

PE-RU-NA AS A LAST RESORT

MR. WM. F. VAHLBERG.
Mr. William F. Vahlberg, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes:
"One bottle of Peruna which I have taken did more toward relieving me of an aggravated case of catarrh of the stomach, than years of treatment with the best physicians."
"I had given up hopes of relief, and only tried Peruna as a last resort."
"I shall continue using it, as I feel satisfied it will effect an entire and permanent cure."
"I most cheerfully recommend Peruna to all who may read this."
Peruna is usually taken as a last resort. Doctors have been tried and failed. Other remedies have been used. Sanitariums have been visited. Travel has been resorted to.
At last Peruna is tried. Relief is found.
This history is repeated over and over again, every day in the year. It is such results as this that gives Peruna its unassailable hold upon the people. We could say nothing that would add force to such testimonials as the above. That people who have had catarrh and have tried every other remedy available, find relief in Peruna, constitutes the best argument that could be made.

Reached His Limit.
Little Henry had been very naughty and was shut up in a closet until he should express proper penitence for his misdeeds. Near by sat his mother, ready to extend pardon to the small offender at the first sign of sorrow. At last a faint sigh caught her ear. Creeping silently to the door, she discovered the child seated on the floor in a disconsolate attitude.
"Poor me!" he muttered, with another sigh. "Why can't I get out? I've done sorrier all I can sorry!"
Delineator.

Money Expended on Schools.
Last year New York city spent $33,000,000 on its public schools; Chicago, $23,000,000; Boston more than $10,000,000; Philadelphia a little more than $6,000,000. Though Philadelphia is the third city in population in the United States, it stood thirty-fourth in per capita expenditure on schools.

At Atlantic City Miss Emma Nutter was ordained into the ministry at the Methodist Protestant conference. For six years she was a licentiate preaching at a small church there and studying theology.

OLD TOWN OF DOL

BLOODY SCENES THERE IN 1793 VIVIDLY DESCRIBED BY HUGO.

Place in Brittany Whose History Dates from Days of Druids—Discovery of a Taurobolic Temple—Traces Left by St. Michael.

London.—Dol is one of the oldest towns in Brittany, and is certainly one of the most interesting in the department of Ille et Vilaine. It is quaint and small like its name and we can hardly realize that it was once an archiepiscopal see and the mise en scene of all sorts of historic happenings. The cathedral is the chief sight of the place, and though we may not agree with the local guide book that the building is a perfect marvel, we must admit that it is really fine, while the picturesque houses of the Grande Rue, the ancient fountain, the boulevards that surround the town just as the moat surrounded it in the days of long ago, all combine to make Dol extremely attractive and put us in the mood to enjoy its long and varied story. Dol has survived experiences both strange and tragic, and it is difficult to realize that its quiet streets, rarely disturbed by anything more alarming than the escapades of unruly pigs and geese and calves on a market day, and the shrill cries of excited peasants, were the scene of a frightful slaughter, when, in 1793, the "Chouans" defeated the revolutionary army commanded by Kleber, Marceau and Westermann. The combat is vividly described in Victor Hugo's "Quatre-Vingt-Treize" and a large canvas depicting the enrollment of these redoubtable volunteers can be seen in the Hotel de Ville.
Since the revolution, Dol may be said to have given itself up to slumbrous reminiscence, for nothing happens there now, but after all, a place where things began to happen when the ancient Druids slaughtered bulls on the top of Mount Dol and bathed their prostrate worshippers in their blood, can afford to rest on its historic laurels.

Mount Dol is a curious eminence, rising abruptly from the flat country surrounding the little town, and although tradition has long claimed that the Druids used to offer sacrifices thereon it was only a few years ago that the veritable taurobolic temple was discovered. There were two other slabs, each of them containing 27 funnel holes arranged in three rows, and beneath each altar was a small chamber, in which the candidate for baptism used to crouch, while the blood of the slaughtered ox rained down through the funnels upon him. It was such a baptism that was suffered by Julian the Apostate, in his desire to wash off his Christianity. As time passed on this Druid temple was used by the Romans for the worship of Diana, and later still it became a Christian church. Numberless prehistoric implements have been found on Mount Dol, and if you have the good fortune to be accompanied on your visit by a Breton you will be shown in the rock a footprint of the Archangel Michel and a deep scratch produced by the devil's claws.

The foundation of Dol was contemporary with the beginning of a monastery built by St. Samson in 548. The town became prosperous, and in the ninth century was chosen for the coronation of Nomince, a king of Brittany, who did much to establish the independence of his native land. He was a great lover of freedom, and determined that not only his country, but his church, should be saved from French domination. Accordingly he summoned a council, at which he charged the French bishops with simony, forced them to admit their guilt and lay down their croziers. He then announced his decision to remain no longer under the jurisdiction of Tours, and he ended by creating seven sees in Brittany, making Dol archiepiscopal, with control over the others. Such unheard of behavior was strongly opposed by France and the popes, but for 300 years little Dol remained a metropolitan see.

ONE KIDNEY GONE

But Cured After Doctors Said There Was No Hope.

Sylvanus O. Verrill, Milford, Me., says: "Five years ago a bad injury paralyzed me and affected my kidneys. My back hurt me terribly, and the urine was badly disordered. Doctors said my right kidney was practically dead. They said I could never walk again. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. One box made me stronger and freer from pain. I kept on using them and in three months was able to get out on crutches, and the kidneys were acting better. I improved rapidly, discarded the crutches and to the wonder of my friends was soon completely cured."

NO SKIN LEFT ON BODY.
For Six Months Baby Was Expected to Die with Eczema—Now Well—Doctor Said to Use Cuticura.

"Six months after birth my little girl broke out with eczema and I had two doctors in attendance. There was not a particle of skin left on her body, the blood oozed out just anywhere, and we had to wrap her in silk and carry her on a pillow for ten weeks. She was the most terrible sight I ever saw, and for six months I looked for her to die. I used every known remedy to alleviate her suffering, for it was terrible to witness. Dr. C. gave her up. Dr. B. recommended the Cuticura Remedies. She will soon be three years old and has never had a sign of the dread trouble since. We used about eight cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment. James J. Smith, Durmid, Va., Oct. 14 and 22, 1906."

Blighted Faith.
Edith's small friends were helping her celebrate her sixth birthday, and one embryo Prince Charming had been so devoted that seven-year-old Gladys slyly whispered to Edith's mamma that "Edith has got a beau." Mamma, who wasn't so very aged herself, felt that the role of chaperon was being prematurely thrust upon her, and explained to Gladys that small girls had little boy friends, not beaux. Gladys was not to be daunted, however.
"But I have a beau," she announced—"at least I had one, but he's married now. Just think, he promised faithfully to wait for me, and then he went off and married some one else. And now," with profound and tragic conviction, "I'll never believe another man as long as I live."

Not Always What They Seem.
Prof. and Mrs. Hadley were on a train bound for New York, where Yale's president was to speak before a national convention. He made use of the hour and 20 minutes he spent in the train by rehearsing his speech in a low voice, using his hands to emphasize certain passages.
A kindly matron who was sitting directly behind Mr. and Mrs. Hadley, and who had been watching and listening, leaned forward and, tapping Mrs. Hadley on the shoulder, said, feelingly: "You have my sincere sympathy, my poor woman; I have one just like him at home."—Success.

DOWN MISSOURI WAY

CANADA'S RESPECT FOR LAW AND ORDER THE SUBJECT FOR FAVORABLE COMMENT.

Those who have visited Canada are always impressed with the strict observance that is given to the laws of the country, and the order that is preserved everywhere. The editor of the Gazette, of Fulton, Nev., recently paid a visit to Western Canada. He was so impressed with the conditions that he saw everywhere, that on his return home he was inspired to write as follows: "Reverence and respect for law is a dominant characteristic of the Canadian people. Wherever one goes in Canada, whether east or west, the law is supreme. The law is obeyed because it is law, seemingly, and not because violation carries a penalty. Canada enforces the law and makes every law effective. No country is more free than Canada. In name Canada is a dependency of the British Crown. In fact, it is almost a third republic. All its taxes are voted, collected and expended by the Dominion and the provinces. The nominal head of the Government is the Governor General, appointed by the English Crown. Practically his only authority is to veto the acts of parliament, which he scarcely ever exercises. Canada gives nothing to the support of the English government or the English king. She gives England the advantage in trade regulations and tariff laws, and in return receives the protection of the British army and navy. Canada enjoys the protection without sharing in the expense.
"The sale of liquor is strictly regulated. None but hotel-keepers may obtain license to vend the stuff, and before a license can be secured an applicant must prove good character and provide twenty rooms in his tavern for the accommodation of guests. The bar-rooms close at 7 o'clock Saturday evening and remain closed until Monday morning. The schools and churches in Western Canada excite admiration. Though new, Western Canada is not godless. The finest buildings in every town are the churches. Next come the school houses."
Turning to the wheat fields of Western Canada, the editor of the Laurel (Neb.) Advocate of Sept. 17th says: "I have often thought that the reason that the characters of Charles Dickens are so impressed upon the minds of his readers is because he dwells upon them so long and describes them so minutely that by the time one has waded through his long drawn out stories they are so burned into his brain that he can never forget them. It was this way with the Canadian wheat fields. Had we only seen a few the memory of them might have worn away in time, but a long drawn out experience such as we had is sure to leave an unfaceable impression. Never while we live shall we forget the Canadian wheat fields. They call it the granary of the British Empire, and we don't blame 'em. Nobody who has seen these wheat fields can wonder at their enthusiasm." It is worth while to record that these fields have now been harvested, and in many cases yields as high as forty and fifty bushels per acre have been marketed, while the general average has been away above 20 bushels per acre. Oats and barley have also done well, and the profits, the prices of grains being high, have paid the entire cost of the farms of many a farmer. There is now 160 acres of land given away, in addition to the 160 acres that the homesteader may purchase at $3.00 an acre. Particulars of this as well as the lowest railway rates will be given by the Canadian Government Agent.

An Intelligent Child.
A small boy was playing with the scissors, and his kindly old grandmother chided him.
"You musn't play with the scissors dear. I know a little boy like you who was playing with a pair of scissors just like that pair, and he put them in his eye and put his eye out, and he could never see anything after that."
The child listened patiently, and said, when she got through the narrative:
"What was the matter with his other eye?"—Bystander.
