ALABAMA SUPREME COURT DOOMS TWO SCOTTSBORO BOYS

(Continued on Page 1) "The answer to the argument," Justice Gardner held, "is that under our decisions the question is too broad and does not embrace the appropriate predicate."

Negroes Thrice Convicted Three times the Negroes have been convicted by the lower courts since they were pulled from a flight train in the mountain town of Paint Rock in 1931 and charged with a massed criminal assault on Ruby Bates and Mrs. Price.

At their first trials both women hoboes described how nine Negroes threw their white men companions from the train and then in turn participated in the attack.

Eight were convicted, the Supreme Court later ruling one of them was a juvenile. The International Labor Defense intervened and the most bitter legal fight in the state's history was on. New trials denied, the cases went to the Alabama Supreme Court, which confirmed seven of the death sentences.

The United States Supreme Court set the seven death sentences aside on November 8, 1932, holding the Negroes had not had the benefit of proper counsel, and remanded the cases for retrial. The highest court did not go into the merits of the case. Last Spring Patterson was retried, the jury convicted Patterson at his second trial and Judge Horton pronounced the death sentence April 9, only to set it aside on June 22, 1933, holding the evidence was insufficient to warrant the verdict.

Shortly before the retrials, Ruby Bates disappeared from her home in Huntsville and a widespread search failed to reveal her. Just before the defense rested in the Patterson case in April, 1933, Samuel S. Leibowitz of New York, chief of counsel retained by the International Labor Defense, asked for a brief recess, and at its conclusion Ruby Bates walked into the court room and repudiated her testimony in the original trials.

Her appearance created a sensation. She said Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the fashionable Riverside Baptist Church in New York, had advised her to return to "tell the truth" after she had gone to him with her story that Mrs. Price had concocted the attack story to prevent arrest as a vagrant.

A mild sensation was caused when the names of Negroes were found on the jury rolls. Leibowitz charged they were forgeries, and called a hand writing expert, who testified they had been added to the list.

EIGHT WHITE MEN HELD FOR LYNCHING

(Continued on Page 1) formation furnished them by a 14-year-old boy. Coffee County officers arrested eight young farmers and charged them with the murder. Among the eight was the stepfather of the boy Walls. Three other men were brothers. The men arrested were: William Peel, Edward Peel, Elijah Peel, Louis Garner, John A. Gibson, Glenn Warren, Henry Sherrill and John Henley. Gibson is the stepfather of Billy Richardson, the boy who named all eight men. Sheriff Huffman said the slaying was an act of vengeance and that he had no report of what happen to the other captive except that apparently he escaped.

Interior Department Office Urges Negroes Protest

(Continued on Page 1) aims of the Roosevelt program and assured the delegates that there was a friendly administration in Washington.

"I hope that your experience in the last year," he said, "has enabled you to be assured of the present government's inclusive and thoughtful concern about your welfare. I hope that no shortcoming which you observed and against which you must necessarily protest, has been able to cause you to doubt that you were dealing with a friendly administration. If there be any among you who have this doubt for any reason whatsoever, I am glad to be in position to give you forthright assurance that you are today moving forward under a government which in its central personnel and program bears the welfare of the colored people in its heart and on its mind.

"For this reason, I must say that I am here not merely to speak to you of the program and to commend to its spirit but to call upon you for your fullest cooperation as citizens.

"Wherever you see that these programs are operating inefficiently or hurtfully, I call upon you to let this be known to the responsible officers."

WHITE RAPS SEGREGATION: CALLS FOR UNENDING WAR

(Continued on Page 1) even in sections of the country where they realize it may take a long time to eradicate the evil. But no matter how hard the road or distant the goal must and will fight toward that objective with all let-up. Really in telligent white Americans will join in the fight.

"There can and will be no solving of the race problem, nor even any appreciable amelioration of it as long as this chasm of misunderstanding, of suspicions, of hostility, which segregation perpetuates and increases, exists.

Mr. White hailed the growth of liberalism on the race question in the south, declaring that young southern whites would be replacing in a few years, the older generation which has battered on race hatred and bigotry. It is the duty of Negroes, especially in the south, he said, to increase the number of those whites who are above race prejudice.

Formal announcement that the fight for the passage of the anti-lynching bill would be continued in the next congress and pressed without pause was made by the N. A. A. C. P. executive as he cited eight lynchings of 1934, six of which he declared were staged after it became fairly clear that congress was going to side track the Costigan-Wagner bill.

Citizens were admonished to use their vote as weapons for justice, both in the cast of candidates in the fall election and on all issues affecting the welfare of the race. Mr. White urged all candidates be forced to make known their stand on the anti-lynching bill.

Delegates were urged to return to their home communities and keep alert on the workings of the NRA, the AAA, and the PWA and other New Deal devices. They were told first to get the facts on discrimination and then to protest morning noon and night to those in authority. Sounding a final fighting note in a speech which bristled with a slashing attack on injustices inflicted upon Negroes, secretary White declared: "Only by persistent, unyielding protest will we be heard and answered. Negroes are learning this lesson at the urge of bitter necessity and suffering. Since January 1, ninety-nine new branches of the N. A. A. C. P. have been organized or are in existence indicate the grim determination of Negro and white Americans to wage an organized, relentless and unceasing campaign for justice to Negro Americans."

Forty-five minutes of Mr. White's address was broadcast without charge by station WKY, owned by the Daily Oklahoman. The meeting was held in the First Presbyterian church, white, and was addressed also by Congressman Oscar DePriest.

Delegates Horton and Simmons Returns From N. A. A. C. P. Convention

Mr. Johnny Horton and Mr. R. L. Simmons, delegates to the 25th Annual Convention of the NAACP, held in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, June 27 to July 1, returned to Omaha July 3.

DELEGATES ATTEND CONVENTION

Mr. R. S. Simmons and John B. Horton, jr. were authorized delegates from the local Omaha Branch of the NAACP National Convention held in Oklahoma City, Okla., from June 27 to July 1. The expense of the authorized delegates were graciously donated by about 52 of Omaha's NAACP loyal supporters, to the amount of $47.99. We understand that this expense went for the expense for the delegates elected by the Board of Directors, John B. Horton, we are told was an authorized delegate with entrance fees of $1.00 paid by the Association, and the other expenses were paid by himself. Mr. R. C. Price, president of the Omaha branch conducted the campaign to raise the funds with the assistance of other members.

Arrested for Vagrancy

ST. LOUIS, Mo. July 5—A colored man was arrested and charged with vagrancy. When he was brought before the Judge, he handed the judge a piece of paper and asked him to read it. The Judge read the paper which stated, "Turn this man free"—signed Franklin Delano Roosevelt. The Judge said, "If you are a friend of the presidents, you should have a hundred dollars to pay your fine." There was no answer from the defendant. Thirty days in the work house. Next case.

Georgia 'Brain Trust' Says 'New Deal' Here to 'Stay by 'Peace or War'

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 6—(CNS)—"The new deal," says Dr. S. V. Sanford, president of the University of Georgia, "is here to stay either as a peaceful or as a bloody revolution, and it rests with the press to educate the public to make it a peaceful one." This warning was sounded here in a short extemporaneous speech at the closing session of the Georgia Press Association. The University President declared that "President Roosevelt is the only example of creative statesmanship this country has produced in my lifetime.

"The new deal, he added, "represents progress as against stagnation. It is a program to reconcile peacefully the conflicting interests and to redistribute America's abundance. It is here to stay either as a peaceful or as a bloody revolution, and it rests with the press to educate the public to make it a peaceful one."
