

Who's Who In The 1933 Spring Campaign

Wherever He Serves,
HE SERVES WELL

W. W. CARMICHAEL

Wherever people congregate, and whenever people meet to talk about candidates for the city commission race, then, do people's hopes and thoughts turn to men like W. W. Carmichael, to lead them out of this storm and stress period.

It seems that wherever you go, people turn to inquire about "this man Carmichael", who seems to have captured the hopes and aspirations of the citizens of Omaha. There aren't very many people in Omaha that do not know about the ability, the loyalty, and the activity of W. W. Carmichael, but even those few are astonished by the assurance of his hosts of friends and well-wishers, that there could not be another man, more public spirited, more energetic, and more desirous of clearing the city of political chicanery, and machine politics.

Mr. Carmichael, has for a long time been known as a sound, constructive, and far-seeing business man and executive, as evidenced by his 30 years association with the C. N. Dietz Lumber Company, which for the last three years, he has operated under his own name. But his activities have not been confined to business alone. The diversification of his activities shows the strength of character of this man.

During the past eight years, W. W. Carmichael, has held the important office of President of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce. He was a member of the Board of Education, holding the position as Chairman of the Finance committee, and under his leadership and direction the present "healthy financial" standing, has come about.

He has been the President of the Rotary Club of Omaha; He was the Exalted Ruler of Omaha Lodge B. P. O. Elks No. 39; He has held the office of Illustrious Potentate of the Tangier Temple; and he has still found time to serve as Vice-President of the Family Welfare Association.

Can anyone, or dare anyone deny, that Mr. Carmichael, has served this community, without stint, or without view to time expended, without a thought of remuneration. Mr. Carmichael during all these years, has labored in the attempt, to have the city move constructively forward, in all lines, and it is at this time, at this crisis, one might say, when people are looking for leaders with sound vision, that W. W. Carmichael, answers the call to step in, and do his share once more.

A Successful Business Administrator for 26 Years

RICHARD W. JEPSEN

A son of one of Omaha's pioneer families, and a member of one of the oldest business concerns, in the history of this city, Richard W. Jepsen, has for a long time been known as an industrious, capable and civic-minded citizen of this community. Having been born on the site on which the Jepsen Bros. retail grocery now stands in 1892, Richard Jepsen, now commands an important position, in the eyes of successful business men.

Working hard at all times, for the last 21 years, in the grocery and meat market, founded by his father in 1886, Mr. Jepsen, has won and earned the commendations not only of those people who are his direct competitors, but of men and women in various other lines of endeavor.

In 1927, his associates, showing their faith in him, elected him president of the Omaha Retail Grocers Association. As a result of his efforts, Mr. Jepsen was greeted with the largest convention ever held here by the national body of the Retail Grocers Association, when 3400 visitors were entertained. He is at present one of the active members in the Concord Club and Director of Omaha Post A of the Traveler's Protective Association. He was for several years a director of the Ad.Sell league, and has been an ardent and active worker in Community Chase Drives.

Having been born and raised in Omaha, he knows its problems and is ready to meet them with that same ability, and industry that he is known for in the grocery business. Although he was unknown politically in 1930, his business associates and friends, had so much confidence in him, that he was nominated in the primaries, and between the primaries and election day, he made the largest individual gain in votes of any of the "out" candidates.

A. Lincoln Entered Politics a Century Ago

Defeated in Race for Legislature When 23 Years of Age.

FORT WAYNE, IND.—Political issues troubling American voters today are much the same as those which Abraham Lincoln discussed 100 years ago today in his maiden political speech, it was revealed here by Dr. Louis A. Warren, director of the Lincoln Historical Research Foundation.

"This year marks the 100th anniversary of Lincoln's first political speech to the voters of Sangamon county, Illinois," Doctor Warren explained. "He was then 23 years of age and was a candidate for the state legislature.

"A study of that document, which is on file in the Foundation's library here, reveals that Lincoln devoted his speech to a discussion of many issues which are still being kept alive today by local politicians in all parts of the country. For example—road building, public education, usury and the activities of 'loan sharks,' railroads versus waterways, and revision of existing laws."

He Took the Police Dept. from the Front Page of the Dailies

John Hopkins

Commissioner John Hopkins needs no introduction to the people of Omaha. He has served faithfully and well for the last twelve years, that he has been a commissioner. He has had charge of the fire, finance and police departments during this time, and his management of these departments, compares favorably with that of his predecessors in office, or these that followed him.

Mr. Hopkins is a man of strong determination, and his decisions in the past have been made only after due consideration of all the matters involved, after which he decides upon his course and sticks by it. It is this trait in John Hopkins, that characterizes also President Roosevelt, and many of our great leaders in the past and present.

The present Police Commissioner has been identified with public life in Omaha for twenty years, and he has been a citizen of Omaha and Nebraska since he was three years old. He was graduated from the Creighton Law School, in 1913, having been an exemplary student and prominent in college athletics. Following his graduation he practiced law and served in the State Legislature in 1917, and at the close of the session, joined the army, serving almost two years.

In all the departments of the City government in which he has served he has made splendid records. During the past year Mr. Hopkins has placed the Police Department on an efficient basis. He has the absolute co-operation of the officers and men in his department, and he sincerely believes, that if he is continued as Police Commissioner he will make the Omaha department one of the finest law enforcement bodies in the United States.

Stuck by His Post Though Fired upon by enemies of Society

ROY N. TOWL

A test of the ability, honesty and good faith of a public official, is proven by the amount of confidence placed in that man, and today Roy N. Towl, stands vindicated as the most able, honest and faithful, of all our public servants.

Today the people of Omaha know, that there is not another man, who has fought for their rights, against the enslaving of them by political gangs, and low politicians. Roy Towl has always been a fighter, and will continue fighting as the friend of the people of this city.

He has always been willing to cooperate, but has met with only few attempts to meet him half-way. As a nationally known engineer, Mr. Towl has been willing to offer his aid to those city departments, which can well use expert advice. As the trend of the times is to put men in office of business and technical experience, the answer to the people's call for exactness and analysis in the administration of the affairs of the city, lies in the re-election of Roy Towl.

The present fire commissioner is well-known throughout the country, as a capable man, and has held many offices in national engineering organizations. He received his early training at the Armour Institute of Technology in Chicago, and came back to private practice here in 1904.

Mr. Towl has been a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the foremost society in this field, for the last 20 years, and at present he is the Vice-President of the Nebr. Section of this organization. He was elected President of the National Drainage Congress in 1927, and has been connected with the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, the Engineers and Inter-Professional Clubs, and for a long time, has been a member of the Masons, the Elks, and the Shriners.

Among some of his achievements in the engineering line are:

As Commissioner of Public Improvements from 1918 to 1921, Dodge Street hill was graded down twenty-three feet; and the St. Mary's improvement was made.

In drainage and reclamation, as well as river improvement, he has had thirty organized districts in Nebraska and that many more in other states. On the Missouri River, he has been employed as consulting engineer on thirty-five projects from St. Louis to Yankton, S. D.

Special investigations in 1929 in Guatemala and Honduras on the behavior and control of tropical streams were made for the United Fruit Co. by the use of planes where the jungles were impenetrable and cover an area formerly occupied by the Maya Indians, the ruins of which civilization were discovered by Colonel Lindberg in Yucatan.

Investigations in Southern California and Mexico have been made in the lower Colorado River. Reports were filed on the navigation of the ship channel from Galveston to Houston, Texas.

Rare Memento

One of the rarest curios in the museum of the Lincoln Historical Research Foundation at Fort Wayne, Ind., is this unique paperweight which was in use on the desk of President Lincoln at the time of his assassination. The weight was presented to Dr. S. Neumann, veterinary surgeon general of the Army of the Potomac, by Major Stackpole, steward of the White House at the time of the President's death, and was later sold by the widow of Doctor Neumann. Its most recent owner, President Arthur F. Hall of the Lincoln National Life Insurance Company, presented it to the Foundation when its library and museum were established two years ago.

Has Served You Well as a Welfare worker without Pay

HARRY TRUSTIN

Harry Trustin has thrown himself so wholeheartedly into professional and social welfare work, for the last 20 years, that his friends, in all walks of life, have drafted him, as a composite of all things that are desirable in the present-day public official.

Recognized as a leader and executive, in the fields of engineering and contracting, by the railroads, by the American Legion, and by numerous social welfare organizations, Mr. Trustin's strength lies in the fact, that he has not only an appeal to the class, but also to that vast mass of voters of Omaha.

For the last ten years, Mr. Trustin has devoted himself unsparingly, without any remuneration to the cause of the disabled veteran, in his capacity as chairman of the Rehabilitation committee, which investigates and presses the claims, of those unfortunate members, a reminder of the fallen in the World War. He is known far and wide in the national membership of the American Legion, being a past commander of Omaha Post No. 1.

Mr. Trustin, has also been given that high honor, reserved only for a few, of being made a member of the Court of Honor, that group of twelve leaders in Omaha, who guide and inspire the youth in this vicinity, in the Boy Scout movement.

There has not been a time, in the 36 years that Harry Trustin has resided in Omaha, that he has not responded with full force to the "call to arms" to aid the distressed. He served very faithfully, on the Red Cross Board, in times of distress, and under Dr. Stokes, he served commendably on the Nebraska department of the Tubercular society.

Mr. Trustin was raised and attended the public schools in Omaha, and served his apprenticeship at the Union Pacific, and is a graduate of Railroad Bureau of Education and Engineering.

Wrongfully Accused Four Years Ago, now Vindicated

ARTHUR A. WESTERGARD

IMPORTANT REASONS WHY ARTHUR A. WESTERGARD SHOULD BE ELECTED COMMISSIONER

1. Westergard Fought For Lower Taxes.

Everyone acquainted with the City Government knows of his record to lower taxes. "The cost of Government must never exceed the ability of the people to pay" has ever been his cry. Through his effort, primarily, no increase was made in the mill levy last August, which would have offset the 15% tax reduction.

2. Westergard Saved Our Citizens $1,125,000.

Arthur A. Westergard's program of rehabilitating the Fire Department when he was Fire Commissioner brought about the saving of approximately $1,125,000 to the citizens of Omaha, over the last three years. This was the result of lower fire insurance rates made possible by his work as head of the Fire Department. This saving should continue at the rate of approximately $375,000 each year.

3. Westergard Championed the Anti-Fireworks Ordinance.

Parents certainly appreciate the valient efforts of Arthur A. Westergard in sponsoring and fighting for the passage of the ordinance prohibiting the sale and use of fireworks within the City. Many a child has been saved from death and painful injury as a result of this sensible and humanitarian measure.

4. Westergard Labored To Balance The Budget.

Our newspapers have reported Arthur A. Westergard's daily efforts to Balance the Budget and put the City Government on a Cash Basis. His fight saved the taxpayers several hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Continue Such Efficiency and Devotion to Duty.

If He Gets In, the Lord only Knows when He will get out—He has the Necessary tact

BLAINE YOUNG

The people are becoming rapidly aware, that candidates for public office, should have as a pre-requisite, as little entangling alliance with political machines as possible. With this as a "starter", ability, industry, and foresightedness, are other characteristics, which should mark our candidates, and as the voters scan the list of nominees, they must certainly select Blaine Young, as the man, who has all the foregoing desirable qualities.

Mr. Young, candidate for city commissioner at the coming election, and who is a prominent insurance man here, is also a splendid example of Omaha's self-made business men.

Coming to Omaha, when only a very small child, and fatherless, he has made his way up through the business world until at present he is the president of his own concern, the Blaine Young Insurance Co., and general agent for several large insurance agencies. Mr. Young has been engaged in the insurance line for the past seventeen years.

He has resided in Omaha for the past 31 years, and during that time, he has been a member of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, the Ad.Sell club, and for a good many years, of the Omaha Athletic club. It has been his claim, that he has never mixed in politics, or been connected with politicians, and he is of the same opinion, as the wide majority of people, to "clean the City Hall of politicians."

Although Blaine Young has worked hard in his profession, for a good many years, he has still had time to win a place for himself, in Nebraska golf annals. He is of the same general opinion, as are many of our golfing executives, that you can learn more about a man, by playing a round of golf with him, than you can, by conversing with him in your office, for the same amount of time. Twice state champion, he is always a contender for that honor. For the past ten years, he has been Secretary-Treasurer of the Trans.Mississippi Golf Association.

Beware!

of false leadership for selfish purposes. Look behind the screen and you might be surprised.

If you are a good citizen you will discourage breadline political leadership. A hungry man makes a poor leader for anything other than a piece of bread and if there is a piece of meat inside, he is likely to sell his soul for it.
