You and each of you will take notice that on the 17th day of May, 1906, Hosea Bennett filed his petition in the district court of Lancaster county, Nebraska against the defendants, John E. Dougherty, James Manning and said real estate as defendants the object and prayer of said petition being to foreclose a certain tax-sale certificate lien existing in plaintiffs favor on said real estate, to have an accounting, and to have said defendants and all persons claiming any interest in said real estate barred and foreclosed of any such interest as against plaintiff.

It is of the allegations of said petition that said real estate was subject to taxation for the years 1897, 1898, 1899, and 1900, that taxes assessed against said real estate for said years were and became delinquent, and that on the 4th day of November, 1901 plaintiff purchased said real estate for taxes at public auction from the treasurer of Lancaster County, Nebraska, that said sale was regularly made that said county treasurer delivered to plaintiff a taxsale certificate, that the owner of said real estate is unknown.

Plaintiff prays an accounting, that on the trial of said action a time be fixed wherein if redemption be not made said real estate may be sold according to law to pay amount found to be due to plaintiff with the costs of such sale, and in such costs that there be included an attorney's fee of ten per cent of the amount of such decree, and for general equitable relief.

You are required to answer said petition on or before Monday, July 2, 1906.

Another Lie Nailed

"The trouble with most people," said the lecturer, "is that they have never learned to say 'no.'"

"Evidently," said a sad looking man, who had succeeded in getting in on a pass, "you haven't been soliciting life insurance since these graft exposures were begun."

Takinog no Chances

During a recent discussion on juvenile crime, Charles Richmond Henderson, professor of sociology at the university of Chicago, and an eminent authority on criminology, told a story of a youngster who was asked if he knew the meaning of "regeneration."

"Yes," responded the lad, "it means to be born again."

"And would you like to be born again?"

"No sreee," exclaimed the boy. "I'm too much afraid of being born a girl."

Might Be There

The department store salesman had taken twenty-nine rolls of dress goods from the shelf and was a trifle impatient.

"Madam," he said politely, "isn't there anything here which suits you?"

"No," replied the fair shopper.

"I guess I won't select the goods

now. You see I am just looking for a friend."

"There's another roll on the shelf," said the salesman. "I'll take it down if you think your friend is likely to be in it."—Puck.

No More Indigestion

This ought to be a good cure for indigestion. It is recommended by the eminent Dr. Bond in the London Lancet, a medical journal of world-wide repute:

"The indigestion must be a very hopeless one," says Dr. Bond, "which will not yield to a diet of a small cup of warm milk to which a teaspoonful of rum has been added, followed by a plain biscuit or two and some very mild cheese, paradoxical as this combination may seem."

According to Dr. Bond there is a subtle harmony between these ingredients that does the business.
