

FAINT HEART AND FAIR LADY

Chances Good That the Ancient Adage Once More Proved Wisdom of Man Who Uttered It.

He was afraid to tell her right out and out that he loved her, so he began in a round-about way, hoping she would catch his drift, then betray her confusion, her own feelings. He didn't dream but that she loved him, but thought that she, like himself, was afraid to demonstrate it.

"Heart trouble?" she repeated. "Are you sure you've heart trouble. Alfred? You know indigestion is very like it at times."

"Oh, I know I've got heart trouble all right. I—can't you see it yourself?"

"Why, how silly, Alfred; no one can see heart trouble; they have to feel it. Have you taken anything for it?"

"No, not yet, but I—I want to, don't you know?"

"Then why don't you?"

"I—I would; that is, if I could get it."

"Can't you get it, Alfred?"

"I—I don't know."

"Have you tried?"

"No, not yet."

(Silence for two provoking minutes.)

"Alfred!" (coldly.)

"Yes?"

"Let's have a game of checkers."

ONCE WAS ENOUGH FOR HIM

No More Typewriters for Our Country Friend—Too Great a Strain on the Mind.

"No, I don't want it," replied the country merchant to the agent who was trying to sell him a typewriter. "I had one in my store for three months and it gave me so much trouble that I had to get rid of it."

"Did you try to run it yourself?" was asked.

"O, no. I had a girl from the city who knew all about it."

"Perhaps you couldn't dictate your letters. Some folks find it very hard work."

"I didn't try to. I sat down and wrote them out and let the girl copy them. I didn't save no time there. Then I had to read them over and see if they were correct. Then I had to talk with her and see that she didn't get lonesome and quit her job. Then, a dozen times a day, I had to throw young fellows out of the store—young fellows that had come there to flirt with the girl. Then every old widower for 10 miles around came in and made her an offer of marriage, and when she turned them down I had to run 'em across to the saloon to show my sympathy."

"Anything more?" smiled the agent.

"Just a little. My mother-in-law was indignant, my sister mad all through and my wife sitting around the store for seven hours at a stretch, and after the minister had given me the cold shoulder and the Masonic lodge threatened to bring charges against me, I let the poor girl go and sold the machine for half price. It was too much of a strain on the mind. You can do those things in the city and no one says a word, but out here it's 50 years too soon, and you've got to heed public opinion or lose your place in the fire company."

SYMPATHETIC CREATURE.

George—Do you think my picture looks like me?
She (sympathetically)—Yes, I'm sorry to say it does.

Compared with Chinaware.
Dr. Dick Woods, a physician of this city has, it is said, more good stories "up his sleeve" than any other doctor, and the latest of these was told by the doctor a day or so ago at a club of which he is a member.

"Heard a good one this morning," he said. "A little girl and her mother were walking down the street, when they came to a place where straw had been spread over the pavement to deaden the noise, because of the illness of a woman living in that square."

"Oh, look, mamma," cried the little girl. "What's all the hay doin' out in the street?"

"That's because Mrs. E— has a tiny baby, which God just sent her, said her mother gently, and after a moment's pause the little girl said slowly:

"Gwacious, she must have been packed well."—Philadelphia Times.

Couldn't Say Anything.
The boy had been repeatedly warned about running to the neighbors, and had even that day made the best of promises before gaining his liberty. Yet no sooner was the door safely shut behind him than he had disappeared like magic.

"Why did you go to Gardner's?" demanded his father upon his return. The boy looked steadfastly at the floor.

"I am waiting for an answer." Still silence.

"Come," said his father losing patience, "don't stand like that! Speak up like a man."

"Well," said the boy raising reluctant eyes, "you've got me right where I can't say anything!"—Exchange.

Enlightenment.
Mrs. Boggs—Henry, did you hear about Mr. Jones? Mrs. Smith was telling me this afternoon how—

Mr. Boggs—That's just like you women, gossiping about things that don't concern you, and I suppose you have the story all mixed up, anyway. Now, I got the whole thing straight at the cigar store and the barber shop and the facts in the case were like this: It seems that, etc.—Puck.

Reckless.
"That French aviator who tried to fly across the English channel doesn't seem to care whether he dies or not."

"You consider the flight a perilous undertaking, then?"

"Not the flight itself, but as soon as his flight had failed to kill him he was found smoking a cigarette."

Lucid Explanation.
"How is your mother this morning, Edward?" asked a neighbor of a five-year-old hopeful.

"She's better, thank you," replied the little fellow, "but the doctor says she isn't quite so better as she was."

PATIENT SUFFERING.

Many Women Think They Are Doomed to Backache.

It is not right for women to be always ailing with backache, urinary ills, headache and other symptoms of kidney disease. There is a way to end these troubles quickly. Mrs. John H. Wright, 606 East First St., Mitchell, S. D., says: "I suffered ten years with kidney complaint and a doctor told me I would never get more than temporary relief. A dragging pain and lameness in my back almost disabled me. Dizzy spells come and went and the kidney secretions were irregular. Dean's Kidney Pills rid me of these troubles and I feel better than for years past." Sold by all dealers. 50c. a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

When the Umbrella Took Fire.
Thomas Simpson, the Detroit malleable iron man, is a grave and dignified person, but once he made a joke.

He was sitting with a party of friends, one of whom was smoking an enormous cigar. The friend had difficulty in keeping the cigar going, and by his repeated lightings had frazzled the end of it until it was about twice its original size. But he kept bravely at it.

Suddenly Simpson began to laugh.

"What are you laughing at, Tom?" asked another member of the party.

"I was wondering what Jim would do when that umbrella he is smoking begins to blaze," he said.—Saturday Evening Post.

All with Company There.
"Now, children," said the mother, as a whole roomful of company had come in, "suppose you run off and play by yourselves."

"All right, mother," replied Edith. "Can we go up and play Hamlet and Ophelia?"

"Certainly," smiled the mother, while her guests looked on at the tableau.

"Goody!" replied Edith; then, turning to her sister, she said: "Now, Maude, you run up to mamma's room and get all her false hair that you can find."—Judge.

"Chickens a Nuisance."
"Chickens a nuisance," declares the Charleston News and Courier. What, fried?—Baltimore Sun.

Chickens a nuisance? Yes, when all they leave of your garden is a reminiscence; yes, when the young cock, full of the joy of life, rouses you in the early dawn; yes, when some low-browed, vulgar fowl whips the very life out of your blooded pet; yes, when the pip or other ailment worries the amateur breeder. But when fried? Never!

Sage Advice for Husbands.
Rev. Father Bernard Vaughan, S. J., thus advises husbands about their wives: "Never attempt to check the flowing tide of her talk. Let her talk on while you possess your soul in peace. Remember that a woman needs many more safety valves and outlets for her temperament. Be patient with her."

Reminiscent Skinnings.
"Our old schoolmaster was tough as leather."

"No wonder. His principal occupation, if you remember, was tanning hides."

FILLETS OF MEAT ON TOAST
Either Steak or Mutton May Be Used in Preparation of This Somewhat Novel Dish.

If mutton, divide a piece of loin, taking as many as are required; trim off all fat and bone. There will only be the little round fillet left. Melt a good-sized piece of butter or drippings in, and put in one onion, one carrot and one turnip. Cut into slices and then add the meat. Cover with a piece of thick paper which has been spread with drippings before putting on the cover and let contents fry gently for a quarter of an hour. Then lift cover and pour over about half a pint of thick brown gravy (left over gravy will do). Now put stewpan in a moderate oven and let meat cook about two hours. Turn it once during this time and add a little more gravy if needed. Cut a thick slice of bread from a stale loaf, remove crust, trim it nicely and then with a sharp knife remove the center, leaving a border about an inch and a half thick; then fry bread case in hot butter until a golden brown. When the fillets are done (have mashed potatoes ready), arrange them neatly around the bread and keep hot until gravy is ready. For gravy remove all fat from the surface; then add a tablespoonful of catsup, a little flour and hot water, if there is not enough gravy. Fill center of bread ring with mashed potatoes and pour on the gravy. Garnish with lettuce leaves, sliced tomatoes or parsley and on each fillet a little chopped carrot; use round steak in the same way, only cut the fillets and pound and rub each piece with a little lemon juice.

Almond Wafers.
Cream one-half cup butter, add slowly one cup powdered sugar, one-half cup milk, drop by drop; then add 1½ cups bread flour, one-half teaspoon extract of almonds. Spread very thin on bottom of dripping pan inverted and buttered; mark in squares; sprinkle with almonds blanched and chopped fine, and bake in moderate oven five minutes. Roll in tubular shape while warm. Set pan on back of range while rolling wafers as they become brittle very quickly.

White Steamers Use Kerosene as Fuel

THE WHITE STEAMER WHICH MADE A SUCCESSFUL PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION OF KEROSENE AS FUEL ON THE RECENT 2650-MILE GLIDDEN TOUR.

The most interesting announcement ever made in connection with the automobile industry was undoubtedly that made a month or two ago to the effect that the new models of the White Steam Cars could be run on kerosene, or coal oil, instead of gasoline. Everyone at once recognized that the use of the new fuel would add materially to the advantages which the White already possessed over other types of cars. There were some people, however, who were sceptical as to whether or not the new fuel could be used with complete success, and, therefore, the makers of the White Car, the White Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, determined to make a public demonstration of the new fuel in the 1909 Glidden Tour.

From the standpoint of the public, no test more satisfactory could have been selected. First of all, the distance covered on the Glidden Tour, from Detroit to Denver and thence to Kansas City, was 2650 miles. This was certainly more than sufficient to bring out any weaknesses, if such had existed. Still more important was the fact that the car was at all times while on the road under the supervision of observers named by those who entered other contesting cars. Therefore, it would have been impossible for the driver of the White to have even tightened a bolt without the fact being noted and a penalty inflicted. At night the cars were guarded by Pinkerton detectives and could not be approached by any one.

The complete success of the new fuel while on the 2650-mile public test and the advantages gained through its use were well described in the following dispatch which the correspondent of the New York Sun sent to his paper at the conclusion of the tour: "A feature of the tour which was watched with special interest was that the White Steamer used kerosene, or 'coal oil,' as fuel instead of gasoline. The new fuel worked splendidly throughout the 2650-mile journey, and all claims made in its behalf were fully proven. First of all, as regards cheapness, the White driver secured kerosene all along the route from 6 cents to 10 cents cheaper per gallon than was paid for gasoline. Secondly, the new fuel was handled without any precautions, and it was not unusual to see kerosene being poured into the fuel tank while the crew of the car and an interested crowd stood by with lighted cigars and cigarettes. At the finish of the tour, the White was the only car permitted by the authorities to enter Convention Hall, where the technical examination took place, without draining its fuel tank. Thirdly, the new fuel proved to be absolutely without smoke or smell. Fourthly, kerosene could be purchased at whatever part of the route was most convenient, and not once during the trip through the ten States of the Middle West was there found a grocery store where kerosene was not readily and cheaply obtainable. Finally, the amount of fuel used on the trip showed that kerosene is at least fifteen per cent. more efficient, gallon for gallon, than gasoline. The car in other respects made a most creditable showing, and there was the usual rivalry among the observers to be assigned to the White so that they could ride with the maximum of comfort. The only adjustments or repairs charged against the car during the long trip were tightening a lubricator pipe and wiring a damaged mud guard. These penalties were not inflicted until more than 2000 miles had been completed with an absolute perfect score."

A particularly interesting feature of the new White Steamer is that either kerosene or gasoline may be used as fuel. The necessary adjustments so that the fuel may be changed from kerosene to gasoline, or vice versa, may be made in a couple of minutes; but so completely successful has kerosene proved to be, that it is not believed that any purchasers will care to use gasoline.

The White Company report that the demand for their new steam cars—both the $2000-model and the $4000-model—exceed their most sanguine expectations. It is evident that the combination of steam—the power which everyone understands and has confidence in—with kerosene—the fuel which everyone has on hand and can handle without any danger—is thoroughly appreciated by up-to-date purchasers of automobiles.

Keeping Up the Same Old "Gate"

It's the flavor that set the gait for the imitators—It's the same flavor that still bars them, and keeps Kellogg's in a field by itself. No one has been able to even approach it in either taste or tender crispness. There's a good reason for this.

Baked Ham.
Make a thick paste of flour and cover the ham with it, bone and all; put in a pan on a spider or two muffin rings, or anything that will keep it an inch from the bottom of the pan, and bake in a hot oven. If a small ham 15 minutes for each pound; if large, 20 minutes. The oven should be hot when it is put in. The paste forms a hard crust around the ham and when cooked the skin comes off with it. Ham is very nice cooked in this way.
