

WE HAVE REMOVED

The Tucker Bros. Stock

to our big store just across the street South of the Postoffice, and it must be closed out at the earliest possible time to make room for our fall and winter stock which is arriving daily. We bought the Tucker Bros. stock at a very low price--it was a forced sale for the benefit of creditors, and any part of it that reaches your home will be a net saving to you of

FORAKER IN LINCOLN
 The republicans of Nebraska have fired their first gun in Nebraska—a mere popgun, however. A goodly-sized crowd listened to Senator Foraker of Ohio at the Auditorium, Lincoln, Wednesday evening. To any one who has ever studied a line in political history or political economy it is always amazing to hear crowds of people applaud such illogical and unsound statements as were made by the Ohio senator.
 For a moment, think of a man insulting the intelligence of his audience, if it has any intelligence, by such statements he made respecting the "favorable" balance of trade. After telling the crowd that our exports under Roosevelt exceeded our imports annually to the tune of hundreds of millions the crowd yelled with self-jollification. When it is considered that these exports also represent both gold and silver as well as merchandise in excess of imports, that is, that we sent away more wealth than we received in return, the idea of what a "balance of trade in our favor" means, may even dawn upon the mind of Simple Simon.
 The American people are about the only ones on earth fools enough to congratulate themselves in a deal where the other fellow gets the larger share. The people of India have a "favorable balance of trade" far in excess of what we have, but ignorant as we may think them to be, no one has ever thought of congratulating them for that balance. There is no other nation on earth that could support such a tremendous drain upon its resources as we do. If we had only the natural resources of England, with such a tremendous "balance of trade in our favor," we would "go broke" in thirty days.

 Then on a par with this was the senator's remarks on opening markets in the Orient for the "surplus products" of our farmers and manufacturers. "Farmers of Nebraska and manufacturers of my home, Cincinnati," were his words. And the ninnies in the crowd yelled. Think of it! Surplus products of the farm—while tollers are starving in our streets. Surplus products of manufacturers, while the farmers of the land are forced to wear patched garments, if any at all. Surplus products where the little children and careworn mothers go half clad throughout the realm, and are from day to day denied a thousand and one comforts because monopoly holds them by the throat. There is a market right here in America for more products than the entire world, in addition to our own industries could supply, had we only brains enough to take advantage of it; if we only had wisdom enough to arrange an economic system where men could enjoy their natural heritage. And so he went on in the same strain, and the ninnies yelled. He defended our stupidity in denying Europe the privilege of trading with us, and then went on to tell of how "benevolent assimilation" had forced an "open door" in the Orient for "surplus American goods." And that door must be kept open for us to carry on a free trade with them, even though we have to keep a navy there to do it. For we must have an "open door" for our "surplus" products, and again the ninnies yelled. And then after asserting that we would keep a navy there to keep the markets of the Orient open for us, bragging that we are extending our markets everywhere, and proudly boasting of our "wisdom" in keeping our markets closed against Europe, then he congratulated the believers in protective tariffs present that England was going to restore her protective tariff policy, which would close her markets against us. And again a few ninnies yelled, but they were fewer than before, for even ninnies began to see the absurdity. We must have markets for our "surplus products," even if we have to keep a navy to force an "open door," but if another country will only put up a tariff barrier against our trade, as we have done to others, then we are proud of her wisdom and good sense. Think of such rot being palmed off upon an American audience. And then think of the ninnies in the crowd calling that statesmanship.

The cheapest room in the St. Regis the new $5,000,000 hotel in New York, is $7 a day without board on the European plan. With board it would not be less than $10. Besides that there must be tips to the servants every time one turns around, and if one gives a tip of less than 25 or 50 cents, he gets no attention. That is what this beautiful Roosevelt and Parker system of government is running into. Go on you men of muscle and little brains and "whoop it up." Under Roosevelt the St. Regis was built and several others of the same kind are nearing completion. The process goes directly onward. Wealth accumulates and men decay.
 Passengers to New York, Boston, New England and all eastern points will find it to their advantage to ascertain rates applying over the Nickel Plate Road and its eastern connections. Three daily trains, on which there is no excess fare charged. One special feature of the service is meals in dining-cars, on American Club Plan. Pay for what you get, but in no case over 35c to $1.00 per meal; also service a la carte and Mid-day Luncheon 50c. Folders, rates and all information cheerfully furnished by applying to John Y. Calahan, General Agent, Chicago, Ill., Room 298, 113 Adams St., Chicago depot, La Salle and Van Buren Sts.
