WAGWORKER

WILL M. MAUPIN, EDITOR

Published Weekly at 137 No. 14th
St., Lincoln, Neb. One Dollar a Year.

Entered as second-class matter April 21, 1904, at the postoffice at Lincoln,
Neb., under the Act of Congress of March 3rd, 1879.

THE NEXT SENATOR.

The wage-earners of Nebraska are very much concerned—or should be—about a successor to Senator Elmer J. Burkett. It should not matter so much with them whether Senator Burkett's successor is a republican or a democrat, but his attitude on several questions of vital interest to the wage-earner is of grave moment.

The Wageworker feels a neighborly interest in and personal friendship for Senator Burkett, but it can not overlook the fact that he is the man responsible for the political preferment of one of organized labor's bitterest opponents. Nor can it overlook the fact that Senator Burkett seemed to have very little concern for the consumers of Nebraska when that Payne tariff bill was being framed, although he took a lively interest in looking after the welfare of the manufacturers. Senator Burkett may be able to explain himself later, but he will not do it by delivering long-winded dissertations on the undesirability of government ownership.

The Wageworker is not going to ask particularly about the political affiliations of the men who will stand forth as aspirants for Senator Burkett's toga, but it is going to inquire carefully as to their attitude on the tariff question, the question of organized labor, the question of reform of judicial procedure, the question of immigration and the question of government by injunction.

Be he democrat or republican, The Wageworker will oppose the election to the United States senate of any man who favors giving the manufacturer more consideration than is given the consumer. Neither will it support any man who tries to make us believe that the protective tariff is a benefit to the wage-earners as a whole. It will oppose any man who will not pledge himself to support a constitutional provision providing for the election of senators by direct vote of the people.

There are many men in Nebraska who would reflect credit upon the state upon the floor of the senate. In all candor it must be admitted that this state has not been conspicuous in senate affairs by reason of the commanding personality of any of its senators.

There are men mentioned for the Burkett succession who may be relied upon as being the firm friends of organized labor, and who will give the interests of the consuming masses quite as much consideration as they will give the interests of the trusts and combines. If the editor of this little labor paper were asked to name his first choice he would unhesitatingly say "Bryan!" No better friend of the organized workers lives. His friendship has been demonstrated time and again. He would give the consumer a chance, and would compel the manufacturers to be content with an even break.

The Wageworker asks the wage-earners of the state to act on this senatorial matter without partisan prejudice. It asks them to consider only the candidates' attitude towards those matters of most vital concern to the workers and their families. It asks them to quit voting for political machines and begin voting for "Molly and the Babies."

We only wish that some of the big railroad magnates had to work in the Havelock shops for about a month of the warm weather we have been having during the past week. It might give them a better idea of what the workers endure.

The Wageworker's advertisers are offering some rare midsummer bargains these days. You make a mistake if you overlook them.

Wake up! You are not taking the interest you should in making the Labor Day celebration a big success.

Tell your friends that Miss Mary McDowell of Chicago will be the Labor Day orator at Capital Beach.

The city authorities have taken notice of the universal protest, and socialist orators will not again be molested. The shame of it is that a city bearing the name of Abraham Lincoln should ever have been disgraced by a single arrest of a man who discussed political questions in a gentlemanly manner.

The American Federation of Labor's annual convention meets in Toronto next November. It will meet in Lincoln in 1911 if the Commercial Club will give the trades unions of Lincoln proper support in the work of securing it.

Senator LaFollette is talking like a man who is plenty big enough to be president of the United States. By the same token he is acting like a man who is big enough to fill the presidential chair.

Elbert Hubbard is still yelping at the heels of organized labor. Back to the affinity, Elbert; back to the affinity!

Elbert Hubbard is boosting Charles W. Post. "Birds of a feather," you know. Ask their discarded wives.

The Wageworker's Labor Day edition will be a Thing of Beauty and a Joy Forever.

The Payne tariff bill suits only those who make a profit by special legislation.

The Man

who wants the finest clothes made, regardless of cost, will find a suit to his liking in this showing of luxurious hand tailored garments. The fabrics are imported woolens; fancy weaves and blue serges. Your size is here, be you tall, short or medium built. These are the finest clothes made; they will satisfy the most particular man—and these most particular men certainly cannot object to the low price. You may be willing to pay $40, $35, $30, $27.50 or $25, but we hope you won't mind paying the reduced price $16.40

The Man

who usually wants to pay from $10 to $15 for a suit will appreciate the chance of paying a trifle more and getting aristocratic, fashionable clothes—the best in the world. Many men who are inclined to saving fix their price limit at from $10 to $15, but when we confront these men with $25 to $40 suits at $16.40 they will at once see the wisdom of paying a little more. They will see the real economy of doing so. They must realize that they are making the profit, not us. We urge
