THE PRESSMEN.

Getting Ready to Battle for the Eight Hour Working Day.

The Pressmen of the United States are lining up for the eight hour day, and preparatory to the battle they are about to vote on the proposition to levy an assessment of 10 per cent a week to finance the fight. The Pressmen ought to vote the assessment by a rousing majority. It will be the best thing they ever done for themselves and for their organization. It will weed out the lukewarms and will strengthen the unionism of the remainder. It will be the same notice to the United Typothetae that the Typographical Union served. The Typothetae thought the printers would tire of the heavy assessment in a month or two, and then would break up in a row. What really happened is history. The Typothetae is in no shape to fight another union that is ready to fight as long and as hard as the printers fought.

Come on boys! Let the Lincoln union make it unanimous. It will hurt for a while, but the reward is sure. Victory is assured if you will back your international officers in their fight. This is the time to lay aside all prejudices and animosities and get together for the common good. Plenty of time for a scrap among yourselves after the common enemy has been whipped to a frazzle.

Several printing and publishing firms in Chicago, St. Louis, New York and Massachusetts with national officers of the United Typothetae, have brought action in the United States court asking that the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistant's Union of America be enjoined from violating an agreement of January, 1907, by demanding an eight-hour day.

The headquarters of the union are in Cincinnati. The petition asks that the union be restrained from calling or instituting strikes or aiding or assisting in calling any strike against the Typothetae or its members for the refusal of the Typothetae or any of its members to institute the eight-hour day before January 1, 1909, or the closed shop at any time; that it be restrained from inciting local unions to institute strikes against the Typothetae, from arranging for or proceeding with a referendum vote by the subordinate branches of the Pressmen's union upon the subject of instituting strikes against the Typothetae or members of the Typothetae for refusal to institute the closed shop or the eight-hour day, and to enjoin the union from paying out any money as strike benefits and to further the carrying on of any strike against the Typothetae or any shops of its members.

That isn't asking much, is it? And the Pressmen will find themselves up against the court before long. The injunction will be granted. Then the Pressmen must fight it to the last ditch. Their liberty depends on it. They will not be the first ones enjoined from paying a strike benefit.

This talk about a contract between the union and the Typothetae is rot. True, former President Higgins of his own motion entered into an open shop agreement with the Typothetae, but this agreement was never ratified by the membership. On the contrary, it was repudiated at the first opportunity.

Lincoln pressmen have enthusiastically entered upon the label campaign outlined by the Allied Printing Trades. There will be something doing in the label agitation line pretty soon.

Foreman Brown of the Free Presse press room is taking a course in engineering in a correspondence school. That far-away look in his eyes is hereby explained.

THINK IT OVER.

Mr. Grocer, you sell brooms. Now answer this question: Which is better, to sell brooms made by convicts who cannot spend a cent with you, or sell brooms made by free workingmen in Lincoln who will of necessity be compelled to spend their wages with you for groceries and provisions? Just think this over for a few minutes. Which would you rather have: Fifty free broommakers at work in Lincoln and supporting families, or 200 convicts in the penitentiary working for 50 cents a day spending absolutely nothing with you? This is a business matter worthy of your consideration.

Senator Chauncey M. Depew has similar views about "practical" men in politics that President Roosevelt expressed in his letter to that "undesirable citizen" Harriman. The senator says, "I have found from long experience that what a man is in business he is in politics; if he is practical in the one he will likely be practical in the other. The human equation enters in there as largely as in other things."

He also seems to have a very bad opinion of the Republican politicians generally for he declares: "I have observed, too, that gratitude is not likely to be any considerable part of a politician's makeup, and he is not notable for a high regard for his promises."
