FATHERS HAVE HEARTS By R. A. Adams (For The Literary Service Bureau)

Prayer—A Christian Privilege and Duty For Others and for Self

By Mrs. T. H. Goodwin, St. John A. M. E. Church

Fathers have hearts, so do not tread Upon them ruthlessly, instead To them consideration show. For fathers, too, have hearts, you know.

WHAT IS PRAYER?

Prayer is a weapon with which we fight Satan and put he and his imps to flight. An armor with which we ward off Satan's fiery darts, and thus protect the temple in which God dwells.

Fathers have hearts that keenly feel Unkindness. Though they may conceal The cruel hurts they often bear. Yet, they have hearts—of this beware.

Fathers have hearts that fondly yearn For love and kindness in return. For theirs. They may not so confess, But they have hearts, nevertheless.

Remember then, and though we may Do homage to all mothers pay, Fathers who sacrifice make Have hearts that feel, and love—and break.

The Selfish Man

By R. A. Adams (For The Literary Service Bureau)

There lived a man in selfish ease, His chief ambition to appease His appetites. No care had he What might another's sorrows be.

Being unmoved by human woes, Blinded, he nothing seemed to know. Or care what other men befell, Living in selfish, narrow shell.

He died, and some were known to weep, When came the long, eternal sleep. Because by actions it was shown, He lived his life for self alone.

So shall it ever be, with all Who selfish live. When comes the call To face eternity, and, dead, The world for them no tears will shed.

Nordic Depravity

By R. A. Adams (For The Literary Service Bureau)

For sordidness and evidence of depravity, it would be difficult to find a case more pitiable than that of the two old white men in Oklahoma who traded daughters to each other.

The little eleven year old wife told the story how, on the honeymoon trip, both couples slept in the same bed—on the same pallet. This child was glad to get away from her "old man grouch" but was sad over the death of her father who was poisoned by her undesired husband.

Prayer is not only ancient, but modern. It has been the watch word of humanity from our first parents in the garden of Eden to the modern American youth of today, and will reach the heart of God who is anxious to reward every good effort on the part of his children, according to their faith.

Prayer will keep us from being ambitious to be thought what we are not, but will make us think to be what we would have others think to be.

Prayer will keep us from being ambitious to be thought what we are not, but will make us think to be what we would have others think to be.

Prayer will keep us from being ambitious to be thought what we are not, but will make us think to be what we would have others think to be.

Prayer will keep us from being ambitious to be thought what we are not, but will make us think to be what we would have others think to be.

Prayer will keep us from being ambitious to be thought what we are not, but will make us think to be what we would have others think to be.

Prayer will keep us from being ambitious to be thought what we are not, but will make us think to be what we would have others think to be.

Salem Baptist Church 22nd and Seward Street Rev. E. H. Hilson, Pastor Minnie Harris, reporter

Sunday school met at its regular hour 9:30 a. m., with superintendent Wesley presiding. Our Sunday school didn't go to South Omaha, Bethel, because of the inconvenience to get there.

At 11 a. m., our pastor brought to us a wonderful gospel message, his subject was: "Saved By Seven." He is preaching a series of "Sevens." His text was found in Acts 8:26-30.

At 8 p. m., our pastor preached a memorial sermon in honor of those who have served us in the past, his subject was: "Dying On The Mountain." Rev. Hilson also preached at Bethel Baptist Church, South Omaha, and he really did preach from the depths of his soul.

There was no B. Y. P. U. at Salem, on account of model B. Y. P. U., held at Bethel Baptist Church.

At 8 p. m., our pastor brought another powerful sermon, his subject was "No Room In The Heart For Jesus." He left for his home Sunday

St. Benedict's Church 2423 Grant Street Rev. Father J. C. Daly, Pastor Madoline Sterling, Reporter

We are pleased to have, as a vacation guest in the Parish, Mr. Robert Simpson of Bay St. Louis, Missouri, who is a student for the priesthood, in the Catholic seminary of the "Divine Word." Mr. Simpson was present at the recent ordination of five coloured young men to the Priesthood. A very pious and devout young man, who apparently is much interested in the study of this week.

The children are urged to attend the summer vocational classes, at St. Benedict's. Sewing and needle-art will be taught three mornings each week; and cooking and Home-Hygiene, will be the subjects for two mornings. The boys will be taught, interesting box construction, and Camp cookery. There will be play-ground activities
