CENTRAL LABOR UNION.

Hears Profitable Report and Prepares for Good Work in 1910.

The Central Labor Union, at its meeting last Tuesday night, performed a service to the trades union interests of Lincoln and at the same time served the best interests of a large number of business men of Lincoln. At the December 14 meeting of the central body a committee was appointed to confer with a committee from the Retail Grocers' and Butchers' association concerning an amendment to the peddler's ordinance whereby the license might be raised from $15 to $100 a year. The Grocers and Butchers' Association heard it rumored that the central body was opposing the ordinance and sought the conference, which was readily granted. The two committees met at the Temple prior to the meeting of the central body and went over the ground thoroughly. The central body's committee insisted that reciprocity should be practiced, and pointed out to the representatives of the grocers and butchers that they were not doing for organized labor what they asked organized labor to do for them. In other words, while asking organized labor in Lincoln to help them in getting rid of unfair competition they were putting Lincoln workers up against the competition of convict labor, foreign labor and tenement labor. Their attention was called to the fact that a majority of them handled only tenement house cigars, or trust made cigars, thus practically discriminating against Lincoln workers. Also that they invariably pushed the penitentiary made brooms instead of trying to advance the cause of honest labor. Nor was the matter of Lincoln made flour, confectionery, etc., overlooked.

"The business men ask us to help them rid themselves of this floating competition," said Mr. Quick, of the central body, "yet, when we carpenters who own our little homes and are doing our part towards building up Lincoln, see work growing better, we are immediately confronted with the competition of carpenters imported into the city. These imported carpenters leave their families in other towns and when business grows slack they hike back home, taking with them the money they have earned, and while we are thus deprived of work the Lincoln grocer is deprived of an equal amount of patronage. Wouldn't it be well for you gentlemen to look at that side of the case?"

Rev. Mr. Zenor, a fraternal delegate and one of the committee from the central body, spoke at some length on the economic aspects of the conference, and his talk was listened to with appreciative interest. The members of the visiting committee admitted that some matters had been put to them in a new light, and they urged the central body's committee to appear before the next meeting of the association and explain their side of the case as it had been explained at the conference. The central body jumped at the invitation, and at the regular meeting of the Retail Grocers and Butchers' association, Tuesday evening, January 11, the matter will be fully and frankly discussed.

The Wageworker is convinced that out of this friendly conference and discussion great good will come, not only to the business interests of the city, but to the wage earners of the city. Rev. Mr. Zenor explained that he could not attend the meeting on January 9, having an out-of-town engagement, and Rev. Mr. Batten, another fraternal delegate, was asked to act in Rev. Mr. Zenor's place.

The committee that acted when the late lamented commission charter was framed was revived and instructed to act with the committee now engaged in drawing up a new charter. The committee that recently took a part in opposing the profit-sharing proposal between the Traction Co., and the city was instructed to prepare and report on some plan for the better safeguarding of the public's interest in the traction matter.

Rev. Mr. Batten briefly summarized a report adopted by a recent conference of the churches of America as it related to labor, and the report was greeted with applause. This report will be ready for publication in a short time, and when it comes it will be of great interest to union men and women, and doubtless the means of greatly advancing the cause of organized labor.

A "COPLESS" CRISTMAS.

Santa Claus Day in Lincoln Without a Policeman on Duty.

Now what do you think of that? A city of 85,000 people without a police force on Christmas day? That's the way Lincoln people behave themselves. From early morning until 5 in the afternoon of Christmas day Chief of Police Malone was the only police officer on duty in the entire city of Lincoln, and he spent the day quietly at headquarters.

The patrolmen were allowed to have a holiday, and they spent it at their homes. Of course they were ready to respond if call was made, but during the entire day there was no need for the services of a single patrolman, and Chief Malone was "the whole works" for ten hours. This speaks volumes for the sobriety and good citizenship of Lincoln, and for the confidence Chief Malone has in his small but efficient force. If there is another city of equal size in the United States that can match Lincoln's police record, we'd like to know where it is located. Here's wishing Chief of Police Malone and his whole force a mighty Happy and Prosperous New Year.

PAINTERS' OFFICIALS.

Men Who Will Guide the International Union's Affairs.

At the Cincinnati convention of the International Brotherhood of Painters, Paperhangers and Decorators the following officers were elected:
President, George F. Hedrich, of Albany, N. Y.
First Vice President, John M. Finan, Chicago, Ill.
Second Vice President, Joseph F. Kelly, Philadelphia, Pa.
Third Vice President, Joseph Healy, Cincinnati, O.
Fourth Vice President, D. L. Hunt, Spokane, Wash.
Fifth Vice President, Clarence E. Swick, Memphis, Tenn.
Sixth Vice President, A. E. Scott, Winnipeg, Man.
General Secretary-Treasurer, J. C. Skemp.
In the election of five delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor at St. Louis, Mo., in 1910, there were nineteen candidates for the coveted position. The vote resulted in the following being elected: Jacob Tazelaar, Orange, N. J.; Daniel Evans, Chicago, Ill.; E. Frank Morehouse, Boston, Mass.; Samuel Kelly, Covington, Ky.

THE NORTH DIRECTORY.

Coming Issue Will Be Best Ever Offered to the County.

There are many reasons why the North City Directory should be patronized by every citizen of Lancaster county who needs a directory. One reason is that it is wholly a home product. All the work is done in Lincoln, and Lincoln wage earners do it. The men who publish it are Lincoln business men whose every interest is in Lancaster county. Apart from this it is the most complete directory ever issued for the community. In addition to containing the names of all males over 21 years of age, it will contain the names of all Lancaster county taxpayers, a complete directory of Havlock, University Place, College View, and Bethany, and the names of wives who are propertyholders in their own right. It will also be "thumb indexed," and contain many other valuable and handy features.

The North Directory has given satisfaction in the past and there is every reason why it should be patronized to the exclusion of outside directories. The money spent for or invested in the North Directory is kept in Lincoln.
