

GONE WRONG.

The Battle Creek Breakfast Food Co. has repudiated its agreement with the International Union of Flour and Cereal Mill Employes for the use of the union label. As a consequence "Egg-o-See" and "Egg-o-See Corn Flakes" are no longer union made products. Stick to bacon and eggs and potatoes.

BUT WILL IT?

The nomination of Taft and Sherman over the united protest of organized labor should arouse us to a knowledge of the fact that we are not doing half enough for the labor press and for the organization of the working masses.—Schnectady Leader.

Here's hoping for a full crop of corn on the toes of union men who persist in wearing "scab" shoes.

THE FIGHT IS ON.

The fight is on, and was brought on by the Manufacturers' Association, and every true union man will put his strongest effort into his work this fall and convince the most skeptical that they will not stand for the propositions set forth in the republican platform, and there will be some disappointments for those who believe that the union men of this country are so ignorant that they will vote against their own best interests.—Colorado Springs Labor News.

NON-UNION MADE.

The destruction of the Taft banner by vandals is attracting little attention here. "Old Bill" Bentley, a local sleuth of high repute, has been commissioned to run down the perpetrators of the outrage, and Mr. Bryan has offered a reward of $100 for evidence to convict, but in a general way the city is amused. Many believe that politics had nothing at all to do with the fall of the Taft banner and that trade unionists cut the rope. The banner was made by non-union labor.—Lincoln Correspondence New York World.

- ORGANIZED LABOR THINKING.
President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor did not succeed in getting his anti-union plank in the platform of the republican party but he did give the convention many hours of worry and study. A "sop" was thrown out by a declaration of the law as it always has been, and inserted in the platform, but it will avail the party nothing. Organized labor is doing some thinking of its own these days.—Oklahoma State Labor News.

THE PRINTERS.

A Few Bits of News About the Boys Who Preserve History.

It is reported that the picture taken of the union at Fairview a couple of weeks ago is not a good one. It has been suggested that the printers, accompanied by their wives, visit Fairview at some time agreeable to Mr. and Mrs. Bryan and have it "shot" over again.

Mrs. Righter packed "Doc's" grip for a month's stay in Colorado. "Doc" hid himself to Denver on Monday, and the next Sunday morning he was home again. He opened the grip once and removed therefrom a clean shirt and collar.

They say that when Gene Lyman is asked a question he closes his eyes and begins spouting eastern railroad time tables by the yard.

Frank Coffey has shoved his "sub" of the Journal mill and is again hammering the keyboard.

While in Denver the editor had the pleasure of meeting John Marshall and Mrs. Marshall for a few minutes. They are comfortably located at Berthoud, where Mr. Marshall is publishing the Bulletin and living on the fat of the irrigated land.

The way the printers had to scurry around for heat right after the flood of last week was something to remember. Gasoline torches, kerosene lamps and any old thing to make heat were resorted to, and by hard struggling the daily papers managed to get out on reasonable time. It reminded the old-timers of the days when they stuck tallow candles in the "k" box.

Colonel Seymour of the Righter shop went to Omaha the day before the flood, and was water-bound for three days. He says there was no sign of a drouth in Omaha, either. Billy Wilkerson of the same shop went to work in a canoe and gum boots.

Colonel C. B. Edgar, editor and publisher of the Star, played it low down on the composing room force the other day. While showing a lunch of visitors the intricacies of the linotype he made a remark about monkeys—and the operators are grinning yet.

The Nebraska Dairyman and the Country Merchant now bear the union label.

UNION MAN FOR CONGRESS.

Edgar Howard, an old-time printer and union man, is a candidate for the democratic nomination in the Third Nebraska district. He is editor and publisher of the Columbus Telegram, and from the union standpoint he is as square as they make 'em. Here's hoping.

TALKS WITH THE TOILERS.

Special Truths From Many Viewpoints, by Rev. Charles Steitzle.

It would be difficult to think of a shade of religious or economic belief which was not represented in the Sociological Conference which it was my privilege to attend during the first week in July, at Sagamore Beach, on Cape Cod Bay. About one hundred men and women of prominence in the sociological world discussed for three days the questions of trades unionism and socialism, and the relation of the church to these problems. Everyone who spoke, from John Spargo, the socialist, to Mrs. Edwin D. Mead, the exponent of universal peace, was an acknowledged expert on the subject which he discussed.

The conference was opened with a paper written by John Mitchell, on "The Philosophy of Trades Unionism." John F. Tobin of Boston led the discussion. Dean Hodges of the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary of Cambridge, Mass., prepared a paper on "The Trades Union from the Point of View of the Church." "The Spiritual Significance of Socialism," and "The Socialized Church" were discussed on the succeeding days.

Editors, college presidents, social settlement workers, authors and writers, trades union officials, ministers, business men, professors, and workers in many phases of social life, freely presented their views. There wasn't a dull moment. Everybody was on the job every minute of the time, while the meetings were in progress. The speakers had come from every walk of life. There were some who had come up from the slum and the tenement. Others had always lived in homes of luxury and refinement. Most of the members of the conference had come direct from the firing line, and they were there for business. There was no time for platitudes and common-places. There was no evasion. The talks were true expressions of very real experiences, or of genuine desire to get at the truth. There wasn't a fool speech made. There was no trace of bitterness. Whatever feeling of bitterness there may have been in the hearts of some, was hidden, although sometimes it would have been an easy matter to have caused an explosion, had not everyone respected the others' opinion.

At times the audience was deeply moved as the injustices of the toilers were presented. Going back to their respective vocations, the men and women who listened to the talks will become more aggressive in their efforts to alleviate and finally wipe out these wrongs.

It was surprising to note how many things were held in common by these workers who came from so many and such varied experiences. They were all seeking, in the way that seemed best, the uplifting of the human race. This discovered that to quarrel among themselves was fatal. There were enough things upon which all could unite to keep everybody busy.

It is interesting that this remarkable conference was called together and entertained under Christian auspices. The host was Mr. George W. Coleman, a churchman of prominence in Boston. There probably has never been another conference just like it. The man who believes that he alone possesses the truth is a back number. There is no truer indication of it than this belief. The day is rapidly approaching, and this conference helped its coming, when men shall learn that they cannot afford to speak ill of their brothers, who are just as honest and sincere and self-sacrificing, as they are, even though they may not be able to accept their pet program.
