The Wisconsin assembly last Monday passed an anti-child labor bill. It already passed by the senate, and it has gone to the governor for his action. It prohibits the employment of children under 14 years of age at any gainful occupation during school months, and requires those between 14 and 16 years to have a special permit from a judge or factory inspector to engage in any such work. No child under 16 can be permitted to work over ten hours a day or fifty-five hours a week; nor can any under that age be employed at any time in places where liquor or tobacco is sold or dangerous machinery used or in a theater or to operate an elevator. NOT FOR MONEY.
Love of Work Only Inducement to Hold This Job.
It was a very hot in June; time-- to 5 p. m.; place--Rio Grande Valley; service passenger train.

About 3 p. m., I thought I saw the fireman stagger and asked him what was the matter. He said he did not know, but that he could not see things straight. I told him to come on my side of the engine and sit in the gangway where he could get some air and I would fire awhile. So I fired the engine for about one-half hour, with a little help, but we made poor time, so the porter came over and said: "Boys, you seem to be having a pretty hard time; let me help you out a little." I can fire." So he began to take off all the clothes he could spare and went after that engine in great shape. At the next stop (thirteen miles) we had lost about twenty minutes more, he did not have a dry thread on him. He began to get his clothes together and I said, "Why Jim, are you going to git?" He said, "Yes, sah, I've got enough. Look he'ah, boss, a man dat will fire one of dese engines for money--jes for money--he's a fool, cause money don't pay for dat kind o' work."--Locomotive Firemen's Magazine.
