

day that it happened. We can yet hear the echo of "Jim's" voice as he lifted its quavering accents and piped: "Strike till the last armed foe expires! Strike for your altars and your fires! Strike for the green graves of your sires!

God and your native land!"

Then Lelia Ingalls tripped forward and recited "The lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine," and she was followed by Nannie Maguire who recited an awfully funny piece about a "little maiden who had a brand new bonnet, with a ribbon and a feather and a bit of lace upon it." Thus it went for an hour. You could call the roll if you wanted to, for you remember them all. It was only yesterday, or the day before, that it all happened.

Then George Waters stepped outside and came back in, and in each hand he carried a bucket. Each bucket was filled with candy, and each pupil—we called 'em "scholars" in those days—was allowed to take a handful from each bucket. Just think of it. Two kinds of candy! O, but it was fine! And—

Goodness gracious! We forgot all about going to work.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s Wonderful New Catalogue Just Out

Sears, Roebuck & Co., the great mail order house of Chicago, have just issued their new fall and winter catalogue, the largest and most interesting general merchandise catalogue ever printed, and they are willing to send it free to anyone who will write for it. This great concern now advises us that they are handling all orders with wonderful speed since they are entirely located in their mammoth 40-acre plant and are filling and dispatching thousands of orders they receive daily in about one-half the time they formerly required and are setting a new standard for good service in the mail order world. With this firm's wonderful facilities in their new plant, with the marvelous values as shown by the low prices and high quality of the merchandise in their latest free catalogue, with the liberal profit sharing plan which they maintain, whereby they give their customers a large share of the profits of the business, giving away an endless variety of valuable merchandise absolutely free to their customers, and with the accuracy and speed with which they are now handling every order that comes to them, we look forward to see them break all records for volume of business this season. The honest and straightforward as well as liberal manner in which this institution treats its customers is certainly a model of business policy, one that all other tradesmen could well afford to pattern after.

Thousands of young men are now leaving the farm and taking good positions with large business houses and corporations in the cities. A few years ago it was almost impossible for a young man or woman born and reared on the farm to secure a position in the city unless they had connections either by relation or otherwise who possessed enough influence to make a chance for them to get a start. The great demand for young men and women in banks, mercantile establishments, railroads, telegraph offices, and other business enterprises which has grown up during the past few years has changed conditions all around. The growth of this demand has caused the establishment of the modern business college, designed to give the farm boy and girl enough insight into business to make them valuable to the business man. In the modern business college, the young man or young woman can quickly gain all the knowledge necessary to hold a good paying position in the largest offices, and this is not the best part of it; if the business college possesses a reputation for turning out well educated pupils it has influence to get every one of its graduates permanent situations in large offices where they have every opportunity for advancement. Such a college is Boyles Business College, located at 1812 Harney Street, Omaha, Neb. Mr. Boyles, president of the college, is a practical business man, and is therefore competent to teach business. He has a corps of the very best instructors it is possible to find, and his college occupies the most modern and thoroughly equipped new building devoted to college purposes in the west. Mr. Boyles has published a catalogue which is very valuable to any young man or woman who contemplates taking a business course. It gives all the information necessary and is sent free on request.

Secretary Root gives out official correspondence showing that armed intervention by the United States was asked officially by President Palma as early as September 8 on the ground that the government could not quell the rebellion or protect property.

The Well Known Specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., Will Send His Book and $2.50 Worth of His Personal Treatment Free to any Reader

There never was a better opportunity for persons suffering from diseases of the heart, nerves, liver, stomach and kidneys to test, free, a remarkably successful treatment for these disorders. Dr. Miles is known to be a leading specialist in these diseases and his liberal offer is certainly worthy of serious consideration by every afflicted reader. This opportunity may never occur again.

His system of Personal Treatment is thoroughly scientific and immensely superior to other methods. It includes several new remedies carefully selected to suit each individual case and is the final result of twenty-five years of very extensive research and great success in treating these diseases.

Each treatment consists of a curative elixir, tonic tablets, eliminating pills and usually a plaster. Extensive statistics clearly demonstrate that Dr. Miles Personal Treatment is at least three times as successful as the usual treatment of physicians or general remedies sold at the stores.

Col. E. B. Filleman of the 9th United States Regulars, located at San Diego, Cal., says: "Dr. Miles' Special Treatment has worked wonders in my son's case when all else failed. I had employed the best medical talent and had spent $2,000 in doing so. I believe he is a wonderful specialist. I consider it my duty to recommend him." For years I had severe trouble with my stomach, head, neuralgia, sinking spells and dropsy. Your treatment entirely cured me.

Mr. Julius Keister, of 360 Michigan Avenue Chicago, testifies that Dr. Miles cured him after ten able physicians had failed. Mrs. R. Trimmer of Greenspring, Pa., was cured after many physicians had pronounced her case "hopeless."

As all afflicted readers may have his Book and $2.50 worth of Treatment especially adapted to their case free, we would advise them to send for it before it is too late. Address, Dr. Franklin Miles, Dept. G., Main Street, Elkhart, Indiana.
