FOR THE WEDDING FEAST.

Chicken Salad One of the Most Dependable of Relishes.

Chicken salad is the most dependable relish to serve at the wedding feast. It never holds the possibilities of ptomaine poisoning as fish may and it does not wilt as a green salad would, if the reception runs for some length. Here is an old family recipe: This quantity should make very nearly two quarts of salad, sufficient for 20 people, if served with sandwiches and ices. Select two plump fowl, not too old, simmer in boiling water until tender. Do not cut them up before cooking, and do not cook in cold water, as this draws out the juice. When tender, remove from the liquor, cool and cut into dice. Add one pint of celery cut in dice, mixed lightly, sprinkled with a little salt. If you do not like oil use this dressing: Beat the yolks of seven eggs, add seven pinches of mustard, seven teaspoonfuls of sugar; place in a porcelain stew pan, add slowly seven tablespoonfuls of boiling vinegar. Cook slowly until thick; mix with the chicken, add one cupful of good sweet cream, whipped light, and salt and pepper to taste. If you like oil try this mayonnaise dressing: Into the well-beaten yolk of one egg add drop by drop one pint of olive oil. Boil two eggs hard; rub into the yolks a dash of cayenne pepper, one-half spoonful of salt. Add this to the yolks and oil. Now add finely chopped whites of the eggs and juice of half a lemon; mix well, then add the well-beaten white of the uncooked egg, and the dressing is ready for use.

"HAY STOVE" IS HANDY.

Saves Fuel and Discomfort During the Hot Weather.

Here is a good way to keep the kitchen cool and also to save fuel: Take an old trunk or a wooden box about the size of a trunk, fill with hay, pack tightly and make four or five holes in the hay to accommodate pots of different sizes. Prepare your meat, vegetables, rice, fruit or whatever you wish to cook, put on gas stove and let come to boiling point. Take off and put into holes in your hay stove; have a tightly fitting cover on each pot and close the lid, which must also be lined with hay and lastly with netting or cheesecloth to keep the hay from spilling. If put in while preparing luncheon or just after everything will come out nicely and thoroughly done for a seven o'clock dinner. Oatmeal may be cooked over night. Have tried this in the house and in camp during summer when we would put our dinner to cook at daybreak, go on an excursion, come back at noon hungry and tired, lift the lid of our hay stove and find our dinner ready to be served and eaten. Everything gets thoroughly done without burning or boiling dry.

Macaroni a la Creole.

Take the required amount of macaroni or spaghetti; put over to boil in slightly salted boiling water; take three or four generous slices of breakfast bacon, rather fat, cut up in small dice, put in frying pan and fry; cut up one or two good-sized onions and a very little garlic (if liked), fry in bacon fat but do not burn; now open a good sized can of tomatoes and pour contents in with bacon and onions, cook until tomatoes are all dissolved; take one-half pound common cheese, cut in small pieces, put in with the tomatoes; when cheese is melted pour all over the macaroni, which has previously been drained in colander; stir all together and serve. Don't forget to season with salt and pepper to suit taste. This is a southern dish and is fine.

Good Treatment for Floor.

The simplest and one of the prettiest of treatments for a floor is as follows: Wash the floor well and let it dry. Then go over it with a cloth dipped from time to time in coal oil, which not only cleanses, but penetrates the floor so that less of the boiled oil is required. In two quarts of boiled oil put beeswax the size of half of an egg and boil together till melted and thoroughly mixed. The utmost care must be taken in doing this, as both materials are inflammable. While the oil is still warm apply with a wide paint brush. If the wood has a handsome grain, the oil brings it out beautifully. It only requires dusting from week to week.

Hamburg Steak a la Tartare.

To a pound of hamburger steak add a green pepper pod and a slice of onion chopped fine. Shape into balls, pressing the balls flat, with a depression in the center of each. Put into a frying pan and break the yolk of an egg into the depression of each; baste the yolk with a little melted butter and set the frying pan into the oven. Let the eggs and meat cook about five minutes, then remove to a hot serving dish, pour over one and one-half cups of hot brown or tomato sauce and serve at once.

Lockjaw Remedy.

As soon as symptoms of lockjaw appear put some coals in an iron dish, pour over them a handful of sugar, and woolen rags, or leather, or both, and smoke the wound thoroughly. Wrap a blanket around the limb and the dish to hold the smoke. Rub wound thoroughly with turpentine in which has been dissolved all the camphor it will contain. Continue treatment until all symptoms disappear.

Prevent Moths.

It is much better than moth balls to put a small bottle of chloroform, one or two ounces, in the bottom of the packing chest. Split the cork that it may evaporate gradually. It will kill all the moths and many disease germs.

IN ST. LOUIS.
How Printers of No. Eight Observed Memorial Day.
The memorial services held last Sunday in the Garrick Theatre by the St. Louis Typographical Union was the first of its kind ever held in this country by members of the printers' unions. The International Typographical Union, in convention last August, suggested that the last Sunday in May be observed as memorial day by local unions everywhere.
The St. Louis union was the only one that followed the suggestion, but typographical unions in other cities are planning to observe the day here after and it is expected that within a few years memorial day will be observed annually wherever the union exists. The idea underlying these memorial services will be to pay tribute to the men, now dead, who laid the foundations of the typographical union and who worked for its upbuilding.

The International Typographical Union of America is the oldest and strongest labor organization in the world. It has 721 subordinate unions and 50,000 members, 1,100 of whom are in St. Louis.
There has not been a strike of newspaper printers of this organization in the last twelve years. In all the history of the organization, which began fifty-five years ago, not one of its members has been arrested for an act of violence resulting from a strike.
The International Typographical Union maintains in Colorado Springs a home for aged and disabled printers. B. Frank Swigert of St. Louis is making a unique collection of books, which is to go into the Home's new library formed by Amos J. Cummings. Swigert began collecting the books eighteen months ago. He wrote to authors, publishers and great men everywhere asking them to send autograph copies of books for the library. In response he has received 5,000 volumes. Among them are complete works of many authors. Books containing the autographs of the senders have been received from the Pope of Rome, King William of Germany, President Roosevelt and his cabinet and nearly all the members of congress, and other great men. Many of these volumes are de luxe editions. It is one of the most rare collection of books in America.

The Typographical Union has broken away from the old trades union idea of secrecy, and it makes public all of its doings in which the public would be interested.

Hereafter the union in St. Louis will hold memorial services each year and will invite the public to attend.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

THE CHILDREN LOST.

Struck For Increase But Could Not Make It Stick.

The 900 women and children employed at the Perth Amboy cigar factory, who went on strike two weeks ago, have returned to work at the old scale of wages. They were receiving $2.50 a thousand for making cigars and wanted $3.00. The company could not see its way clear for an increase and the strike followed. Some of the more skilled workers at the factory can make as much as $3.50 a week, of sixty hours and with a liberal amount of overtime, which the concern generously allows, they sometimes make as much as $4.50 a week.—Perth Amboy (N. J.) Messenger.

FOOL JUDGES.

A Boston judge issued an injunction restraining the Teamsters' Union of that city from paying railroad fare out of the city of the non-union men brought there to break the Teamsters' strike. "Tis a safe bet that the same judge wouldn't issue an injunction restraining the employers from paying the fare of strike breakers coming into the city.—Reading Advocate.

CAPITAL BEACH OPENED.

Capital Beach, Lincoln's new summer resort, opened last Sunday, and six thousand people went out to see the sights. The beach is far ahead of what it was last year, both in appearance and in the attractions offered, and it promises to become famous throughout the west. The car service is vastly improved. It is bound to become a great resort.
