ABOUT THE PRINTERMAN

President James M. Lynch of the International Typographical Union came to Omaha last Sunday for the purpose of looking over the local situation. He reports conditions in the printing industry as being satisfactory. The disturbance of business has had some effect on the affairs of the craft, but Mr. Lynch is hopeful that the early resumption of activity in other lines will have the effect of reviving the printing trade. As to the eight-hour day, he says it is firmly established, 95 per cent of the work of the craft now being done on that basis. In the towns where the eight-hour day is not yet fully recognized by the employers, the fight will be pushed with persistence. Omaha is one of these towns. Mr. Lynch remained in the city several days looking over the situation.—Western Laborer.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27, 1907.—I most respectfully ask your endorsement of my candidacy for delegate to the American Federation of Labor, and ask your help in securing my nomination at the February meeting.

I believe that I am well fitted for the office to which I aspire and trust that your union will look favorably upon my candidacy.
As a delegate to the International Typographical Union and organizer for the American Federation of Labor, I think I have done good service for the American labor movement.

I am at present the secretary-organizer for the Central Labor Union of the District of Columbia, representing Columbia Typographical Union No. 101 in that body. I am also editor of the Trades Unionist, the official labor paper of the district.

Extending to you the felicitations of the season, and hoping that the coming years may be fraught with increased happiness and a full measure of health, I am, fraternally, yours,
SAM DE NEDREY,
The Candidate

souvenir programs will be something worth going many miles to secure, and the arrangements for the reception and entertainment of the visiting members of the Nebraska Press association were outlined.

Charley Fear of Joplin is also a candidate for delegate to the A. F. of L. from the International Typographical Union. Fear is going to make some of the "dead sure" ones sit up and take notice before the campaign is well started. This newspaper institution is for DeNedrey and Fear.

Capital Auxiliary is preparing to observe its sixth anniversary on January 21.

One of the funny things about the approaching campaign for election of international officers is the charge that the opposition to the re-election of President Lynch is instigated by the National Manufacturers association. A labor paper published down east makes this charge, and does it without cracking a smile.

The editor of The Wagerworker hereby announces that any old time he goes to Omaha he is open for invitations to lunch from any reputable business man.

If William B. Prescott absolutely refuses to stand for the presidency of the International Typographical Union, the printerman who conducts this department is for Harding of Chicago first. There's another good man for you.

Colonel William Lightfoot Visscher, was a welcome caller at the sanctum of The Wagerworker last Thursday. Colonel Visscher looks not a day older than he did twenty-five years ago when the editor of this humble little rag first met him. As a printer, journalist, humorist, poet, lecturer and conversationalist, Colonel Visscher has held front rank for so long that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary.

President Lynch advances the argument that he ought to be re-elected because the eight-hour day was won under his guidance at an expense of $4,500,000. The nine-hour day was won under the direction of one of his predecessors at an expense of less than $25,000.

The Washington Daily Herald is engaged in the delightful task of showing up Public Printer Stillings as a monumental failure.

JOHN WAS ELIGIBLE.

And Cordially Invited by Pat to Join the Union.

An interesting parley between a Chinaman, driving a small laundry wagon, and a big Irishman, driving a heavy dray wagon, amused a large crowd of spectators which gathered yesterday afternoon around the watering trough at Twelfth street and Frederick avenue.

"Yes spalpeen, are yez goin' to stay there all day?" said the Celtic to the Celestial, who was first at the drinking place. "Oi wants to water me team."

The Chink calmly sat on his wagon and did not deign to answer the Irishman, who at once waxed very wrath. After spending several minutes telling the Chinaman what he thought of him, the son of Erin took out his handkerchief and mopped the sweat from his brow.

"Through?" asked the Celestial, after listening in silence to the Irishman's long string of rebuke.

"Yis," wrathfully returned the Celtic.

Then starting with a vehemence that was astounding, the Chink began to tell the Irishman what he thought of him, his ancestry, his race, his team, his business and everything in general.

A beam, first of surprise, then of doubt, and finally of joy overspread the son of Erin's ruddy features.

"Troo?" he asked when the Celestial stopped.

"Thin cum down and join the union," enthusiastically said the Irishman. "Your a lulu."—St. Joseph Gazette.

THE PRESSMEN.

Nothing Doing and Nobody Going to Jail For It.

Things are quiet with the Pressmen's Union in Lincoln. The local has one man on the benefit list and the boys are expecting a notice of a lower assessment shortly. Much interest has been aroused by the report that President Berry has relieved Theodore Golosowski from the editorship of the American Pressman, the official organ of the International. Mr. Golosowski has edited the journal for several years, and has also officiated as vice president. It is reported that he was out of sympathy with the administration. Frank Pamusch, secretary of the Allied Printing Trades Council of Denver, has been summoned to Indianapolis and will be given editorial charge of the journal. The American Pressman has been published in St. Louis since the early 90's, when it was edited by Fred M. Youngs, now of Seattle. The journal will be edited from President Berry's office in Cincinnati from this time on.

The local is expecting the news that a couple more offices have been squared. This will end the benefit list and will make a demand for more card men.

The street car strike in Philadelphia has been settled, the union being forced to retreat from some of its more radical demands. The company promises not to discriminate against union men and to reinstate the strikers as rapidly as possible.
