THE NORTH DIRECTORY.
Coming Issue Will Be Best Ever Offered to the County.
There are many reasons why the North City Directory should be patronized by every citizen of Lancaster county who needs a directory. One reason is that it is wholly a home product. All the work is done in Lincoln, and Lincoln wage earners do it.
The men who publish it are Lincoln business men whose every interest is in Lancaster county. Apart from this it is the most complete directory ever issued for the community. In addition to containing the names of all males over 21 years of age, it will contain the names of all Lancaster county taxpayers, a complete directory of Havelock, University Place, College View, and Bethany, and the names of wives who are propertyholders in their own right. It will also be "thumb indexed," and contain many other valuable and handy features.
The North Directory has given satisfaction in the past and there is every reason why it should be patronized to the exclusion of outside directories.
The money spent for or invested in the North Directory is kept in Lincoln.

FAIR BARBER SHOPS.
You Will Find the Union Card in the Following Places.
When you enter a barber shop, see that the union shop card is in plain sight before you get into the chair if the card is not to be seen, go else where. The union shop card is a guarantee of a cleanly shop, a smooth shave or good hair-cut, and courteous treatment. The following barber shops are entitled to the patronage of union men:
George Petro, 1010 O.
J. J. Simpson, 1001 O.

CHURCH AND LABOR.

How Far Can the Church Go in Supporting Organized Labor?
A few days ago an excited trades union official held me up in a labor hall by reading a telegram sent to him by the secretary of a central labor union somewhere on the Pacific coast, which telegram insisted that I should immediately change the decision of the trustees of a certain church, who had awarded a contract for a new church building to a non-union builder. I had never heard of the church, never heard of the preacher, and hadn't the slightest notion as to who the trustees were. The contract had been agreed upon, and, presumably, the builder was already on the job. And simply because I am a trades unionist, and have repeatedly stated my conviction as an individual, that trades unionism is a good thing, and that every workman should become a member of the union, it was assumed that I could accomplish by a wave of the hand, or by a threat of excommunication, or some other dire calamity, the task which these local trades unionists had failed to perform.
Because I frankly told my challenger that I really could not reverse the decision of these men, he roundly abused me in his local labor paper. I did not mind the abuse. I have become quite accustomed to getting it both from the church and from labor.
But the incident gives me the opportunity to make just one point which should be perfectly clear in the mind of every trades unionist, when he criticizes the church for not heartily endorsing organized labor as such.
I have repeatedly stated on the platform and in the press that the church cannot advocate socialism or any other economic theory, because there may be an honest difference of opinion concerning the matters among the membership of the church. However, the workman has a perfect right to insist that the church shall stand by him in his fight for better living conditions, a reasonable number of hours, a living wage, and a square deal in every other particular, but—and I say this with perfect frankness—the trades unionist has no right to expect the church to help him maintain his organization, any more than the churchman has a right to insist that the trades unionist shall maintain the church. If it is right in one case, it must be right in the other. If the trades unionist declares that the church must stand unequivocally for organized labor, then the churchmember has an equal right to insist that the trades unionist must stand unequivocally for the church, for they both declare for higher standards of morals and ethics, better homes, better schools, and better living in every way.

It seems to me that for the church to say that the contentions of organized labor for improved conditions are just, without committing itself in any way to a particular system whereby these conditions are to be secured, is all that anybody has a right to expect of it. The church must not stop at the point of passing resolutions, but it must be given the right to work with every or any movement which is fighting for the securing of fairer conditions. The Catholic church, the Protestant church and the Jewish church may work together in the struggle, even though they may not accept each other's religious platforms, but in so far as they agree upon the things for which they are contending, they should present a united front. If this liberty is granted the church, it will be very much easier for the church to work together with the union in the accomplishment of specific reforms. The real test of the church's sincerity in the matter of its sympathy for the trades unionist in this struggle for better things is not in the mere "recognition" of his union, but in its willingness to help him secure the practical things which he is after. This it can readily do when the issue has a moral basis, as in the case of a fight for little children, for weak women, for down-trodden men, for a weekly rest-day, for a living wage, for decent living conditions. When the question at stake is merely a matter of expediency, of jurisdiction, of a recognition of the union, or a similar matter, then the church must have the right to remain neutral, just as the trades union would not be expected to take sides were the church to take up the matter of denominational differences, of creeds or forms of government. As individuals, we may think as we please about the affairs of the church or of labor, but we cannot assume to commit our organization—either church or labor—to any system outside of their peculiar province.
