

"REVEALING" YOUR PAST PRESENT FUTURE
by Abbe' Wallace
"YOUNGEST MENTALIST ON THE AMERICAN STAGE"

N. H.—I was injured a few weeks ago, do you think I will be successful in getting any money from it?
Ans: I vision you receiving a small sum of money from the insurance Company in connection with the street car accident that I contact in your life several weeks ago.

M. M.—I really want to know what my sister's husband tried to do to her. He put something under her door-step.
Ans: He is merely trying to get rid of a hard luck spell that he has been suffering with for some time. He means no harm to anyone but simply thinks he is going to gain good luck by this. I am sorry to say but I believe he will be sadly disappointed if he puts much faith in this stunt.

M. P.—A man came looking for me and said he was my uncle. He said my grandmother died and left $35,000.00 and he said this money had to be divided among all the relatives and he said he had a home in Lincoln, Nebraska and he said he was going to give it to me. Will I get this?
Ans: He is just "pulling a gag". Your grandmother never saw $3500. He has a nice home waiting for him in Lincoln, Nebr., at the jail house. I feel confident that you won't want it.

Leslie—I met a young man whom I would like very much to see again but something happened that we did not get a chance to say as much as we could have. I wonder if I will ever in my life meet him again?
Ans: You will meet this boy at a big dance held here in Omaha this summer. I suggest that you make the most of this meeting.

L. P.—I am between the devil and the deep blue sea. I have been going with a certain gentleman that I like very much, we have fallen out. So I am asking you what must I do wait or seek another boy friend. I am so choicable, I am anxious to get married.

Ans: Anyone that is as anxious as you are to get married shouldn't be so choicy. Look around a bit, you have a treat coming to you.

G. H. C.—Who was the cause of my brother's death?
Ans: Your brother took his own life which proves his guilt in connection with the crime he was accused of.

P. M. S.—Why is it that when I do hit the number this man tells me that he does not get it in time? Is he trying to cheat me?
Ans: No he is not trying to. He just simply takes it. He gets you both ways, going and coming. If he had a couple of more customers like you he would retire within a year or so.

M. D.—I have trouble in my mind and a friend of mine from Florida wrote and told me what a wonderful man you was. I am going with a man and some more girls want him to go with them. He tells me he don't care for no one but me. These girls are sport girls and he passes some time with them. Please give me a hand so I can take this man and leave with him.
Ans: You have him hooked sister, now don't let him get away from you.

to make sure of landing him persuade him to leave town. The way he feels about you at the present time, it won't take much persuading. It will be pronounced man and wife in July.

K. D. S.—What do you see that would benefit me most at the present time?
Ans: Call the people that you worked for until a year or two ago. They are in need of a man and they will be tickled to death to get you back again.

START FIGHT ON POOL WHICH BARRED 2 NEGRO LADS MONDAY
NEW YORK—(CNA)—Declaring that the Bronxdale Pool was "a white man's pool," the management of that pool last Monday barred two Negro youths from the premises. The youths, Daniel Epps, 2711 Cruger Avenue, and Elmer Ames, 2800 Brons Park East, were accompanied by two white youths. The latter were admitted without question. The white youths demanded their money back and left the place when they found their companions barred.

Through an oversight at the ticket office, tickets were at first sold to Epps and Ames. The assistant manager of the pool then rushed over, seized the tickets and barred the two youths.
The pool was the scene of many sharp battles between workers and the police last Summer as indignant white and Negro workers protested the barring of Negro workers and children. The courts supported the action of the pool management, fining and jailing several militant white and Negro workers.

A few days ago a delegation of white workers from the Bronx Co. operative Colony at 2800 Bronx Park East visited the pool to contract for its use this Summer. The management offered them especially low rates, but with the provision that they must not bring Negroes along. The delegation rejected the Jim-Crow terms, demanding the right of the Negro and white workers to associate together. They denounced the discrimination against Negroes as part of the policy of the ruling class of splitting the workers and isolating the Negro toilers for a more intensive exploitation and oppression.

The action of the delegation in rejecting the Jim-Crow proposal has been endorsed by the workers of the Co-operative Colony and by a number of Bronx organizations.

The Ronald Edwards Group of the League of Struggle for Negro Rights, which has played a leading role in the struggle against the Bronxdale Pool Management, has taken steps to mobilize new sections of the Negro and white workers for the struggle to smash all Jim-Crow laws and practices against the Negro people. The L. S. N. R. group will also institute legal action against the management of the pool, as a supplement to the mass fight the names of Daniel Epps and Elmer Ames will be brought in the Action. The following white workers have announced their willingness to testify against the management: Joe Epstein, Abe Eisenman, George Weiss, David Bernstein, Sol Tobach and Israel Padalsky. F. E. A. Welsh, a member of the L. S. N. R., was also present at the time.

occasion, living on the fat of the wilderness one day and starving the next. Senor Bum eventually, through the graciousness of some Indian tribes with whom he makes friends, finds his way out to civilization and to an American Consulate where he discovers that like the prodigal son his parents have been searching everywhere for him, and with money quickly supplied he catches the first boat home to America—and the result is his very interesting book on adventure—Senor Bum in the Jungle.

UNION UNIVERSITY TO ADD TEACHER COURSE FOR ELEMENTARY INSTRUCTORS

RICHMOND, Va.—(CNS)—The school board of this city has agreed to cooperate with Virginia Union University in working out a plan for practice-teaching by students in one of the elementary schools of the city.

Dr. William J. Clark, president of the University, following the receipt of a letter to that effect from the school board announced that beginning with the fall semester, the university will offer a full course for elementary teacher, comparable to that formerly available at the Armstrong Normal school, which has been abandoned due to economic conditions. Under the former arrangement, prior to the decision of city school authorities to discontinue normal courses, the university only maintained an advanced course for high school teachers, who were allowed practice-teaching in Armstrong High school. After this they were eligible to the certificate of the State board of education without taking an examination.

"On the other hand," he explained, "Negro teachers of the elementary grades received their entire course in teaching and practice-teaching at Armstrong Normal school. With the closing of this school as a measure of city economy, the elementary teacher would have been compelled to study outside the city, which, in view of present conditions, would be impossible in the majority of cases."

To meet this emergency, Virginia Union University made the city school board the offer to give a complete elementary teacher's course, provided students were allowed to do practice-teaching in one of the elementary schools. This the board agreed to at its recent meeting.

FAMOUS PAINTING AT WORLD'S FAIR

The famous "Man With a Wine Glass" by Diego Velasquez, Spanish painter (1599-1660), which is exhibited in the Art Institute of Chicago in the great loan collection assembled for A Century of Progress—the Chicago World's Fair. The canvas was the gift of Edward Drummond Libbey to the Toledo, Ohio, Museum of Art, and was lent to A Century of Progress collection for the period of the Fair.

Sport Forecast

(EDITOR'S NOTE):—This column will be found on this page in every issue for those interested in Athletics. If you will note by the title the writer will attempt to forecast the result of the current sporting events that take place from time to time. When there is a lull in sporting events, this column will make observations of the sporting world.

One of the most discussed questions on the minds of the leading coaches and followers of track and field meets is: What do these Color boys have that they can go on smashing record after record without interruption from the leading white athletes of the world? I have heard this question argued pro and con ever since Eddie Tolan and Ralph Metcalfe electrified the sport world last July at the Olympic games. The theory has been advanced that Negroes have a knack to mimic anything they see or hear about, that their whole life is devoted to copying what others have done because Howard Drew was the first Negro sprinter of prominence they argued that all colored lads take to sprinting as a national heritage and therefore concentrate upon the line of track work to the exclusion of the middle distance and longer races and therefore, with so much attention given by one group to one particular branch of track there is no wonder that their best should be the most successful.

Others claim that the sprints do more than any other form of racing demand perfect timing and rhythm. Since there has never been a group of people that have had instinctive rhythm as the Negro, the thundering stomp of the sprinter and the thump, thump, thump of the racers feet against the cinders furnishes a perfect cadence of ragtime tune for them to use to coordinate mind and muscle. I have often wondered if these people have ever stopped to consider that our Drews, Tolans, and Metcalfes that have been and are, and our Owens, Phillips and Skinners to come, might train just a little harder, set their minds more assiduously to the task of winning, knowing that there cannot be a race that is too close or they will come out second. In this I think these people who wonder will find that the very thing that makes them wonder, is that, that makes these boys succeed—racial prejudice.

Golfers of the Club Swastika, Omaha's local colored club, are sharpening up their game for the coming central States' Tournament to be held August 6th and 7th at the Dundee Golf Course in Omaha. The Omahans feel rather confident and cocky about their sweep of the tournament held in Kansas City last month when "Gabby" Watson stroked his way to the championship class A and Bill Davis cleaned up the Class B Division. However, they should consider that the tournament there was match play and some of the best players were eliminated because of the nine hole match. The Central States is a medal play competition and calls for thirty six holes of good, steady golf.

THE UNCROWNED CHAMPION
by HARRY LEWIS

Many stories of the invincible speed matchless power, and devastating punch of the new heavyweight Champion, Primo Carnera, are being told. It is true that Primo is a big man possessing bulk enough alone to make a formidable foe to any fighter, with in the hempen strands, but it must also be considered from other angles. Carnera is the greatest drawing card in the fight game today. He is young and willing. These qualities are gold to the Madison Square Garden directors, and with Carnera as Champion, can they not readily coin it into money? The true heavyweight champion of the world is a Negro, namely Larry Gaines, weight 182. He has met and defeated every fighter of note in Europe. Among his victims, within the past six months is Primo Carnera. And according to press reports he scored a decisive and easy victory. In my opinion, Primo Carnera is only champion because of his drawing power and size, and not fighting ability.

WORLD'S HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION

by C. C. GALLOWAY
Primo Carnera will be the world's Heavyweight Champion until he retires. Anyone that saw the fight between Bearcat Wright and Primo at League park, could readily see that no average sized citizen would ever have a chance at the championship belt as long as Primo Carnera is considered in the heavyweight class. Primo was awkward in this fight, and without any scientific ability, but the force and arm reach in Primo is found in few men. His weight is not in excessive flesh. He is naturally a big boned and muscle built man.

Bearcat, heretofore had always been able to protect his face with his gloved hands. Primo Carnera, after a few jabs at Bearcat's face through his hands, discovered that Bearcat's scientific protection was just a little too much for him to open a way to get a clear cut swing or uppercut at Bearcat's face without first hitting Bearcat's fists. So Carnera made up his mind that he would two-glove Bearcat to a finish, and he mauled away at Bearcat's face and head, by striking Bearcat's hands, when he would throw them up to protect his face.

Pretty soon Bearcat became as light as a feather, and as senseless as a baby. Over the ropes he went, Bearcat was helped back into the ring and anyone could see that he was a whipped man at this point. Primo Carnera is a super-man. In size and strength, and muscle, and when the scientific trainers get through with him, he will be in a class to himself, as a heavyweight like the world has never known before. I predict that no fighter, will be able to stand in front of him for five rounds.

HEFLIN RANTS AGAINST NINE NEGRO BOYS

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Expressing a cruder lynch policy as against the more subtle lynch methods being followed by Judge James E. Horton, former U. S. Senator Thomas J. Heflin of Alabama has sent the following wire to Attorney-General Thomas E. Knight, who is seeking to electrocute the nine innocent Scottsboro boys:

"I share with you the keen disappointment and resentment that you feel over the strange and annoying action of Judge Horton in the Scottsboro rape cases, and I will be glad to assist you free of charge in having Judge Horton relieved from further consideration of these cases and in having another judge appointed to try the Scottsboro Negroes. This dallying with the Scottsboro rapists is a humiliating insult to the white race in Alabama and the very worst thing that could happen to law-abiding Negroes of this state. It is putting wicked thoughts in the minds of lawless Negro men and greatly increasing the danger to the white women of Alabama."

"Let justice be done and done speedily so there will be no more bribing of witnesses and brazen interferences with court-trials for rape in Alabama."

Earlier, in a statement to the press, Knight, whose father wrote the prevailing opinion of the Alabama Supreme Court upholding the original Scottsboro frame-up declared: "The prosecution of the Scottsboro cases will not be abated."

Heflin Prosecuted Croppers.

Heflin, known to have been for years a leader of the Ku Klux Klan in Alabama, was chief prosecutor in the recent Tallapoosa trials which resulted in five Negro sharecroppers being railroaded to prison for terms up to 12 years.

Book Review

"SENOR BUM IN THE JUNGLE" By Aldo Sand (Robert M. McBride and Co., 4 West 16th Street, New York City.)

Senor Bum, in this story, weaved around actual experiences of the author, is an American white man, possessing as his first love the spirit of adventure into unknown or unexplored regions.

We pick him up as "floater" around an American oil expedition camp in South America. In their leisure moments the men discuss hand-me-down legends of the unexplored regions up the Orinoco, down the Rio Negro and on out the mighty Amazon rivers. When our hero, not yet known as Senor Bum, learns that no white man has ever traversed portions of that country, and despite the pleadings and warnings of his fellow-men, he quits the oil expedition and single handed decides to become the first white man to cross the region.

Although he starts out with a full traveling equipment, purse and larder, under the assumed pretentious title of an American scientific explorer, he soon finds himself reduced to a state from whence comes his nick-name—Senor Bum—for virtually that is what he becomes.

His possessions which are not lost through the thievery of the natives are carried away by the swift currents of the many small rivers he is forced to cross. The money in his possession becomes of no value for the native knows not its meaning. In short, he becomes a genuine bum in the jungles.

When a white man becomes a bum he is indeed a pathetic figure in spite of his efforts to uphold and maintain the dignity and supremacy of his race. And Senor Bum was no exception but by exercising good common sense and forgetting his vaunted supremacy he learns to make friends with the various natives, Indians and Mixed Breeds—all of whom would be just an every day Negro in America as far as color is concerned.

During Senor Bum's stay in the jungle his experiences remind us of a great many books we have read of life in the wilderness of Africa. The same superstitious rituals; witchcraft; voodooism; cannibalism; murder, thievery and whatnot.

After spending eight months in the jungles, at point of death on many an

WE ARE NOT GETTING OURS

We often boast about the great advancement we have made in the last three quarters of a century; our progress in literature, science, music, medicine and other arts and professions. However, a little research will serve to show that our advancement over this period cannot be compared on par with other groups over a similar span of time. Take the prosperous immigrants for an example.

Our greatest hindrance seems to grow out of the fact that we do not inspire concentrated effort in projects which would serve to improve the economic status of our communities. Omaha's colored citizenry represents something like 12,000 people. Observe any town with a 12,000 population and find what amount of these persons are holding well paying and responsible positions. Compare their progressiveness with your own community and note how far we are behind in this struggle of human existence.

In many instances it takes the wages of from three to four of our people to pay a week's salary to outsiders who come into our section through the force of outside mass pressure and fill positions and jobs that could and should be held by our own young men and women for whom we have sacrificed to educate.

A regrettable illustration of this is to be found in our neighborhood theatre; closed now five days a week due in part to the fact that our people resent the constant paying out of their hard earned quarters and dimes, where they cannot secure desirable employment. Much undeserved criticism has been heaped upon the management of this theatre. The criticism is not merited because the management is powerless to hire colored help in the operating room, due to pressure brought on by an organization of workers who seemingly have always endeavored to keep the colored worker in the lowest class possible, even if they have to come into his own neighborhood and rob him of his inherent right to accomplish their aim. We have ample information from the management that they would be only too glad to hire colored motion picture machine operators if the fire prevention law, which from indications is an instrument in part to protect a certain class of labor, was not used as an excuse to prevent persons who are undesirable to them, from securing operator's license.

A group of skeptical citizens, desiring to test the elasticity of the law governing license to operators, selected two colored youths who have been trained in machinery, electricity and motion pictures since their school days, to take the examination. The results and elasticity was as expected; an unnecessary detailed and complicated group of tasks were set up for them. In spite of this they came within a few points of passing the test. Then, believing that maybe they were not so up-to-date, the young men spent four weeks of intense study under the supervision of a licensed operator in preparation for another examination. Those in power evidently felt that this was the time to discourage the youths once for all, so they gave them even lower grades than at first.

These two young men are determined to carry the fight against apparent discrimination to the last ditch. They have been successful in securing an appeal from the board of the city council. This is only one step toward attaining better representation in jobs CREATED BY OURSELVES, yet we all should get into the spirit of the movement as the path has no ending and offers unlimited opportunities for those youths of ours whom we educate and are educating, that they might take their rightful place among men in this city and nation.
