

Farmer's Elevators

The farmers' elevator movement in the state of Nebraska is becoming very prominent among both farmers and business men.

The result of the work done by the farmers' elevators is so satisfactory that demands are being made for the independent or farmers' elevators in many portions of the state and efforts are being made to establish them in many localities where no organization at the present time exists.

There is in the state at this time something like 116 farmers' elevator organizations, most of these have elevators in operation and are paying from 5c to 1-0c more a bushel for wheat and from 2 to 5 cents more for oats than at stations where there are no farmers' elevator organizations.

There are 15,000 farmers in the state that belong to these organizations—and it is safe to say there are many times this number, that are anxious to become connected with them: The farmers generally are in sympathy with this movement.

It is a matter of great interest to all farmers in the state to know something of the savings made to the farmers where they are handling their own grain, as the following will show, to-wit: Minden, Neb., in Kearney county, where they have an organization of about 300 members; they claim they saved by shipping their own grain, during the last year, about $30,000 over and above 20 per cent made on their investment.

Johnson Bros. of Newark, Neb., saved $180 on one car of oats, or 10 cents a bushel over and above what they were offered by the regular elevator.

Wm. Walker of Newark saved $172.50 on one car of oats by shipping his own grain.

The farmers' organization of Newark saved $800 on the first ten cars of grain shipped by them.

Andy Olson of Minden, Neb., saved $100 on two cars of wheat.

Herman Watt of Minden saved $76 on one car of wheat.

L. J. Thompson of Minden saved $56 on one car of wheat.

M. O. Mara saved $50 on one car.

Mr. Schmidt of Havelock, Neb., saved $200 on two cars, which were shipped by him.

Mr. O'Nelle of Buffalo county saved $57 on one car load of oats.

The above savings, made by these farmers, are but a sample of what is being done by the farmers wherever organized.

It is very satisfactory to the merchants and business men in all localities where the farmers are organized and shipping their own grain, as they find the farmers have more money to do business with and it places business on a cash basis.

Rube Schnyder of Fremont, Neb., is the president of the regular grain dealers' association and owns elevators in various sections of this state and Iowa, and is one of those who is using his best efforts in trying to prevent the farmers from organizing and shipping their own grain. Mr. Schnyder appeared before the legislative committee and made a vigorous fight against the farmers' bill, known as the Brady bill (senate file No. 102) at the last session of the legislature. It is but fair that the farmers of Nebraska, know that Mr. Schnyder is the national committeeman for Nebraska and a member of the executive committee of the republican party, and that he is instrumental in getting a number of candidates nominated for the legislature, who are in bitter opposition to the farmers' movement, and it is also true that he has close relations with the railroads. There are about 1,000 elevators in the state, 80 per cent of them are in the elevator combine.

that is seeking to control the grain market.

In order that the farmers of the state may have a law passed in their interest it is well for them to oblige their members of the legislature to support the Brady bill or a measure that will give equally as favorable consideration to the farmers, and any candidate who is running for the legislature, who refuses to do this is not friendly to the farmers' movement.

The farmers do not ask for class legislation—they do ask for simple justice between man and man and between individual and corporation. The farmers are entitled to ship their own grain if they so desire. The farmers ask for the same rights only as are given to corporations in the location of elevator sites, and sidetrack privileges on the railroads.

The farmers are entitled to the use of cars as are given to the corporations for the shipment of their grain.

The populist and democratic state platforms both declare in favor of the farmers elevator organization; and the candidates named by them for state and legislative offices stand pledged to support the farmers' organization.
