yes, I have known him for upward of 20 years."

"Well, what kind of a fellow is he, anyhow?" asked the commuter.

"A first-rate fellow, and in every way desirable. Why?"

"I just wanted to know, because I could never quite make up my mind about him, he wears such a small hat."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Sheer white goods, in fact, any fine wash goods when new, owe much of their attractiveness to the way they are laundered, this being done in a manner to enhance their textile beauty. Home laundering would be equally satisfactory if proper attention was given to starching, the first essential being good Starch, which has sufficient strength to stiffen, without thickening the goods. Try Defiance Starch and you will be pleasantly surprised at the improved appearance of your work.

PAUL HAD HIS OWN IDEA.

Father's Explanation of Lightning Not Satisfactory to Him.

Little Paul was four years old when the western city in which he lived was swept one night by a terrible storm. Wind, thunder and lightning played havoc, and, while other members of the family were huddled in dark corners, Paul watched the illumination of the sky with great delight. The next morning at breakfast he asked his father what caused the streaks of fire across the sky, and his father, with great pains, essayed to explain. Paul listened attentively and apparently accepted what was told him, but when he found attention diverted from himself, he leaned over to his aunt, who sat beside him, and whispered: "It wasn't that, auntie. It was God scratching matches on the sky."

Danger in Signals.

"I was playing a game of cards in a mining camp in the Rockies," said the mild-mannered man, "when suddenly my partner, by way of a gentle hint, held up two fingers to indicate that he had a pair. Quick as a flash, one of our opponents whipped out his dirk and slashed off the fingers. 'Awful! Well, it was pretty bad, but wasn't he in luck that he didn't have a full hand?'"

Worth Observing.

In a certain preparatory school in Washington an instructor one day made the statement that "every year a sheet of water 14 feet thick is raised to the clouds from the sea."

"At what time of the year does that occur, professor?" asked a freshman, "It must be a sight worth going a long way to see."—Harper's.

Spitzbergen.

For the first time I learned, from an eyewitness, something about Spitzbergen, that desert Arctic island, 500 miles north of the North Cape of Norway and within 700 miles of the north pole; a frost-desolated land, where the grass grows longer than the trees, and huge glaciers in the ice-bridged valleys amid the jagged mountains move majestically down into the sea, until mighty icebergs, a monstrous birth, break off and rise to the surface amid thunderous reports—once the only sound that broke the profound silence of those awful solitudes.

Spitzbergen is the only spot of earth that is positively known as No Man's Land; it is the possession of no country, and has nothir even resemblance, a specified government. The island seems likely to remain No Man's Land, though it is said that an effort has been made by Norway to establish some sort of protectorate over it.—National Magazine.

STOMACH ON STRIKE

SUCCESSFUL TONIC TREATMENT FOR INDIGESTION.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured This Woman and Have Cured Many Hundreds of Other Cases of Common Ailments.

Loss of appetite, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, heavy dull headache and a dull, sluggish feeling—these are the symptoms of stomach trouble. They indicate that the stomach is on a strike; that it is no longer furnishing to the blood the full quota of nourishment that the body demands, hence every organ suffers.

There are two methods of treatment, the old one by which the stomach is humored by the use of predigested foods and artificial ferments, and the new one by which the stomach is toned up to do the work which nature intended of it. A recent cure by the tonic treatment is that of Mrs. Mary Stackpole, of 81 Liberty street, Lowell, Mass. She says: "I suffered constantly for years from stomach trouble and terrible backaches and was confined to my bed the greater part of three years. I was under the care of our family physician most of the time, but did not seem to get better."

"I was completely run-down and was not able to do my work about the house. My blood was impure and my complexion pale. I suffered from flashes of heat, followed suddenly by chills. I had awful headaches, which lasted from three to four days. I could get but little rest at night, as my sleep was broken and fitful. As a result I lost several pounds in weight and became very nervous."

"I was in a wretched condition when I heard about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I started to take the pills at once and began to gain in weight and health. I was encouraged by this to keep on until I was cured. My friends and neighbors often remark what a changed woman I am and I owe it all to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

These wonderful pills are useful in a wide range of diseases such as anemia, rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, nervous headaches, and even locomotor ataxia and partial paralysis. The great value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills lies in the fact that they actually make new blood and this carries health and strength to every portion of the body. The stomach is toned up, the nerves are strengthened, every organ is stimulated to do its work.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Perfect Womanhood

The greatest menace to woman's permanent happiness in life is the suffering that comes from some derangement of the feminine organs.

Many thousands of women have realized this too late to save their health, barely in time to save their lives.

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study.

If a woman finds that her energies are flagging, that she gets easily tired, dark shadows appear under her eyes, she has backache, headache, bearing-down sensations, nervousness, irregularities or the "blues," she should start at once to build up her system by a tonic with specific powers, such as the great woman's remedy for woman's ills, made only of roots and herbs. It cures Female Complaints, such as Dragging Sensations, Weak Back, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation and Ulceration, and all Organic Diseases, and is invaluable in the Change of Life. It dissolves and Expels Tumors at an early stage. Subdues Faintness, Nervous Headaches, General Debility, Indigestion, and invigorates the whole female system. It is an excellent remedy for derangements of the Kidneys in either sex.
