

Farmers Ship Their Own Grain

For many years the farmers have been at the mercy of an elevator trust, as has been clearly shown in court proceedings in recent months. However, Nebraska farmers are not now compelled to wait the slow process of the courts in order to get fair prices for grain. The Farmers Grain Co. has been organized under Nebraska laws with an authorized capital of $250,000 and has secured a membership on the Omaha Grain Exchange—it is the only farmers' company in Nebraska that has gained this advantage. The manager, Mr. C. Vincent, has succeeded in overcoming all the obstacles that formerly prevented farmers from selling their own grain in the "world's market," and the following letter plainly shows he is doing a successful business and saving thousands of dollars for Nebraska farmers. Why should not you save on your crop as well as other people?

Six Cents a Bushel

Norton, Kan., Aug. 20, 1905.—The Farmers' Grain Co., Omaha, Neb.: Gentlemen—Your check for $64.81 is received for balance on car 24,321 Q. This corn was of poor quality and you secured for me at least 6 cents a bushel more than I could have secured in the local market. You have my hearty thanks for this service and I will try and secure for you more consignments.—B. W. Pettijohn.

Would Fill the Bill

Mr. Bigheart—Wiggins, old boy, we've raised $50 to get the boss a Christmas present, and we want something that will make a show for the money—something that will look big, you know. Can't you suggest something?

Wiggins—Sure. Buy $50 worth of rice and boll it.

Oscar Hunt, one of the Carlisle football team, is an Indian millionaire from Oklahoma.

As John R. Hegeman, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, sat in the witness chair of the Armstrong legislative investigating committee, says the New York Commercial, he seemed a cross between Henry Ward Beecher and Robert Collyer, with a slight dash of St. Simeon Stylites thrown in to add to the "effect" of sanctification. His emphatic expression of abhorrence for the "perpendicular pronoun" made a deep impression upon William Barnes, Sr., of Albany, who looked on with a quizzical glint in his near eye. When Mr. Hegeman had declared that he did not draw all of his salary of $100,000 Mr. Barnes leaned forward and whispered to a man in front of him, "That is the face of a saint." "Yes," retorted Mr. Hughes, softly—for he had overheard the remark. "But no saint was ever as holy as Mr. Hegeman looks."
